DEMOCRATS FLOCK TO DAYTON TO HEAR COX SPEECH TODAY

Tumulty and State Leaders Arrive—Meredith Predicts Party Victory in Iowa.

NOMINEE HERE AUGUST 28

He Promises to Make an Address at the Police Field Meet at Gravesend.

SPEAKS ELSEWHERE IN EAST

Much Interest in the Reported Late Insert in Today's Address.

Special to The New York Times.

DAYTON, Ohio, Aug. 6.—The clans are gathering this evening in preparation for the ceremonies tomorrow when Governor James M. Cox will be formally notified of his nomination by the Democratic Party for the Presidency.

The "band wagon" rattled and clattered throughout the day from the railroad station to the Miami and Gibbons Hotels, loaded to overflowing on each trip. The leaders are coming in from every part of the country.

Joseph P. Tumulty, Secretary to President Wilson, arrived today, having driven from Washington by automobile to attend the ceremonies, accompanied by Mrs. Tumulty and some of his close friends. His presence here is considered significant of how the President feels. The leaders who have arrived on the scene early are predicting victory.

Senator James A. Reed of Missouri, treaty irreconcilable, is among those here. He is expected to do his best to help carry his State for Governor Cox. He called at the office of the Daily News today to see the Governor and later visited the Governor at Trails End. It is said that Reed brings reports that the Republican Party in Missouri is split by the recent revelations concerning the use of money in the pre-convention fight, and that the Democrats are confident that Missouri will be found in the Democratic column in the Fall.

McAdoo and Palmer Men There.

As to McAdoo, Palmer and Bryan, who are not to be present when Governor Cox is notified, it is pointed out here that McAdoo has promised to stump the country for Cox if such is the desire of the National Committee, and Palmer has pledged his support. Bryan, in refusing the nomination for President at the hands of the Prohibition Party, gave distinct help to the chances of Governor Cox.

The McAdoo forces are well represented here. Among the former McAdoo men on the ground are Thomas Love, who held the Texas delegation of forty at the San Francisco convention—the delegation which formed the backbone of the McAdoo candidacy. Another is National Committeeman Amidon of Kansas. Still another is Arthur F. Mullen of Nebraska, who tried to rally the fragments of that delegation for McAdoo at San Francisco.

The Palmer forces have assurances of support and the promise of a delegation at tomorrow's ceremonies from Pennsylvania.

Secretary of Agriculture Meredith, who was talked of for President, and also for Vice-President, at San Francisco, was one of the first to reach Dayton today. He came enthusiastic over the chances of Governor Cox carrying Iowa.

"Governor Cox is a vigorous, progressive Democrat," said Secretary Meredith, "who will appeal to the Middle West rather than Senator Harding, who shows by everything he does and says that he represents the reaction of the old days. The Governor's militant spirit, which will pervade the country when he begins his stumping campaign, will find hearty response in the Middle West."

Mr. Mullen expressed similar views about the situation in Nebraska. He said that he was more than satisfied with Governor Cox's stand on the big issues of the day and that there had been the sharpest kind of reaction among Republicans when the announcement of Harding's nomination at Chicago was made. Mullen said that many of the Republicans in his State had expressed the opinion then that things could not have been bungled much worse at Chicago by the leaders, and that they had not changed their minds since.

Another visitor who attracted attention was ex-Congressman "Jack" Beal of Texas, a friend of Senator Joseph W. Bailey. Beal was talking about the satisfaction in his State, which, he said, was felt over the nomination of Cox. Senator Gerry of Rhode Island was another early arrival. He also was talking about victory and a reunited party.

Cox to Speak at Gravesend Aug. 28.

Senator Pat Harrison of Mississippi came with Chairman George White of the Democratic National Committee. They have been in the East and brought cheering news of the "drift" to Governor Cox, as they termed it. Senator Harrison was ready to bet that Cox would carry New York State, and Chairman White was willing to back him up. They went into conference with Governor Cox to discuss campaign plans. One of the first things which was suggested to the Governor was that he fill a speaking engagement at the police force field meet at Gravesend, L. I., on Aug. 28. To this he agreed. Chairman White said that he expected at least 100,000 persons at the field meet.

Governor Cox was in high spirits as a result of the reports of party accord

Sweep for Obregon Party In the Mexican Elections

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

MEXICO CITY, Aug. 6.—Official returns of the election held here on Sunday show that the Liberal Constitutional Party, known as the original Obregon Party, made a clean sweep, winning ten out of twelve seats in Congress and the Senate from Mexico City.

Fernand Iglesias Calderon, now acting special agent with the American Government, was elected to the Senate by a large majority. José I. Lugo, recently appointed as Secretary of the Interior, was also elected.

$200,000 LIQUORS SEIZED IN 3 RAIDS

Prohibition Agents Visit One Place Three Times, Taking 1,200 Cases of Whisky.

MORE RAIDS IN NEW JERSEY

Nine Saloons Are Entered in Elizabeth and Two Hotels in Passaic by Revenue Men.

Prohibition enforcement agents within the last three days have seized 1,284 cases of liquor valued at $200,000 at the establishment of Arthur Kraus Company, 91 Avenue B, which deals in nonbeverage alcohol, and five arrests have been made. The defendants yesterday gave bail in the sum of $500 each before Commissioner Hitchcock for hearing on Aug. 18.

The defendants are Jerome Kraus, connected with the company; Edward Morse, said to be his assistant, who are charged with illegal possession of liquors containing more than one-half of one per cent. of alcohol; Albert White and George Scott, two negro drivers in the employ of the company, and a man named Charles Kurtzman. Prohibition agents say that in the arrest of Kurtzman they found important papers concerning the business of Arthur Kraus Company. The officers say that while they were in the rear of the place many orders for delivery of liquors came over the telephone.

When the agents first called at the place a few days ago they seized forty-nine cases of whisky, which was loaded on a truck in front of the place. On the second visit they seized 330 cases of whisky and two barrels of liquor, which were found on the ground floor and in the basement. The third visit on Thursday netted the agents 905 cases of cognac, Scotch and other liquors, making a total of 1,284 cases.

Benson Labertz, 43 years old, of 73 Johnson Street, Brooklyn, who, the police say, has been an internal revenue agent for the last five months, was arrested yesterday on complaint of John Griffin, a saloonkeeper of 1,579 Second Avenue. He is charged with attempted extortion. Arraigned before Magistrate William A. Sweetser in Harlem Court, he was held in $1,000 bail for hearing next Thursday.

Peter J. Cravin, 38 years old, a watchman of 47 Johnson Street, Brooklyn, mentioned in the same complaint, was held in $1,000 bail for hearing with Labertz. The saloon proprietor testified that Labertz, accompanied by Cravin, pretended to arrest him early yesterday on a charge of selling liquor. According to Griffin, Labertz suggested settlement on the basis of $200.. Griffin said he prolonged the conversation by persuading Labertz to cut his figure in half and in the meantime sent for a policeman.

The men were placed under arrest by Patrolman John Dowd of the East Eighty-eighth Street Station. Labertz denied the charge and explained that he had merely dropped into Griffin's place to get a drink.

ELIZABETH, Aug. 6.—Nine Elizabeth saloons this afternoon were raided by prohibition agents from Philadelphia, headed by George A. Demo of the New York enforcement office and J. G. Sloanecker of Philadelphia. The value of the liquor seized is estimated at $15,000. The proprietors of these establishments were notified to appear next Wednesday before Frank J. Pfaff, United States Commissioner: August Wittman, Burkely Hotel, 221 Broad Street; Louis Kloepfer, 349 Elizabeth Avenue; Ewald Broeker, 801 Elizabeth Avenue; "John Doe," 959 Elizabeth Avenue; Carroll & Hynes, 1,226 East Broad Street; Arthur Fagen, 846 Elizabeth Avenue; Catherine Horan, 5 Broad Street, and John J. OPEN FIRE ON MOB IN DENVER RIOTS; 3 KILLED, 13 HURT

Volley Meets an Assault on Car Barn When Strike Outbreak Is Resumed.

MACHINE GUNS ARE POSTED

LEADERS CALL OFF STRIKE

Act After Judge Orders It, Declaring Them in Contempt of Court.

DENVER, Aug. 6.—Three men were killed and thirteen injured when rioting was resumed by striking street car men and their sympathizers at the East Side car barns tonight.

The mob advanced toward the barns and was met with a volley of rifle fire from the inside.

Two were killed on the spot were Daniel Flanigan and Charles Hanson of Denver. In adition John Collins quickly die from wounds.

A crowd of several hundred gathered about the barns early in the evening but contented itself with shouting until shortly before 8:30 o'clock, when an effort was made to close in on the barns. The move was met with a fusillade of shots from those protecting the barns. A detachment of armed police was on duty at the barns and the 150 strikebreakers housed there also were armed.

Court Intervenes in Strike.

Judge Greeley M. Whitford, in the District Court this afternoon, ordered leaders of the striking street car workers to recall immediately the order issued last Sunday for a strike on the Denver tramway system. The Judge found seven officers and Executive Committeemen of the carmen's union guilty of contempt for calling the strike. They were Henry Silberg, J. A. Parker, J. E. Barnett, A. Coffeen, J. E. McKiddie, L. J. Seigrest and S. H. Schoeplin.

The strike leaders were alleged to have violated an injunction secured by the city several weeks ago restraining the company from reducing wages and the men from striking. The men are now striking for higher pay.

As a result of the Judge's action the strike was called off by the Executive Committee of the Tramwaymen's Union just before midnight tonight. The men will meet at 9 o'clock tomorrow morning to confirm the action of the Executive Committee.

Federal Troops to be Sent.

Five hundred Federal troops have been ordered to leave Camp Funston, Kan., for Denver not later than tomorrow morning, according to a telegram received tonight by Governor Shoup from the Central Department of the United States Army at Chicago.

Most of the men are from the Thirty-fourth, Fifty-fifth, Fifty-sixth and Sixty-fourth Regiments of infantry. The regiments have been stationed at Camp Funston since their return from France and practically all of the men are veterans of the World War.

The Chief of Staff at Chicago also authorized Governor Shoup to call on Fort Logan, just outside of Denver, for troops for immediate use, but no call has been made so far.

Downtown Denver is a heavily armed camp tonight. Armored tank cars, mounted with Browning machine guns capable of firing 500 shots a minute, are patrolling the streets.

Fearless men, aroused by the menace to life and property created by the riots, are armed with sawed-off shotguns and have orders to shoot to kill if necessary. Many volunteers, private citizens who jumped into the breach and offered their services to the city, a number of whom have looked over No Man's Land at German trenches, are carrying Enfield and Springfield rifles, lent to the city by the military authorities at Fort Logan.

Besides those mounted on trucks, machine guns were stationed on the tops of buildings near possible riot centres.

The organization of a special civilian police force, 1,000 strong, was completed by Manager of Safety Frank M. Downer and Chief of Police Armstrong this afternoon. The men, armed with pistols and rifles, are divided into

30,000 to Greet Mannix at Liverpool; Destroyers to Escort His Ship as Precaution

Copyright, 1920, by The New York Times Company.
Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Aug. 6.—A surprising step has been taken by the British naval authorities in regard to the arrival in England of Archbishop Mannix on the Baltic. Destroyers are to be dispatched from Queenstown to meet the Baltic and convoy her to Liverpool as a matter of precaution.

It is estimated that when Mannix lands at Liverpool, probably on Sunday, he will be greeted by 30,000 Sinn Fein sympathizers. Among those who intend to join in the welcome are the Lord Mayor of Dublin, who with five members of the corporation will cross from Ireland tomorrow.

P. J. Kelly, President of the Irish Self-Determination League, says that an outline of the program is to be sent out to the Archbishop by wireless tomorrow with the object of securing his approval.

The address will be presented to him by Canon Madden, his cousin, who comes from Charleville, the birthplace of the prelate. Other addresses will be presented by the Self-Determination League, the Irish societies of Liverpool and similar bodies, after which the Archbishop will be accompanied to his hotel by the whole of the organizations present, marching in processions. One hundred Sinn Fein flags will be carried.

So far there are no signs that any opposition will be offered to this demonstration, but there is an uneasy feeling in Liverpool that a conflict may occur. The Orange faction is very strong among the riverside workers.

CORK, Aug. 6.—Although ocean liners usually wireless their position to Ireland two days before their arrival at Queenstown, no word has been received from the Baltic, with Archbishop Mannix aboard.

Despite the fact that the Baltic will not stop at Queenstown, preparations for the reception of Mannix will be carried out. Bonfires are to be lighted in every parish of Cork County.

BILL TO CURB IRISH ADOPTED, 206 TO 18

JOSEPH DEVLIN SUSPENDED

Copyright, 1920, by The New York Times Company.
Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Aug. 6.—The bill setting up special courts in Ireland passed the House of Commons this afternoon under closure by a majority of 206 to 18, after the Nationalists and Labor members had walked out of the House following a dramatic scene in which Joseph Devlin, Nationalist member for Belfast, attacked Premier Lloyd George and defied the Chair, only to be suspended. Aside from the Devlin incident, the discussion of the measure was for the most part placid and businesslike.

Devlin called attention to the absence from the debate of the Premier, of Bonar Law, leader of the House, and of Herbert Asquith, leader of the Opposition. He declared Lloyd George was treating the House with contempt by leaving it "to concoct elsewhere another war against Russia."

He asked why Bonar Law and Asquith were not present to share responsibility for "one of the most infamous transactions of which any Government had been guilty." He invited the House to send for the Premier.

As he spoke a steady roar of anger and expostulation greeted him. Deputy Speaker J. H. Whitley arose from his chair, but Devlin paid no attention to him. Members near him tried to calm him, but he continued to pour forth invectives and charges. It was impossible at times to hear from the gallery what he was saying, but he at one point called above the shouts of "Order! Order!": "What do you care for order, you who have created disorder in Ireland?"

James M. Hogge, one of the leading members of the opposition, intervened after Devlin had been shouting for ten minutes, and reminded him that he had always shown respect for the Chair.

"Yes, I have always shown respect for the Chair," was the retort, "but under normal sensible conditions."

The Deputy Speaker then called on Devlin to withdraw.

Instead he sat down stolidly with folded arms. The deputy sergeant-at-arms in his court dress, with sword at his side, came up and expostulated with him for two or three minutes. He argued in vain and as he withdrew Devlin shouted after him, "Bring in your army of occupation!"

The Speaker was then summoned and after he had taken the chair he put a motion that Devlin be suspended. It was greeted with a chorus of "Ayes" from the Government benches and loud yells of "No" from the Labor Party. The motion was carried by 229 to 43, and Devlin at once rose and marched from the House.

As he went practically all the Labor members followed him, with T. P. O'Connor and a few Irish Nationalists falling in behind.

The House then settled down to a somewhat academic discussion of courts-martial, war experience playing a great part. Amid few cries of "gag" the amendment under discussion was voted down and the House set itself to dispose of the measure as quickly as possible.

LONDON, Aug. 6 (Associated Press).—An ineffectual attempt to induce the Government to limit operation of the Irish coercion bill to one year was made in the Commons today by Sir Donald MacLean, who moved an amendment to this effect, declaring that to place Ireland under permanent martial law would strike a blow at any future attempt at rapprochement between the two peoples.

Sir Hamar Greenwood, Chief Secretary for Ireland, opposing this amendment, said the Government would consider the matter, and it is hoped it would be possible to repeal the act before a year expired.

The amendment was rejected by a large majority.

Text of the Coercion Bill.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 6 (Associated Press).—Any persons upon whom sentences of imprisonment have been passed in Ireland would be conveyed to and detained in any prison in the United Kingdom under the terms of the Irish Coercion bill which passed the third reading today in the British House of Commons and the text of which was made public here today by the British Embassy. This section of the measure applies to persons already sentenced as well as those who may hereafter be sentenced.

In general the new law would transfer the duties of Crown tribunals in Ireland to court-martial. The military courts also would take over the duties of coroners and would have the power to decide cases without jury.

The text of the bill follows:

"(1) Where it appears to his Majesty in Council that owing to the existence of a state of disorder in Ireland the ordinary law is inadequate for the prevention and punishment of crime or the maintenance of order, his Majesty in

Report Polish Government Has Left Warsaw for Posen

JOHANNISBURG, East Prussia, Aug. 6 (Associated Press).—A report that the Polish Government has fled to Posen, and that the Soviet forces are only forty kilometers (25 miles) from Warsaw, is printed in the Johannisburger Zeitung today.

The report is alleged to have emanated in Warsaw.

The Warsaw correspondent of the newspaper says that the fall of Warsaw is imminent, that the Bolsheviki are still advancing, and that it is believed they have cut off the escape of the Polish troops into the Polish corridor.

According to the correspondent, Polish workers have issued a proclamation urging the workers to accept Soviet principles. The dispatch says nothing has been heard about an armistice.

PARIS, Aug. 6.—Scanty reports received today in the French capital from the scene of the Polish military activities put the situation in a brighter light. The first army under General Haller has attacked the Russians along the River Bug and driven them back across the stream at several points. The Russian cavalry drive at Mlawa on the Warsaw-Danzig Railroad has not succeeded.

While the Poles have not won any startling victories, the impression of French officials is that the defenders are stiffening before the danger to their capital.

It is also reported that the Russian infantry is worn out and the cavalry is tired. Their lines of communication are not good and every mile forward they go increases their difficulties.

Evidently the whole situation in Poland hinges on the developments of the next two or three days.

Red Army Preparing Attack.

PARIS, Aug. 6 (Associated Press).—The fate of Warsaw still hangs in the balance. The latest news reaching Paris tonight, which was somewhat sparse, indicates that the Bolsheviki are making little progress, that the impulse which carried them forward continuously during the past week has spent itself, but that they apparently are gathering force for a fresh onslaught.

Military observers here still cherish the hope that the situation may yet be saved.

Advices received by the French Foreign Office from the Polish front give the impression that there has been a lull in the fighting and stabilization of the line during the past two days. The enemy artillery apparently is short of ammunition and there has been delay in bringing up guns and shells to a position from which they can be rushed for the final dash to within shelling range of Warsaw. Airplane scouts over the Red line, probably members of the Kosciusko Squadron, report a heavy movement across the Bug River of stores of ammunition, guns and materials of all kinds by the enemy.

Several squadrons of cavalry are reported to have been bivouacing on the same spot for the last twenty-four hours, resting.

The Foreign Office has no official confirmation of a report received from Warsaw that General Maxime Weygand, assistant to Marshal Foch, has offered to assume supreme command of the Polish Army.

No official Bolshevist communication concerning the fighting was picked up by the Eiffel Tower wireless station from Moscow today. The only message received confined itself to reporting the meeting of the Third Internationale and a protest against "Polish atrocities."

"The situation of the Polish Armies, although most critical, by no means is desperate," writes General Delacroix in the Temps. "Since they still have resources and are disputing foot by foot all the territory of the Vistula and the San, all depends on their powers of resistance and the means at their disposal. In war despair is only justified when moral strength and the power of a reaction are destroyed. That is not the case with Poland."

LONDON, Aug. 6.—A semi-official message from Warsaw, filed last night, says the Poles have evacuated Ostrov.

Russians Aim to Re-establish Frontiers of 1914, Deserters Tell German Border Guards

JOHANNISBURG, East Prussia, Aug. 5 (Associated Press).—Deserters from the Bolshevist Army reaching here assert that the plans of the Russian General Staff are to delay an armistice with Poland while the boundaries of Russia are re-established as they existed in 1914.

The Intelligence Service of the German Frontier Police, which is understood to be in reliable communication with Bolshevist Russia, substantiates these reports, saying the plans are well known to the Russian people, who have been told that when they are fulfilled "all warring will cease."

The Frontier Police here reported yesterday that from 30,000 to 40,000 Russian soldiers and a brigade of artillery passed in a southeasterly direction, presumably to reinforce the right centre line. The extreme right wing of the Russian cavalry today passed twenty kilometres (12½ miles) from Johannisburg. The troopers were plainly visible from the frontier as they advanced. They appeared to be well armed and provisioned, but were clothed in all kinds of uniforms and other apparel.

ITALY TO RECEIVE RUSSIAN AGENT

Foreign Minister Declares Against Any Interference with Soviet System.

ITALIAN GOING TO MOSCOW

Communist Movement Must Be Allowed to Develop in Its Own Way, Chamber Is Told.

ROME, Aug. 6.—A strong plea in favor of allowing Russia to develop her Government along her own lines without foreign interference was made by Count Sforza, Minister of Foreign Affairs, in a speech to the Chamber today. He declared this formed the basis of the Italian policy in admitting a Russian representative to Italy and the sending of an Italian emissary to Russia.

After expressing hope for a speedy peace between Russia and Poland and an independent Poland in accordance with the Versailles Treaty, Count Sforza deprecated the employment either of what Premier Clemenceau called "a barbed wire cordon" or of the blockade against Russia. He declared the former had failed, while the latter gave the Bolsheviki moral advantages which far outweighed any material damages they suffered.

Either policy, he said, was opposed to the temperament of the Italian nation, which, he explained, had always sympathized with people whom it believed subjected to violent pressure from a foreign nation.

"The Russian Communist movement must be allowed to develop freely to its conclusion," the Foreign Minister asserted.

"Its death or its maintenance must depend solely upon itself. It must not be made a martyr. The more free are our relations with Russia the less will we be departing from our time-honored tradition. With that object in view we concluded an agreement with the Moscow Government for the admission of a Russian representative to Italy and an Italian representative to Russia to secure the development of the economic relations between the two countries.

"The Russian representative is now expected and we will do our best to facilitate his journey. He will enjoy the greatest hospitality in this country, but, of course, it is understood he in no way will interfere with our internal affairs.

"Whether he Russians favor it or whether they are merely putting up with it, the Soviet Government exists, and we cannot desire that Europe continue to live in assumed ignorance of Russia."

DENY GERMAN-SOVIET TREATY.

East Prussian Commissioner Wants Troops if Allies Leave.

PARIS, Aug. 6.—Reports emanating from London that Germany and the Soviet Government of Russia concluded an agreement relative to Poland before the beginning of the Soviet offensive against that country are denied by the semi-official Wolff News Bureau, according to a Berlin dispatch.

BERLIN, Aug. 5.—Refugees reaching the frontier of East Prussia from Pinsk are reporting an acute food shortage in territories evacuated by the Poles. The retreating armies are said to have taken all the grain and food they could find. Although crops in Volhynia are far below the average, grain is being requisitioned by the advancing Soviet armies, and it is feared that famine in Western Russia will force large numbers of the people to flee into Germany.

General Baron von Gayl, German Commissioner for the East Prussia plebiscite district, purposes to call for Government troops in the event of an emergency, or in case the Interallied Commission there withdraws its patrols from the frontier. Italian troops are expected to leave Allenstein on Aug. 9, and British forces there will follow soon afterward, it is reported.

BOLSHEVIKI MOVE TO AID MOSLEMS

Force of Reds Advances on Teheran and Persian Capital and Court Will Flee.

PART OF BIG RED PROJECT

Lenin Said to Have Promised 120,000 Men to Oppose British and French.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 6.—The successes of the Red army in Poland have had the effect of encouraging the Bolshevist military forces elsewhere to attempt new conquests. The State Department received dispatches today telling of an advance of the Soviet forces in Persia toward Tabriz and Kazbin. Teheran, the Persian capital, is menaced and the Shah and his government are preparing to flee.

One dispatch came from the American Minister, John L. Caldwell, and said that while the Soviet army was advancing on Tabriz and the capital, the commanders of the mixed British and French forces hoped to check it. The Shah's Government, Minister Caldwell added, was contemplating a movement southward. The foreign legations expected to accompany the Government. The confidence expressed by the British military authorities was not shared by the public, according to Mr. Caldwell.

Gordon Paddock, consul at Tabriz, cabled that the British colony there had been ordered by the legation to leave and would depart on Monday under military escort. The danger of the situation was increasing, said the consul, and escape might be difficult. Consul Paddock and his vice counsul, supposed to be John C. Higdon, are leaving Tabriz with their families.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 6 (Associated Press).—Soviet Russia has followed up its successes against Poland with a thrust into Southwestern Asia. This rather unexpected move by the Bolsheviki is believed by some officials here to be directed against British and French domain in the Near East and Asia.

Official observers conceded that the opening of a new theatre of warfare by the Bolsheviki had complicated an already grave situation in Europe and the Near East. They also held the opinion that this latest development would serve to hasten a decision by the Allied Governments as to general measures to be taken to check the Soviet menace.

Military experts think that in their advance into Southwestern Asia the Bolsheviki will undertake to unite with the Turkish Nationalists and other discontented Moslem elements in a supreme effort to take advantage of the unrest in that part of the world.

According to official advices to the State Department, Lenin has offered 120,000 troops to the Moslems for the promotion, in conjunction with the Nationalists of Egypt, Turkey, Arabia, Mesopotamia and Persia, of a united military effort against British and French interests.

A unit of this army has already entered Armenia and is expected to continue its advance in the direction of Mosul, an important Nationalist stronghold where forces of Turkish and Egyptian Nationalists are reported to have planned to converge. With this thrust against the left flank of the British defense line of Asia, the present advance on Teheran is looked upon by military men as a movement against the British right flank, resting upon the edge of the Persian Salt Desert.

The advance into Persia is expected to follow southeastwardly from Teheran to Meshed and thence toward Herat in Afghanistan with the objective of reaching the terminus of a railroad from India to Persia, built by Great Britain during the war. The railroad is believed to have been completed to a point parallel with Herat, south of Meshed, thereby offering the most feasible route in Southern Asia into India.

British forces in Persia at this time are believed by military men to consist of only about 7,000 men, most of them Indian troops. Augmenting these is a force of about 9,000 troops known as "Persian Rifles."

POLISH CRISIS IS EASIER

After Long Conference, New Conciliatory Note Is Sent to Moscow.

REPLY IS DUE TOMORROW

Lloyd George and Millerand Will Meet Same Day—Former Striving for Peace.

SOVIET REPEATS PROMISES

Will Respect Polish Independence, Note Says, but Asks Guarantees Against Attack.

Copyright, 1920, by The New York Times Company.
Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Aug. 6.—Mr. Lloyd George and M. Millerand will meet at Folkestone on Sunday to discuss the Polish situation, which it is generally believed is the pivotal question upon which the destinies of Europe turn.

Tonight there is a more hopeful feeling about developments than was the case yesterday. The full text of the note from Kameneff and Krassin shows the Soviet Government is taking a more conciliatory tone than in previous messages, but on the other hand, in official quarters here it is still regarded as unsatisfactory, in that it puts the onus of stopping the advance on Warsaw on the Poles and gives no explicit assurance that the allied power are to be included in the discussion of the fundamental conditions of peace between Russia and Poland.

Kameneff and Krassin had a conference extending over five hours with Lloyd George and Bonar Law at Downing Street today. It was stated at the conclusion of the protracted meeting that the door was still open for the exchange of views and perhaps for modification of the situation.

New Reply Awaited.

The Rusian delegates are sending another wireless communication to Moscow and asking for an early reply which can be considered by Lloyd George and Millerand when they meet at Folkestone on Sunday.

Outside of those quarters where, from political or other motives, Lloyd George's policy toward Soviet Russia is held up to obloquy, there is a tendency to lay much of the blame for recent developments at the door of the Poles. It was stated today that the Poles had agreed to send delegates to Minsk if the Bolsheviki would agree to accept the Polish peace conditions in principle. While on the one hand the Soviet Government offered Poland independence and ethnographical frontier, there was no indication from Warsaw as to the details of the Polish peace proposals. The military success which the Polish armies are reported to have had along the line of the Bug may, it is suggested, stimulate Warsaw's endeavors to prolong the struggle with the object of forcing the Allies into actual intervention.

The British Government will only intervene actively if no other resolution is possible. The Labor Party spoke out bluntly today against drifting into another war for the sake of Poland, and public opinion in the country generally would view with extreme reluctance any proposal to call for volunteers or introduce a conscription act for the defense of a country which began a militaristic adventure against the advice of the western Allies.

Britain Seeks to Avoid Conflict.

The Daily Chronicle, which voices the opinion of the Prime Minister, says:

"For the present we must be thankful for the fact that we are still in communication with the Soviet Government and we may hope from their more conciliatory tone that happier counsels are prevailing with them. If that is so we are certain there is nothing which the British Government will welcome more than an honorable settlement.

"At all times we must not lose sight of the fact that our own Government has not the last word in these negotiations. Great Britain is one and one only of the Allies and if anything is certain in these troublous days it is that the peace of Europe can only be maintained by preserving the closest co-operation between this country, France and Italy. That is why we would reserve judgment until Mr. Lloyd George has held the conference with M. Millerand which is likely to take place next Sunday or the following Monday. He has promised to make a full statement of the position. Knowing as we do how keenly he has worked for the inclusion of Russia and Poland in the peace of Europe we may be sure he will overlook no honorable road to peace."

LONDON, Aug. 6 (Associated Press).—The Polish crisis is still grave, but as a result of today's developments it is regarded as being easier. There has been no rupture in the negotiations with the Russian delegation. Much, it is now held, will depend on the attitude of France.

It is believed that if France is willing, Mr. Lloyd George will agree to peace being negotiated direct by Poland and Russia. It is generally granted that in accordance with the practice of previous wars, Russia is not called upon to suspend operations until an armistice is signed. The Polish delegates to the Bolshevist conference were expected to arrive in Minsk today and begin negotiations.

Field Marshal Wilson was early summoned to the joint conference at Downing Street, which lasted from 3:15 this afternoon until after 9 o'clock tonight, and the fact that he, with Mr. Bonar Law, remained until the end, is taken as indication that military questions were fully discussed. Premier Lloyd George had intended to leave town early today for a week-end in the country, but when his car arrived he ordered it sent away.

It is semi-officially denied that the British Government ever threatened to reimpose the Russian blockade in event of Soviet refusal of the allied terms. Such a blockade, it is declared, may have been mentioned, but only as a potential weapon at the disposal of the Allies.

The semi-official statement says the terms of the communication sent to Moscow cannot be published before its receipt by the Soviet Government, but states that all evidence points in the direction of a sincere and patient attempt to find a satisfactory solution of an admittedly difficult problem. Belief is expressed by the statement that a message to Moscow was drawn up by Mr. Lloyd George and agreed to by the Russian delegates.

Warsaw dispatches say that the Bolshevist offensive on the River Bug has been arrested. It is clear that the Poles are putting up bitter resistance.

Moscow Still Offers Peace.

Kameneff sent Premier Lloyd George last night a long communication giving the Soviet Government's reply to Great Britain's note of Tuesday with regard to the delay in the armistice negotiations between Russia and Poland.

M. Kameneff's statement declares the Soviet Government never desired to combine the negotiations for an armistice with negotiations for peace, but that it demands that the terms of the armistice include reasonable guarantees which would prevent attempts on the part of Poland to use the period of the armistice for the renewal of hostile acts.

The sole obstacle in the way of the beginning of negotiations for the suspension of military operations, says the note, is the absence of the Polish delegates, whose return is being awaited by the representatives of the Soviet Government in order that negotiations may be immediately opened.

The note continues:

"The Russian Soviet Government again declares that it is firm in the recognition of the freedom and independence of Poland, and its willingness to grant to the Polish State wider frontiers than were indicated by the Supreme Council and mentioned in the British note of July 20."

With regard to the proposed London peace conference the note says in substance that the Soviet Government had proposed that the conference be only with the leading powers of the Entente, because the usefulness of such a conference arose from the fact that without the assistance of the leading powers war could not be waged by other States against Russia, and so the peace of Europe would be guaranteed. The Kameneff statement continues:

"We are still of the opinion that direct negotiations with Poland for peace would serve the interests both of the Russian and Polish peoples."

The conference in London between Russia and the leading powers of the Entente, says the communication, "would have for its object the regularization of the international position of Russia and the settlement of all outstanding questions between her and the Allies, for the benefit of general peace."

Ask Partial Disarmament.

The guarantees the Soviet Government desires are that Poland will not use the armistice period for a renewal of hostilities, it is set forth, include her partial disarmament and the cessation of the recruiting of conscript soldiers as well as voluntary enrollments.

M. Kameneff also refers to his interview with Premier Lloyd George on Wednesday night and states that he forwarded to the Soviet Government the Premier's statement "with regard to the decision of the British Government to side with Poland and to renew the blockade in consequence of the invasion of ethnographic Poland by the troops of the Soviet Government."

Of the guarantees desired, M. Kameneff says:

"The history of the Polish attacks upon Russia, the patent facts of systematic and uninterrupted assistance to Poland on the part of France, and the presence on the right wing of the Polish Army of the troops of General Wrangel, who also is supported by the French Government, render it a matter of necessity for the Russian Soviet Government to demand the inclusion in the terms of the armistice with Poland of such reasonable guarantees as would prevent all attempts on the part of Poland to use the armistice period for the renewal of hostile acts against Russia."

M. Kameneff states that it was the absence of powers to deal with such questions that led to the Soviet asking the Polish delegates to obtain an extension of their powers from their Government.

The Soviet delegates proposed that wireless be used and the negotiations for an armistice be begun as soon as Warsaw replied that a courier had left there with new credentials, M. Kameneff says. He adds that the Polish delegates declined and returned to Warsaw. M. Kameneff continues:

"One is indeed justified in inferring from the conduct of the Polish delegates, who preferred to return to Warsaw, that the Polish Government is speculating on foreign assistance and delaying armistice and peace negotiations in expectation of it."

M. Kameneff says international law shows no case in which a belligerent has suspended military operations before the conclusion of an armistice, therefore it is natural that the Soviet continue its advance, "which, being purely a military operation, does not in the least prejudice a peace treaty and does not constitute an attempt against the independence and integrity of the Polish State.

"The Soviet Government more than once has pledged itself fully to respect the independence of Poland and the right of her people to political self-determination," he says, "and intended the terms of armistice and peace should in no way include any restriction of the Polish people in this respect."

Labor Party Fights Intervention.

Members of the Trades Union Congress Parliamentary Committee and members of the Labor Party have been recalled by telegraph from Geneva to meet in London early next week to consider the Russian situation.

Meanwhile a strongly worded manifesto, signed by eight members of the House of Commons and eight other labor leaders, including James O'Grady, John Robert Clynes, George Lansbury, Tom Mann and Arthur Henderson, has been issued warning the British public against the possibility of drifting into another war, and declaring that labor will not co-operate in a war supporting Poland, which they accuse of warring for self-aggrandizement.

"At present," the manifesto concludes, "we can ill-afford to spare even a few thousand men or a few million pounds from our depleted financial resources to suit the whims and caprices of the French military faction who are at the back of this Polish enterprise."

The Polish Legation in London tonight issued a statement controverting the communication of M. Kameneff to Premier Lloyd George, as far as it concerns allegations against the Poles.

The statement purports to prove by explanation that the delay in the armistice negotiations was not due to the Poles, but to the Russians. It also charges untruths against the Soviet Government with reference to the powers of the delegates and concerning other matters.

WRANGEL DEFEATS REDS.

Capture of 4,000 Prisoners by Him in the South Reported.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Aug. 5.—Armies of the Russian Soviet Government which have been engaged in fighting General Wrangel's forces in Southern Russia have been completely defeated, according to a telegram from General Wrangel, which has been received here.

The anti-Bolsheviki have captured 4,000 prisoners, 30 cannon, 150 machine guns, 4 trains, 5 armored cars and a great quantity of war material, it is said. Pursuit of the Bolsheviki, it is declared, continues.

WILSON CONFERS ON POLISH CRISIS

President and Colby Believed to Have Considered Ways to Help Warsaw.

ADVICES ARE MORE HOPEFUL

But a Grave View Is Still Taken by Washington of the Possible Results of the Red Sweep.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 6.—President Wilson had a long conference today with Bainbridge Colby, Secretary of State, and Norman H. Davis, Under Secretary of State, on the Polish situation. No authoritative statement concerning the conference was made, but no doubt exists that the conference concerned the Soviet Army's advance toward Warsaw and the extension of Red military activities in Persia, news of which was received in Washington today.

Yesterday the indications were that officials thought that the hands of the Government were tied. Today it is assumed from certain circumstances that a way may be found of helping Poland in her straits and at the same time checking the spread of Bolshevism.

Newspaper correspondents were told today by officials that they had taken too literally what was said yesterday concerning the apparent inability of the United States Government to afford any assistance whatever to Poland, directly or indirectly, without the authority of Congress, which will not assemble until December, unless the President proclaims an extra session. No illuminating explanation of this hint was offered, but it was construed as a plain intimation that the Government was still seeking a means of aiding the Polish authorities without Congressional authority and was hopeful of finding a way.

An active exchange of views between the United States and European powers over the Polish situation appears to be in progress. That the State Department is keeping in close touch with the Foreign Offices in London and Paris is evident.

The advices received from Warsaw and other European capitals gave a bit of hope that the Poles were stiffening their resistance to the Bolshevist army, due, it is believed, to some assurance of allied help. On the basis of these advices and the reply of the Soviets to the British note, officials today expressed doubt of the reports that the Red forces would continue their advance toward Warsaw. But, on the whole, they regard the situation as menacing in the extreme and calling for action by the Governments interested in preserving the Polish nation and preventing the Soviet Government at Moscow from dominating that part of the world.

A Bolshevist triumph in Poland, officials believe, will menace the peace of Central Europe in a short time and the danger will extend westward. For this reason a strong desire to have the United States Government aid in stopping the Bolshevist advance exists here. That Congress would not enact any legislation authorizing the use of American armed forces unless public sentiment to that end is aroused in this country is generally believed.

A dispatch to the Polish Legation from Warsaw, received today, says:

"Our counter action in the region of Brody is developing satisfactorily. We occupied Sranislawczyk and Brody. The line of the River Bug is in our hands. In the fighting in the region of Wizna we advanced and defeated Bolshevist regiments. The attacks on Nabirzare were repulsed. Countless refugees from the territories occupied by Bolsheviki are filling the country and especially Warsaw. Food help is necessary. The feeling of civilian population and volunteers good."

An announcement by the State Department says:

"The determination of the Polish Government not to be stampeded into an unnecessarily hurried exit from Warsaw and to resist to the utmost the Bolshevist offensive that continues to be directed against the capital despite Polish readiness for an armistice was indicated in a dispatch received today by the State Department from the American Legation in Warsaw.

"The dispatch, which was dated Aug. 3, showed that the Polish Government, while not overlooking the possible necessity of evacuating the old capital, was firm in its purpose to fight the enemy to the last.

"The department's information tended to indicate that the Bolsheviki were purposely avoiding definite commitments with respect to the opening of armistice negotiations in order to prolong the hostilities and carry the fighting through to Warsaw."

WOULD TELL WORLD WE SUPPORT POLAND

Memorial to Wilson Presented to Colby by Governor and Group of Citizens of Maryland.

Special to The New York Times.

BALTIMORE, Md., Aug. 6.—A group of leading citizens of Baltimore went to Washington today and presented to President Wilson, through the Secretary of State, a memorial which strongly urged the United States to make it known, without delay, to the world that Poland has the moral support of this country in the present crisis.

The memorial is signed by the Governor of Maryland and seven others, including Mr. Bouton, who recently returned from Europe.

Secretary Colby told the delegation during its call in Washington that he would bring the memorial to the immediate attention of the President.

The following is the text addressed by the signers to President Wilson:

"Among the conditions of peace mentioned by the President in his address to the Congress on Jan. 8, 1918, was:

"'XIII. An independent Polish State should be erected which should include the territories inhabited by indisputably Polish populations, which should be assured a free and secure access to the sea, and whose political and economic independence and territorial integrity should be guaranteed by international covenant.'

"The undersigned citizens of the State of Maryland, impelled by a sense of good faith to our associates in the war and to the Polish people, and deeply concerned that the accomplishment of the purposes for which we made our war sacrifices should not be lost, respectfully urge the President of the United States to make known immediately that Poland may rely, in this crisis, on at least the moral support of this country."

RUSSIA FORCING WAR, CHURCHILL DECLARES

Soviet Inciting Revolution in Britain, He Tells Critics, as Well as in the East.

Copyright, 1920, by The New York Times Company.
Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Aug. 6.—Winston Churchill, in the course of a letter to the Secretary of the Leicester and District Trades Council, replying to charges made against him and the Government in connection with the British policy towards Russia, says:

"You say that you oppose unto death a war against Russia. I share this feeling to the full. We have had enough war, and more than enough.

"It is not, however, the British who are making war, but the Russian Bolsheviki. They are at this moment invading Poland and trampling down its freedom.

"They are doing their best to light the flames of war in Persia, Afghanistan, and, if possible, in India. Their avowed intention is to procure, by violence, revolution in every country.

"Only last week they sent a formal letter to the British Labor Party, urging them to start 'heavy civil war' throughout England and Scotland."

RED TROOPS HATE ENTENTE.

But Dispatch to Berlin Says There Is No Animosity to Germany.

BERLIN, Aug. 6.—Intense anti-Entente feeling is rampant in the ranks of the Russian-Bolshevist troops, and hatred for the French is especially pronounced, according to a special dispatch to the Deutsche Zeitung from Koenigsberg, East Prussia. Men of the Bolshevist army, it says, openly boast that no quarter will be shown Entente officers and men who dare show themselves along the frontier.

The dispatch asserts there is no animosity shown toward the Germans on the part of the Russians and that they reiterate that they do not propose to violate German territory.

Regarding the Soviet Government's intentions with respect to Poland, the Koenigsberg Message credits Red army officers who walk across the customs barrier at Prosken with declaring that Moscow is determined to incorporate Poland in the Russian Empire and restore to Germany the territory taken from her through the Versailles Treaty.

between the Bug and the Narew rivers, twenty-five miles southwest of Lomza and about fifty-five miles northeast of Warsaw.

The dispatch declares that Polish officials believe that the present rate of advance, if maintained, would bring the Russians into Warsaw in seven to ten days.

The forcing of the Western Bug, the occupation of Kovel and Lutsk in Volhynia, and other advances by the Russian Soviet forces are announced in Thursday's official statement from Moscow, received today. It reads:

"In the direction of Siedloe we forced the Western Bug. We occupied Kovel Tuesday night. Along the River Styr the Soviet troops crossed to the right bank of the river and occupied Lutsk. Our advance is continuing. Bushatch was occupied Tuesday. In the direction of Ostrov fierce fighting is proceeding."

Preparations to Move Capital.

WARSAW, Aug. 5 (Associated Press).—The defensive line east of Warsaw has been pierced in several places, according to reports from the front. Preparations have been begun for transferring the Government, if that move is necessitated by the Russian advance. The officials, however, still hope the Soviet forces will be checked somewhere east of Vistula.

Lord D'Abernon and J. J. Jusserand, the heads respectively of the British and French missions to Poland, left for Paris this evening after an all-day conference with General Pilsudski and the National Council of Defense. General Weygand and General Radcliffe, heading the military sections of the missions, are remaining in Warsaw.

No announcement has been made as to what place the Government would move to, but it is reported it would be Posen or Czestochowa, 143 miles southwest of Warsaw, near the Silesian frontier.

Of the developments along the eastern defense line, the word from the front shows that after a halt of several days, while reinforcements were brought up and supplies forwarded along the river, the Bolsheviki forced crossings of the Bug at a number of places. At one point, southeast of Ostrov, the Soviet troops are reported to have crossed the river in large numbers.

Tonight's communique from headquarters announced that the Russians had forced the Bug in the region of Drohiczyn (about seventy miles east of the capital), this being a part of the Soviet movement to outflank the defenders of Warsaw and push on toward the Vistula. The Poles counterattacked and fierce fighting is continuing.

Between Drohiczyn and Brest-Litovsk, the communiqué continues, the Poles launched a counterattack against the Russians who had crossed the Bug below Brest-Litovsk. In the region of Brest-Litovsk, which is in the hands of the Russians, they recoiled for an attack which compelled the Poles to evacuate Terespol, just to the west of the river.

There was fighting at various points to the south, but without gains for the Russians.

The Soviet troops have been checked in their westward push along the Prussian border, the statement announces. They have reached Myszniec in an advance apparently designed to bring them to the Warsaw-Danzig railway. Military observers assert that this is part of the Russian outflanking movement planned to encircle the capital, thus saving the heavy losses which would result if Warsaw were attacked directly.

Russian gains are conceded north and east of Warsaw, where the Soviet forces are regrouping for what may be the final exertion in their attempt to bring Poland to their terms of peace by directly threatening her capital.

In the centre of the front bearing down upon Warsaw from the northeast the Russians, according to the communique, are being held along the Ostrov-Czernowy line to the Bug.

Owing to the desperate situation on the front nearest Warsaw, the Kosciusko Squadron, the air force composed for the most part of Americans, attached to the Polish Army, is being transferred from the southern front. The squadron will aid in the defense of the Polish capital.

The American Consulate in Warsaw will be closed on Friday and Consul Rankin is making preparations to depart Friday night. Most of the records already have been shipped away.

The American Legation here is also prepared to close within a very few days. The Legation employes have shipped their baggage to Camp Grappe, the emergency headquarters of the American typhus expedition.

The operations of the Kosciusko Squadron will be begun in its new field within two or three days.

Meanwhile, bullet-battered tanks which saw service in the great war rumbled through the streets of Warsaw today on the way to engage the Russians. The arrival also began of 75 millimeter guns, which the French used against the Germans on the western front. Several artillery detachments with these guns as their weapons left for the nearest front where fighting with the Russians was in progress. These batteries were expected to begin action on Friday.

Poles Intrenching at Mlawa.

BERLIN, Aug. 6.—The Polish defense behind the River Pissa has collapsed and advance guards of the Red army have succeeded in advancing as far as the Rosoga River, southwest of Ortelsburg, says a special dispatch from Königsberg (East Prussia) to the Allgemeine Zeitung, quoting a military authority.

The Poles are reported to be actively intrenching themselves about Mlawa (about seventy miles northwest of Warsaw) and the Ostrolenka-Ostrov sector (northeast of Warsaw) is the scene of heavy fighting. The Bug River has been reached by the Russians along the entire front, and at several points their patrols already have crossed it.

The dispatch states that indications are the Poles intend to retreat to the line of the Vistula River.

There are suspicions, says the Königsberg correspondent, that the Bolsheviki have released numerous former German war prisoners across the frontier for propaganda purposes.

Brody Plundered, Poles Report.

ZURICH, Aug. 6.—A Polish official communication received here today says: "Brody (East Galicia) has been completely plundered. On the river Serenthian enemy attack was repulsed."

MANY FLEE WARSAW, OTHERS AWAIT SEIGE

Great Crowds Throng the Stations and Jam Trains from the Capital.

FOREIGNERS GOING RAPIDLY

Calls to Dig Trenches and Otherwise Defend the City Are Issued.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

WARSAW, Aug. 5 (Associated Press).—Plans of Foreign Bureaus to evacuate Warsaw are proceeding with a rush. The French, British and Austrians have requested a special train for Friday, while the German Legation has a special train for its employes and German subjects at Warsaw, which is expected to depart on Friday night.

Banks are making preparations to look after the cash in their care, while jewelers and other dealers in valuables are perfecting their arrangements.

Evacuation of the prisons has already begun. One hundred non-political prisoners left for Posen today and it is expected smaller groups will follow them throughout the night. Civilians are proceeding as fast as the railroads can accommodate them. Even freight cars are brought into use for families with household goods. Trains are departing with people riding on car tops and others struggling for standing room inside.

Posen, Prague, Vienna and Danzig require more than an all-night trip. With all the departing trains loaded attention was called to the Oriental Express on its arrival from Paris today with five passengers aboard.

While the population generally is calm, there is marked activity among housewives, who are purchasing non-perishable eatables, for which there is such a demand that prices are already advancing.

The briskest trade in the city now is in the trunk and grip stores. Crowds at the railway stations, most of the people bearing brand new grips, indicate that Poles are departing who have not traveled in years, some of them even making their first trip of any distance.

For months Warsaw has been one of the most crowded cities in Europe, and it has been virtually impossible to secure first-class hotel accommodations unless a bonus was paid. But today few travelers are arriving and one can get a room in any hotel for the asking.

Foreigners began quietly evacuating Warsaw weeks ago, and many Poles are now departing. In fact the newspapers are taking the Poles to task for leaving the capital on one pretext or another. Extra trains have been put on the line between Warsaw and Danzig. Great queues of ticket purchasers stand at the Warsaw main line station day and night.

People Labor at Defenses.

WARSAW, Aug. 5.—The cry "Save Poland!" has now been more localized and has become "Save Warsaw!" which is the measure of the military successes obtained by the Red Army.

The Warsaw press this morning calls for energetic measures for the defense of the city, from which the Russian troops are now distant only some forty or fifty miles, and responsive to their demands the City Fathers are now taking action. A sub-committee of the Municipal Council, consisting of fifteen members, representatives of all parties, has been formed to co-ordinate the activities of the citizens and to co-operate with the army authorities in whatever steps they consider necessary. Four military classes have been called up for service between the Rivers Vistula and San, while various minor administrative steps directed toward the same end have also been proclaimed.

Advertisements are beginning to appear for workers capable of constructing earthworks, and the movement for the defense of the city is spreading throughout the body of citizens, as may be gathered from the fact that the banks now operate only from 9 o'clock to 1, so that their staffs may render such assistance to the authorities as is possible.

Greater crowds now cheer the troops as they march through the city. These troops certainly present a strange appearance after what we were accustomed to during the great war. The cavalry come past with lances in position, white pennons with red stripe fluttering from them, and lance and bridle and tunic festooned gayly with flowers.

The artillery too is similarly decked, even to their gun limbers, while all of them, horse, foot and artillery, march past with a song which may be one of their own patriotic songs or some western ragtime melody subtly changed by Polish influences. It is all on a pathetically small scale considering the danger, and the uniforms look very shabby beneath the festoons. But the people cheer and the troops seem happy and everybody is still keen on seeing the war through.

Meanwhile the Red armies continue their advance and as they advance the flight from Warsaw becomes more intense. Several legations already have been cleared in part, while all official representatives who remain are ready to go at a moment's notice. Polish exchange continues to fall and prices to rise, but no great change in the demeanor of the people in general can be observed. Politically there is presumably some definite plan prepared for the immediate future, but the utmost doubt seems to prevail as to what the Government intends doing. Even at the Foreign Office one received from different sources utterly contradictory statements. Certainly nothing has been published officially yet as to sending Polish Plenipotentiaries to Minsk to negotiate a peace direct with the Soviets. It is generally accepted that the broad principles of the Soviet basis for negotiation will refer to the questions of disarmament and the form of government to be retained by Poland.

But despite these broad principles, as Bolshevist armies advance so also does necessity for going to Minsk with or without guarantees. Poland would no doubt prefer to delay the proceedings somewhat and to be able to lean more upon the Allies, but it would seem that the Soviet Government is determined to advance until Poland recognizes the necessity for dealing direct with the Soviets and that quickly. So only can Warsay be saved.

GERMAN ALARM SUBSIDING.

Simons and Chancellor to Leave Berlin After Crisis Over France.

BERLIN, Aug. 6 (Associated Press).—The excitement here over the possibility of France sending troops through Germany to the aid of Poland is subsiding.

Konstantin Fehrenbach, the Chancellor, is going to his home in Freiburg, and Dr. Walter Simons, the Foreign Minister, intends to proceed to Switzerland, unless there are untoward developments in the situation.

The belief prevails here that neither the Chancellor nor the Foreign Minister would leave Berlin if the situation were as critical as the speech of Dr. Simons in the Reichstag on Thursday seemed to indicate.

SAY REDS HAVE ARMS FOR FIVE YEARS' WAR

American Officers Trace Large Supplies Known to Have Been Sent by Allies to Russia.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 6 (Associated Press).—Soviet Russia is in possession of sufficient munitions to carry on for five years warfare on the scale of that now being conducted against Poland, according to estimates made here today by military authorities. Practically all of the stocks on hand are from supplies furnished by the allied Governments to the old Russian régime during the World War.

Inadequate transportation facilities and the long distances between the munitions depots in Russia were regarded by army officials here as offsetting in part the full military value of these abundant munitions reserves.

Besides the material taken over from the old Russian Government, the Bolsheviki have captured large supplies from General Denikin, Admiral Kolchak and from the Poles. Among the supplies said by army officers here to have been identified as part of the Bolsheviki stock are large quantities of ammunition of German make dated March, 1919; new Japanese rifles, Browning automatic rifles captured from Kolchak and Russian rifles bearing the armory dates of 1914, 1915, 1916 and 1919 from the Tula factories.

For small arms the Soviet armies are reported to be drawing from several large Russian munitions factories now in constant operation. They include those at Tula, Kazan, Perm and Putiloff and some in the Ural Mountains.

Only one airplane factory is known to be working in Russia, the Dux factory at Moscow. The output is from four to six planes a month and the type the Spaa and DH. The motors are Fiat, which were seized at Murmansk and Archangel. As a substitute for benzine, of which there has been a complete shortage, various mixtures of gasoline have been used, although this deficiency is believed to have been recently corrected by the shipment of 2,000,000 gallons of gasoline from Baku.

In their appraisal of the supplies of the Soviet military experts here said that in the two years preceding the Russian revolution the Allies poured into Russia sufficient quantities of war supplies to equip 10,000,000 men for six months for warfare on the scale on which it then was being conducted by the Russians against the Germans. These experts pointed out that the Imperial Russian armies had suffered for lack of adequate supplies and that to hold part of the German forces on the eastern front the Allies poured supplies into Russia upon an unprecedented scale.

ASSERTS ITS PURPOSE IS TO CUT ARMAMENTS

League of Nations Bureau Says Effort Has Been Made to Misrepresent the Commission.

LONDON, Aug. 6.—Denial of published reports concerning the work of the permanent Armaments Commission of the League of Nations, with an explanation of the body's duties, is contained in a statement just issued by the Bureau of the League of Nations.

"Reports grossly misrepresenting the powers and purposes of the permanent Armaments Commission of the League of Nations have been published in certain newspapers," says the statement. "An effort seems to have been made to represent this body as invested with functions directly opposite to those actually entrusted to it.

"The whole object of the commission is to secure a voluntary international agreement for the reduction of armaments throughout the world. This involves so many technical questions that it can best be dealt with by a body of military, naval and air experts, who will prepare recommendations for the civilian authorities of the League, as represented in the Council and Assembly, who, in turn, will prepare recommendations for the various Governments to accept or reject as they see fit.

"It cannot be too strongly emphasized that the functions of this commission are those set down in the covenant and none other."

TURKISH REBELS START DRIVE AGAINST GREEKS

Kemal's Forces Are Apparently Trying to Prevent a New Advance by Their Foes.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Aug. 5 (Associated Press).—The Turkish Nationalists were opening today an offensive against the Greeks in the region northeast of Brussa, just south of the eastern end of the Sea of Marmora.

The Greeks are confident, however, that they will be able to rout the forces of Mustapha Kemal Pasha, the Nationalist leader, when the concentration of Greek troops from Thrace is completed.

The aggressive movement by the Nationalists is on the line running from Gemlik, just east of Mudania, eastward to Isnik. It is apparently designed to protect the railway and prevent a Greek advance against Eskishehr, which is an important railway junction with a repair shop, arsenal and munition works.

The Nationalists are charged in reports from the vicinity of Isnik with the massacre of Greek civilians in that town.

RUMANIA IS NEUTRAL, BUT WOULD AID ALLIES

Minister of Finance So Informs British on His Country's Stand on Russo-Polish Conflict.

LONDON, Aug. 6.—Rumania's attitude in the Russo-Polish conflict is one of the strictest neutrality, but in event of any joint action becoming necessary Rumania will co-operate with the remainder of the Allies, according to M. Titulesco, Rumanian Minister of Finance, who notified Great Britain to that effect today.

It is stated in official Rumanian quarters here that there is no foundation for the statement that Rumania is willing to give Poland military support if Great Britain and France supply financial aid. Rumania's concentration of troops on the frontier is declared to be merely precautionary and, it is said, there is no question of any individual action by Rumania.

CANADA NOT EXPECTING WAR

Veterans, However, Show a Readiness to Take Up Arms if Necessary.

OTTAWA, Aug. 6.—While the Government officials are maintaining a natural reticence, the disposition at the capital is to make light of the possibility of Great Britain's warring against the Bolsheviki. The Militia Department has had no advices relating to the situation.

Talk of the possibility of another war has already revealed a willingness on the part of officers and men who participated in the Great War again to take up arms if necessary. Inquiries already have been received from officers offering to join the British expeditionary force should one be sent to Poland. One of these inquiries came from Los Angeles, Cal., from a former Chaplain in the Canadian Army.

BRITAIN AND FRANCE FEAR SOVIET PERIL

Danger of a Russo-German Combination Recognized Abroad, Leon Says.

HE SAW MANY DIPLOMATS

Downfall of Poland Regarded as Grave Beyond Exaggeration—England's Spending Orgy Over.

Maurice Leon of the law firm of Evarts, Choate, Sherman & Leon, who returned yesterday on the Adriatic after a six weeks' trip to England and France, told of the fear in those countries that a Bolshevist-German combination may rise to threaten free nations.

"I had a conference with Prime Minister Millerand, who was kind enough to receive me two days after his return from the conference at Spa," he said. "I also saw M. Jusserand shortly before his departure for Warsaw with General Weygand, Marshal Foch's Chief of Staff. While in Paris I also had talks with many persons prominent in politics, diplomacy, finance and journalism. While in London I met several prominent persons, official and unofficial.

"Among those best informed I found a sense of great apprehension as to the events in Poland, particularly with reference to the consequences to the world of a junction between the Germans and the Bolsheviki, should Poland be crushed by the Red army.

"It would be difficult to exaggerate the gravity of the situation. There is no question that its bearing upon world peace is such as to require us to abandon our dormant attitude in the premises. I feel it a duty to express this view with all possible emphasis. I believe that action in support of Poland's independence, now menaced with destruction, cannot possibly be too swift or too energetic; that every day counts and that the sooner we realize that the peace which is the fruit of the dearly-bought victory on the part of free nations of the world is in danger of being swept away the better it will be for us. This is no longer a situation calling for foresight, for the danger is staring us in the face. Foresight would have required something in the way of effective action some months ago.

Poland as a Bridge.

"The fact that both Trotzky and von Simons used the same figure of speech in demanding that Poland become a bridge to the German and the Bolshevist is so significant as to make comment unnecessary concerning the point whether there is an understanding between the military leaders of Berlin and those of Moscow.

"There is one thing I wish particularly to emphasize, and that is that inaction on the part of the United States would have a very discouraging effect upon our friends in Europe. Any tangible demonstration of willingness to do our share would have a very helpful effect at this time."

Another passenger on the liner was I. W. Goldberg, member of a firm of plywood manufacturers of London, who had just been to Germany to purchase raw materials on a big scale. He could not do any business with the German lumber merchants and came to New York to get his goods.

"I visited Hamburg, Berlin, Leipzig, Dresden, Frankfort, Cologne and Dusseldorf," he said, "and was impressed with the fact that the masses of the German people everywhere were waiting eagerly to join the Bolsheviki when they cross the frontier in East Prussia. They made no secret of the matter and said that it was better to be with the Soviets than to have to work all their lives to pay France a big indemnity. Their hatred of the French obsesses them, and the rich seem to have the same feeling as the poor in that respect.

Army Officers for Soviet.

"Educated people in Germany," Mr. Goldberg continued, "do not appear to be quite so willing to have a Soviet régime, but the old officers and the non-commissioned officers, who have lost their jobs and have nothing to look forward to while the moderate Socialists are in power, will no doubt throw in their lot with the Bolshevist forces.

"The Soviet government has a very large army and is concentrating every effort upon it. German business men are dealing with the Russian officials. I was asked if I would finance a German concession to cut down timber in Russia, which I declined.

"Germany will not be able to get back into the foreign markets for at least five years after she starts to produce again. English firms cannot do business with the German because the latter are pricing their goods not on a basis of cost of production and allowance for profit but upon what they think ought to be charged in view of the low rate of exchange. Their prices were made when the English pound was worth 300 marks, and now it is only worth 150 they have made no reduction but added 10 per cent. as a sort of small change.

"There are plenty of the new soldiery the Reichswehr marching about the streets of Berlin and other cities, and they treat people in a very arbitrary manner. The French people are waiting in Micawber-like attitude for something to turn up and hand them a big indemnity, and the only country on the continent of Europe which has quit talking and gone to work to rebuild its destroyed towns is little Belgium. The people in England are getting down to work again and the craze for spending money has died down. Thrift is the order of the day, and luxuries are being cut out by the majority of the people. The Dutch have been doing well, as they are selling goods to everybody."

CONSULTS LANSING ON PONZI'S BUSINESS

Massachusetts Attorney General Sends Assistant to Confer with Him at Watertown, N. Y.

BOSTON, Aug. 6.—State Attorney General Alllen, who is conducting an investigation of the business methods of Charles Ponzi, communicated through an assistant today with former Secretary of State Robert Lansing. Edwin H. Abbot, Jr., Assistant Attorney General, went to Mr. Lansing's home, in Watertown, N. Y., and conferred for several hours with the former Cabinet officer.

The Attorney General refused tonight to discuss the report on the conference given him by Mr. Abbot by telephone from New York. Mr. Abbot is expected to return here tomorrow.

Beyond a casual glance into his office, the settlement of the $1,000,000 suit brought against him by Joseph Daniels and the denial that he was a Bolshevist agent, Charles Ponzi had a quiet day of it. There were no clamoring clients at his School Street offices, no new deals to be announced and no bitter attacks on his methods.

The Soviet agent report made him smile. Its been going the rounds for some time, as a possible explanation of the source of his seemingly endless wealth. When he was asked point-blank today if he was a Bolshevik he replied:

"No, certainly not. Do I look like one?"

The settlement of the $1,000,000 suit brought against him by Joseph Daniels, who claimed to have advanced the money that gave Ponzi his start, was made after they had talked the matter over. Ponzi drew a check payable to Daniels. Both parties were so pleased with the terms of the settlement that Daniels is to be associated with Ponzi in the new $100,000,000 venture Ponzi says he will launch Monday.

The settlement of the Daniels suit frees quite a sum in cash and securities in Boston banks, it is said.

Business at the School Street offices was so quiet today that for long periods at a time nothing was doing.

Only $154,379 was paid out all day. This amount represented 255 notes, all but ten of which had matured. The largest matured note was for $30,000 and called for a payment of $45,000. The smallest matured note was for $25. The largest unmatured note was $2,000.

Four Months for Tipsy Chauffeur.

Magistrate W. Bruce Cobb in Traffic Court yesterday sent Thomas Molloy of 80 North Elliott Place, Brooklyn, a chauffeur, who pleaded guilty to driving an automobile while intoxicated on Amsterdam Avenue, near 136th Street, on Wednesday, to the workhouse for four months. Probation Officer Xavier Bongiorno reported that April 28, 1915, Molloy was sentenced to two months on a similar charge, and last year was fined $25 for speeding. The Magistrate said he would recommend the revoking of Molloy's license.

Four in Georgia Senatorial Primary.

MACON, Ga., Aug. 6.—Declaring his platform to be repeal of the Federal prohibition amendment and institution of local option, John R. Cooper, Macon attorney, today anounced his candidacy for the Democratic nomination for the Senate. Mr. Cooper is the fourth man to enter the Senatorial contest, which will be decided in the State primaries Sept. 8. The other candidates are Senator Hoke Smith, Thomas E. Watson and Governor Dorsey.

Council may issue regulations under the Defense of the Realm consolidation act, 1914 (hereinafter referred to as the principal act), for securing the restoration and maintenance of order in Ireland and as to the powers and duties for that purpose of the Lord Lieutenant and the Chief Secretary and of members of his Majesty's forces and other persons acting on his Majesty's behalf, and in particular regulations for the special purpose hereinafter mentioned.

Applies to Crimes Before Act Passed.

"(2) The provisions of the principal act with respect to the trial by courts-martial or courts of summary jurisdiction and punishment of persons committing offenses against the Defense of the Realm regulations shall extend to the trial and punishment of persons who have committed crime in Ireland whether before or after the passing of this act, including persons committed for trial against whom indictments have been found, so however that:

"(A) Any crime when so tried shall be punishable with the punishment assigned to the crime by statute or common law.

"(B) A court-martial when trying a person charged with a crime punishable by death shall include as a member of the court one person (who need not be an officer) nominated by the Lord Lieutenant, being a person certified by the Lord Chancellor of Ireland or the Lord Chief Justice of England to be a person of legal knowledge and experience, and regulations under the principal act may be made accordingly.

"(3) Regulations so made may also:

"(A) Provide that a court of summary jurisdiction when trying a person charged with a crime or with an offense against the regulations when hearing and determining any application with respect to a recognizance shall, except in the Dublin metropolitan police district, be constituted of two or more resident Magistrates and that a Court of Quarter Sessions when hearing and determining an appeal against a conviction of a court of summary jurisdiction for any such crime or offense shall be constituted of the Recorder or County Court Judge sitting alone.

Gives Civil Court Rights to Army.

"(B) Confer on a court-martial the powers and jurisdiction exercisable by Justices or any other civil court for binding persons to keep the peace or be of good behavior for estreating the enforcing recognizance and for compelling persons to give evidence and to produce documents before the court.

"(C) Confer on persons authorized to summon witnesses before a court-martial the power of issuing warrants for compelling persons to attend as witnesses, and any warrant so issued shall have the like effect and be executed in the like manner as if issued by a Justice of court of summary jurisdiction having jurisdiction in the place in which it is executed or sought to be executed.

"(D) Authorize the imposition by courts-martial of fines in addition to or in substitution for any other punishments for offenses against the regulations as well as for crimes and provide for the manner in which such fines are to be enforced.

"(E) Authorize the conveyance to and detention in any of his Majesty's prisons in any part of the United Kingdom of any persons upon whom a sentence of imprisonment has been passed in Ireland, whether before or after the passing of this act.

"(F) Provide for any of the duties of a Coroner or any Coroner's jury being performed by a court of inquiry constituted under the Army act instead of by the Coroner and jury.

"(G) Provide that where the Court House or other building in which any court has been usually held is destroyed or rendered unfit for the purpose, the court may be held in such other Court House or building as may be designated by the Lord Lieutenant.

"(H) Authorize the trial without jury of any action, counter claim, civil bill, issue, cause or matter in the high court or a county court in Ireland which apart from this provision would be tryable with a jury.

Provides for Retention of Taxes.

"(I) Provide for the retention of sums payable to any local authority from the local taxation (Ireland) account or from any Parliamentary grant or from any fund administered by any Government department or public body where the local authority has in any respect refused or failed to perform its duties, or for the purpose of discharging amounts awarded against the local authority in respect of compensation for criminal injuries or other liabilities of the local authorities and for the application of the sums so retained in or toward the purpose aforesad.

"(4) Any such regulations may apply either generally to the whole of Ireland or to any part thereof and may be issued at any time whether before or after the termination of the present war and the principal act shall continue in force as far as may be necessary for that purpose and the regulations may contain such incidental, supplemental and consequential provisions as may be necessary for carrying out the purposes of this act and shall have effect as if enacted in this act.

"(5) In this act, unless the context otherwise requires, the expression, crime, means any treason, felony, misdemeanor or other offence punishable whether by indictment or on summary conviction by imprisonment or by any greater punishment and other offences against the Defence of the Realm regulations. The expression 'persons committed for trial' shall include a person who has entered into recognizance conditions to appear and to plead to an indictment or to take his trial upon any criminal charge or who has been committed to prison there to await his trial for any crime."

TROOPS WRECK DOON HOMES

Raid Six Houses in Irish Village—Another Barracks Burned.

DUBLIN, Aug. 6.—Two hundred soldiers today raided and wrecked six houses in the village of Doon, according to advices received here from Thurles.

The Lecky Road Police Barracks, situated in the heart of the Nationalist District of Londonderry, were burned yesterday.

HARDING CHARGE STIRS UP MARION

Local Democrats Resent Assertion They Offered Free Rides to Cox Notification.

LABOR AGITATORS AT WORK

Senator Makes Several More Engagements for Porch Talks.

Special to The New York Times.

MARION, Ohio, Aug. 6.—While awaiting Governor Cox's acceptance speech as marking the next step in the national campaign, Senator Harding spent several hours today making speeches on phonograph records. He received several callers, aranged for the visits of several delegations to his front porch during the next six weeks, and then declared a half holiday for himself and, with Mrs. Harding, drove to Columbus.

The Senator delivered into the phonograph extracts from many of his speeches, dealing with the League of Nations, the high cost of living, taxation and other topics. While he remains on his porch in the next few weeks his voice and his political doctrines will be heard far and wide.

Although the Senator spent a comparatively quiet day, the city was experiencing much political excitement which promises to break down the home spirit of unity which had prevailed since he returned from Chicago.

The Democratic leaders are wrought up over the charge made yesterday by the Harding headquarters that special inducements in the form of free rides were being offered to swell the delegation which Marion will send to Dayton tomorrow to attend the Cox notification. In answer to this charge the Democratic Committee on Arrangements inserted the following advertisement in the evening newspapers:

"One hundred dollars reward will be paid to any one furnishing proof to show that any person connected with the Democratic National, State or any county committee, or the committee named to arrange for a special train to Dayton, has directly or indirectly given or offered free transportation to any member of the delegation making the trip to Dayton Saturday. This does not apply to railway employes traveling on passes."

Partisan Conflict Renewed.

The Marion Democrats are determined to have a larger representation in Dayton than Columbus or Dayton had here for the Harding notification. The partisan feeling, which was laid aside for a few weeks, has been renewed with vigor, and the Democrats say that the Harding headquarters is responsible, having resorted to "small politics."

Another cause of trouble in Marion is the arrival of agitators, who are seeking to stir up dissatisfaction in the non-union manufacturing establishments. Their purpose is to call attention to the fact that Harding's home town is a non-union headquarters.

Senator Harding anticipated this move yesterday, when his employes gave out a statement showing that the office of The Star, the nominee's newspaper, was union, and that the Senator had always encouraged unions here. The agitators are making appeals to the non-union men in several establishments, notably steam shovel plants, to join the union.

Among the Senator's callers this forenoon was Judge Harvey C. Smih, Secretary of State of Ohio, who arranged for a visit of the Muskingum County Republicans on Sept. 16. Herbert E. Corey, war correspondent, discussed the situation in Europe with special reference to social and industrial conditions.

J. R. McCarl of Nebraska, executive secretary of the Republican Congressional Committee, said the party would "take up the slack" quickly when it got in control of all branches of the Government next March.

Dates for Pilgrimages.

The following dates were made today for visits by front porch pilgrims:

Aug. 9, the Society of American Indians; Aug. 13, Ohio Republican Editorial Association; Aug. 18, picnic of the Lumbermen's Association in Lincoln Park; Aug. 19, present and past members of the General Assembly of Ohio; Aug. 21, Lake County, Ind., Republicans; Aug. 30, Republican Governors of Western States; Sept. 3, delegations of business men of foreign birth; Sept. 25, American Defense Society.

Charles E. Fitch, Secretary of the Greenville, Pa., Letter Carriers' Association, told the Senator that Uncle Sam's postal employes were tired of the Administration.

Boston dispatches to a New York newspaper saying that Governor Coolidge made "verbal changes" in his speech of acceptance to conform to Senator Harding's views on the League have been communicated to Harding headquarters. As soon as the Senator completed his speech of acceptance it was forwarded to Governor Coolidge, who was still on his vacation, and it is understood he did not begin work on his speech of acceptance until after his return to Massachusetts.

No mention was made in the dispatches as to the nature of the "verbal changes."

It was stated here that neither Senator Harding nor Governor Coolidge made any suggestion to the other concerning changes in their speeches of acceptance. An early copy of Coolidge's address was received by Harding, and he had no changes to suggest.

WOMEN PLAN FUND DRIVE.

Will Help to Fill Campaign Chest of Republicans.

A special drive will be made by Republican women to swell the campaign chest of the Republican National Committee. Mrs. John T. Pratt, Vice Chairman of the Republican National Ways and Means Committee, announced yesterday that Republican women in each State are to be assigned definite quotas to raise.

Mrs. Pratt will leave on Monday for Chicago to confer with Mrs. Lambert Wile and Mrs. Joseph Coleman, the acting Vice Chairman for the Illinois Ways and Means Committee, on the assigning of the Illinois quota, and will probably visit other Middle Western States to discuss quotas. The Vice Chairmen of the various State Ways and Means Commitees, in each case a woman, will be responsible for the raising of their quotas. Fred W. Upham, Treasurer of the National Committee, who has been in conference with Chairman Hays and the women leaders here on the question of campaign funds, returned to Chicago yesterday.

WOMAN OUT FOR CONGRESS.

Dorothy Frooks, Kingston Lawyer, Opposes Congressman Ward.

Announcing her intention to enter the Fall primaries for nomination to Congress from the 27th District, Miss Dorothy Frooks, a lawyer of Kingston, said yesterday that she would contend for the retention of the primaries in place of the State convention. She is opposing the present Congressmen from the Twenty-seventh district, Charles A. Ward, who has the backing of the district leader, Philiburtus Eltinge.

Miss Frooks has practiced law in New York City and Kingston since her graduation in 1917 from Hamilton College, Chicago. She has served as attorney for the Salvation Army and the American Red Cross, New York district, and calls herself the "poor man's lawyer," through services she has rendered to those of humble means.

If elected, Miss Frooks promises to fight for the interests of the American Legion, for a standard bureau of milk prices in protection to farmers, and for home economic "welfare legislation."

LUNN TO SPEAK AT FAIR.

May Open His Senate Campaign in Walker's Home County.

ALBANY, Aug. 6.—The first public address of Mayor George R. Lunn of Schenectady since he announced his intention to enter the State primaries for the Democratic nomination for United States Senator will be made at Whitney Point, Broome County, next Tuesday at the Broome County Fair.

In making public today his acceptance of the invitation of W. F. Allen, President of the Broome County Agricultural Society, to speak at the fair Mayor Lunn did not say that he would open his Senatorial campaign on that occasion, although he allowed it to be understood that his speech would deal with political questions, particularly the integrity of the direct primary law.

He expressed gratification at being asked to speak in the home county of Lieut. Gov. Harry C. Walker, who was virtually designated as the party leaders' Senatorial candidate at the unofficial convention at Saratoga Springs this week, and the home county also of State Chairman W. W. Farley.

Defeat Predicted in North Carolina.

RALEIGH, N. C., Aug. 6.—Defeat of ratification of the Federal suffrage amendment at the special session of the North Carolina Legislature, which meets next Monday, was predicted today by Representative B. G. Crisp, recognized leader of the anti-suffrage forces in the House. He declared a poll of the House showed a majority of ten votes against ratification and about a tie vote in the Senate.

TAFT CLASHES WITH HARDING ON LEAGUE

Hopes Candidate Will "Ultimately Conclude It Wiser" to Accept Lodge Plan.

FEARS NEW MOVE WILL FAIL

Ex-President States His Position in Reply to Questions of The Evening World.

In a letter yesterday to the New York Evening World from Pointe-au-Pic, Canada, former President William H. Taft frankly answered a number of questions relating to the League of Nations, stating among other things that he hoped Senator Harding would ultimately conclude it to be wiser to enter the League with the Lodge reservations "than to attempt to carry out the same purpose through a new form of association."

The interest of the American people in the League, the former President said, was dulled when President Wilson defeated the League with the Lodge reservations. Mr. Taft's letter in full follows:

Pointe-au-Pic, Canada, Aug. 4, 1920.

To the Editor of The Evening World:

You ask me to answer some questions for The Evening World in respect to League of Nations. Your first three questions are as follows:

"I. Could not the Constitution of the United States itself constitute the one comprehensive and sufficient reservation with which this nation might ratify the Peace Treaty and accept the cove- reservations of the covenant of the nant of the League of Nations?"

"II. Wherever the provisions of the Constitution must affect this nation's reading of the League covenant, as, for example, in the matter of the power given Congress to declare war and provide for the maintenance of army and navy, would not citations from the text of the Constitution itself be as explicit and forceful as any paraphrase?"

"III. If the Constitution were used as the one all-embracing reservation would it not offer common ground for agreement to all reservationists who honestly seek nothing but the preservation of this nation's constitutional independence and integrity in the terms on which it enters the League?"

Hopes Lodge Plan Will Be Accepted.

I have often had occasion to say that without any reservations at all the covenant of the League of Nations, in so far as it purports to impose any obligations on the United States, must be construed to mean that the obligation will be performed in accord with the Constitution of the United States and in no other way.

It does not add anything, therefore, to the ratification by the United States of the League to make a reservation of something which is necessarily implied without it.

A reservation to be useful should be specific in its limitations.

Merely to say that it is to be construed in accord with the Constitution is still to leave a question as to what the limitation of the Constitution would be.

It is the doubt as to how the Constitution restricts the power of the United States in such cases that should be cleared up by reservation if we are to have a reservation.

Your fourth question is:

"IV. Can any argument for Senator Harding's possible 'new relationship of the nations to commit the moral forces of the world to peace and justice' outweigh the concrete present, actual existence and availability of a League that twenty-nine nations have already joined?"

I believe that it will be found that when President Harding approaches the twenty-nine members who have already formed a league they will be reluctant to adopt some new form, especially if by that time the League shall have demonstrated its usefulness and practicability.

It is on this basis that I hope that President Harding will ultimately conclude it to be wiser to enter the league with the Lodge reservations than to attempt to carry out the same purpose through a new form of association.

Your fifth question:

"V.—Does not any party or party faction that turns its back on the existing League of Nations run the risk of identifying itself with a class of Americans who are secretly ready for a dignified way to climb down from a professed national purpose which has come to seem too stiff for them?"

This question involves an interpretation or motives which I do not deem it wise at present to enter upon.

Nation's Interest Dull.

Question VI.—"Is that class of Americans large enough to insure a substantial number of extra-party votes for a candidate who deliberately and persistently spunrs the League, without the alienation of as many or more votes in his own party?"

The question of how many votes the Republican Party will lose and how many it will gain because of the attitude of Mr. Harding in respect to the League of Nations is one which it is difficult to answer.

Mr. Wilson's course in defeating the League with the Lodge reservations and his maintenance of the deadlock has dulled the interest of the American people in the issue which is presented in this election by Mr. Wilson and Mr. Cox.

The issue they present is whether it was right for Mr. Wilson to reject the League of Nations utterly because he could not secure the ratification of Article X.

My impression is that the American people, when the issue was first made, would have welcomed a League with reservations as to Article X. I am quite sure that the great majority of the American people were against Mr. Wilson in destroying the League because he could not obtain Article X. I am further of the opinion that by his course in the maintenance of the deadlock and his second rejection he tired the people as to the League.

This is the natural result in dealing with an issue over foreign affairs to the importance of which it is difficult to arouse the American people.

Most of the Republicans who retain an interest in the question and favor the League with the Lodge reservations are not disposed to leave the party because Mr. Harding does not promise to do that which Mr. Wilson twice prevented and which Mr. Cox hs pledged himself also to prevent, namely, to enter the League with the Lodge reservations.

How many Irish and pro-German votes Mr. Cox will lose because Mr. Wilson defeated the only possible League and Mr. Cox announces his purpose to do the same thing, I cannot estimate.

WM. H. TAFT.

MAKING JUDICIAL SLATES.

Murphy's Fusion Plans May Shelve Erlanger and Guy.

Fusion between Tammany and the Republican organization in the selection of candidates for the Supreme Court this Fall may result in the former refusing to sanction the renomination of Justices Mitchell L. Erlanger and Charles L. Guy, it was said yesterday. Leaders of both organizations are preparing their judicial slates for filing on Tuesday, August 17, the date set by the election law.

According to present arrangements Tammany will get six and the Republicans three of the designations. Nine vacancies are to be filled on the Supreme Court bench at the November election. Six of the present Justices will have completed their full fourteen years of service—Leonard A. Giegerich, M. Warley Platzek, Peter A. Hendrick, John Ford, Mitchell L. Erlanger and Charles L. Guy. The terms of three others, appointed by Governor Smith, will expire—William P. Burr, Edward J. McGoldrick and Edward J. Glennon.

Murphy is anxious to keep Burr and McGoldrick on the bench and to do so may sacrifice Erlanger and Guy. Glennon will receive a renomination if it is not wanted by District Attorney Francis Martin of the Bronx. Neither John Ford nor Peter A. Hendrick was indorsed by the Bar Association, but this, it is said, will not prevent either the Democratic or the Republican organization from renominating them. Justice Ford is the only Republican in the group and the Republican leaders are said to be willing to give him a renomination, provided the proper arrangements can be made with the Democrats.

If the fusion plan goes through the Republicans will indorse Giegerich, Platzek, Hendrick, Burr, McGoldrick and Glennon or Martin, in return for which the Democrats will indorse Ford and any other two candidates the Republicans select. The Executive Committee of the New York County Democratic Committee will meet in Tammany Hall next Monday night to make its designations, and it is expected that the Republican Executive Committee will have met and made its selections in the meantime.

WOMEN TO SEE WILL HAYS.

Connecticut Delegates to Ask About Harding's Suffrage Views.

A delegation of woman suffragists from Connecticut will call upon Will H. Hays, Chairman of the Republican National Committee, today to inquire as to the exact attitude of the party on woman suffrage. The women also want to know Senator Harding's position in the matter and whether he will use his influence to nave a special session of the Connecticut Legislature called to ratify the amendment.

Miss Katherine Ludington, President of the Connecticut Woman Suffrage Association, will be spokeswoman for the delegation and others in the party will be Mrs. William H. Deming and Mrs. Ruth McIntyre Dadourian, Hartford; Mrs. A. F. Taylor and Mrs. Willis Austin, Norwich; Miss Edna Tyler, New York; Mrs. William B. Couch, Cromwell; Miss Fannie D. Welch, Columbia; Miss Mary Oloott, Mrs. W. H. Allee and Mrs. James Stokes, Ridgefield, and Miss Redmond Danielson, Putnam.

Presidential Race Interests Pope.

ROME, Aug., 5.—Mgr. James J. Hartley, Bishop of the Diocese of Columbus, Ohio, was received in audience today by Pope Benedict, who showed a keen interest in the political situation, especially the Presidential campaign, in America.

WOMEN CLAIM GAINS BY TENNESSEE VOTE

Leaders in Washington Assert Special Elections Resulted to Their Advantage.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 6.—The special elections held yesterday to fill the thirteen vacancies in the Tennessee Legislature are believed to have resulted in an advantage for the suffrage forces. Although complete returns are not yet in, both candidates for seats have been pledged for ratification in many instances not yet decided by the count.

Miss Sue White, Tennessee Chairman of the National Woman's Party, telegraphed her national headquarters here today that she had been assured by Governor Roberts's secretary that the Governor would today issue the proclamation for the special legislative session and that the subject of suffrage ratification would be included in it.

Branches of the Woman's Party of both Connecticut and Delaware have raised funds to send workers to Tennessee, since their own States could not be the thirty-sixth to ratify. Miss Katharine Flanagan will represent Connecticut in the campaign, and Mrs. Florence Bayard Hilles, State Chairman of the Woman's Party in Delaware, will arrive in Tennessee today.

Contributions for the Tennessee campaign chest, which are being received daily at headquarters of the Woman's Party, reached $5,500 today.

In an interview at Dayton today with Mrs. Abby Scott Baker, political Chairman of the Woman's Party, Governor Cox, according to representatives of the Woman's Party, said that he will send another personal representative to Tennessee next week to work for ratification. The Governor will hold a conference with Mrs. Baker and the representative to be sent to Tennessee to go over the entire suffrage situation before the Legislature meets.

NASHVILLE, Tenn., Aug. 6.—Returns from yesterday's primaries compiled by The Nashville Banner indicate that Albert H. Roberts was renominated as the Democratic candidate for Governor over W. R. Crabtree by 20,000 to 25,000 majority. In the Republican primary, Alf. Taylor apparently had won the Gubernatorial nomination over Jess M. Littelton, C. R. Evans and J. O. Eaton.

In the Democratic primary in the Eighth Congressional District, Captain Gordon Browning, a World War veteran, defeated Representative T. W. Sims by about 4,000 majority, according to returns to The Banner. In the Democratic contest in the Third Congressional District Representative John A. Moore was apparently renominated over Joseph V. Williams.

Returns from the Republican contest in the First District gathered by The Banner showed a close race between Representative Samuel R. Sells and Lieutenant Carroll Reece, a World War veteran.

WARREN, Ohio, Aug. 6.—Mrs. Harriet Taylor Upton of this city, Vice Chairman of the Republican National Committee, leaves tonight for Nashville, Tenn., to represent the Republican Party in the fight for woman suffrage in Tennessee. Chairman Will H. Hays requested Mrs. Upton to represent the party and Mrs. Carrie Chapman Catt asked her to represent the National Women's Suffrage Association.

RUSSIA AS AN AMERICAN PROBLEM

Here is a challenge to American business. Russia's resources are incalculably great, says John Spargo; her need is for organization, executive help of the kind America can give. If America does not provide this, someone else will—by all evidence, Japan. Here is a book to give the American reader an explicit account of what Japan's interests are, the significance of her policy in Siberia and Saghalia, her relation to the whole Eastern problem, and particularly to the United States. Here are facts that will mean money for the business man. Cloth, $2.50

SECRETARY COLBY'S UNPUBLISHED SPEECH.

Hitherto unpublished speech delivered by Secretary of State Colby before the National Democratic Convention will appear in the Book Review and Magazine Section of The New York Times tomorrow. The address is full of enthusiasm for the mission of the Democratic Party.—Advt.

DEMOCRATS CROWD DAYTON TO HEAR COX

which he received. He said that he would go into the fight with every ounce of strength which he possessed.

"There isn't any question of State lines in this fight," said the Governor. "We feel that we can win wherever folks are and where the case can be stated."

The Governor said also that the mass of mail which had been received by him since Senator Harding made his speech of acceptance was showing a sharp reaction against the Republican candidate. Between 80 and 90 per cent. of the mail received during the last week, Governor Cox said, was from Republicans, who protested that they could not follow the Harding leadership if it meant the course on the League of Nations which was indicated, and who sought information as to how the Democratic nominee would treat the League issue in his speeches.

"You would be amazed," said the Governor, "if you knew the mental torture shown by some of the writers."

Governor Cox may make an addition to the address of acceptance which he is to deliver tomorrow. Reports to this effect are the cause of much speculation tonight, but no word has come from the Governor concerning the nature of any addition which he may make to his prepared address. If it is made it will be released to the newspapers at the time set for the release of the address.

All the afternoon and evening delegations continued to pour into the city. Late in the afternoon delegations began pilgrimages to Trails End, five miles from the city, to pay their respects to the Governor.

Governor Cox in his conference wih Chairman White and Senator Harrison devoted most of his time to a discussion of campaign plans. The Governor will fill a few apointments in the East and middle West soon after the formal notification and the swing into the Northwest may start soon after the meeting at Gravesend track, New York, on Aug. 28.

Pittman Chief of Western Fight.

Announcement was made tonight that Senator Key Pittman, of Nevada, had accepted the management of the Western campaign with headquarters in San Francisco. Mr. Pittman has been in the Senate for ten years and in politics for considerably more than that. He is recognized as an organizer and knows the people of the West. His district will take in the States of the Northwest and far West, but the division lines have not been determined finally.

Senator Thomas P. Walsh of Montana, it also was announced, would become Chairman of the Congressional Campaign Committee. It is probable that the makeup of the Executive Committee will be announced on Sunday or early next week.

The policy of a campaign to the finish which it is believed will drive Senator Harding from his "front porch" was determined upon. Governor Cox said that he was ready for ity.

The tour of the West by Governor Cox will start soon after Franklin D. Roosevelt completes his first Western tour. Mr. Roosevelt is to leave Hyde Park, N. Y., on Aug. 11, according to present plans, and will make a whirlwind trip which will carry him to the Pacific Coast and back within twenty days. Governor Cox will take up the long trail soon after that.

Democratic leaders commented today upon the statement issued at Harding headquarters in Marion charging that members of the Marion delegation who will attend the Cox notification ceremonies were receiving free tickets in order to swell their numbers. Governor Cox ignored the charge as too petty for consideration. S. E. Godden of the State Committee, however, made public this telegram, received from L. J. Lainborn, manager of The Marion Tribune, who has charge of the arrangements for the Marion delegation:

"The reports that tickets are being given away to increase the number for the Dayton trip and also that the delegation has been padded, are absolutely false. Have found no one who has received a free ticket. The Committee on Arrangements is offering today $100 reward for any one finding a ticket that has been given away directly or indirectly by the committee."

Reports indicate that the crowd here tomorrow may reach 100,000 or more. There are large delegations coming from mining and industrial centres in Ohio and adjoining States. Tonight the streets are gay wtih bunting and crowded with visitors.

The weather for tomorrow, it is predicted, will be fine, and in that event Dayton may expect the biggest show that was ever staged within her limits.

Interest in Secret Declaration.

DAYTON, Ohio, Aug. 6 (Associated Press).—With Governor Cox's acceptance address ready for publication in tomorrow afternoon's newspapers, speculation increased today regarding the brief but important insert which he has announced would be forthcoming tomorrow. The Governor continued to hold it a secret. Speculation on its purport centred principally on three subjects—a possible challenge to Senator Harding for joint debate on the League of Nations, a specific statement on Article X. of the League covenant or a definite announcement regarding prohibition.

Democratic leaders here seemed to be agreed that the League undoubtedly would be the great campaign issue and awaited with keen interest the address of Governor Cox, which, he has announced, will be so plain that school children may understand it.

Besides the cause of himself and Franklin D. Roosevelt, the Vice Presidential candidate, Governor Cox is planning to carry with the national ticket a Democratic Congress. As to the League issue, close advisers say that he feels it will be settled definitely in the November balloting for President and Senators. The people will speak so plainly as to compel a final settlement of the League and treaty controversy, the Governor's friends say he believes, regardless of the actual partisan line-up of the Senate.

The Governor is scheduled to begin tomorrow's address about 3 o'clock, several hours after newspaper publication of his address in most localities.

Cox's Father to Head Delegation.

Ohio is expected to furnish most of the notification throng, although large delegations are reported on the way from outside Ohio, including 1,000 from Indianapolis, 200 of the Guffy Club, Pittsburgh; 300 from Fort Wayne, Ind.; 200 from Philadelphia, 200 of the Iroquois Club, Chicago, and a Louisville, Ky., delegation. Cincinnati, Columbus and Cleveland were reported sending the largest Ohio delegations. Gilbert Cox, the Governor's father, is to head the Camden, Ohio, visitors.

From Middletown, the candidate's boyhood home, 750 are expected. Senator Harding's home, Marion, is sending 1,000, according to reports here, and his birthplace, Morrow County, 500.

Many of the delegations will be uniformed, including the "Cox Boosters" who traveled to San Francisco. Word was received today that 250 miners from the Cambridge, Ohio, coal district would march in working clothes, carrying head torches, and another feature will be twenty-five Filipinos from the Ohio State University.

WHEELING, W. Va., Aug. 6.—Governor James M. Cox will make two addresses here Aug. 14—one before the Democratic State Convention, and one a speech to the public, according to Mayor Thomas F. Thorner, who was in long distance telephone communication with the Governor today.

How Soviet Russia Is Compelling Recognition

In all the fighting that has been going on in Eastern Europe and in the negotiations involving Moscow and Warsaw and Paris and London there is but one certainty, observes the New York Globe, that is, that the situation is approaching what we may call a "show down." "Shaking hands with murder" is Lord Northcliffe's phrase, but as the New York Sun is forced to agree the murderer is now in a position to say whether we shall shake hands with him or whether war-weary Western Europe must take arms against him. Strange as it may seem, says the Sun, "the international vagabond of 1919 has gained the amazing position of being in control of European stability, and perhaps of World stability in the year 1920."

The Russian situation is the biggest problem that America and the rest of the world has to face to-day, and in the leading article in THE LITERARY DIGEST for August 7th, the most recent phases of this perplexing complication is dealt with comprehensively.

THE CRIME OF 1920.

It was bound to come. Red-blooded Americans couldn't go on living upon such a faded and distant crime as that of '73. The crime of 1912, which some excited Progressives sought to fix in our political vocabulary as "The Crime of the Ages," never really acquired many passionate devotees. And as nowhere are they so up to date and have so much "vision" as in Wisconsin, it is fittingly from that State that "the crime of 1920" bursts upon this afflicted land. The phrase occurs in the platform which the La Follette candidates for Governor and United States Senator have furnished for Summer reading. In order to give the scene and setting of the crime, so to speak, we quote:

> Back of all the great combines are the Wall Street group of bankers that control both the railroads and the combines.
> It was they who demanded the return of the railroads to private control, with a Government guarantee of profits. It was they, with their lobbyists at Washington, who approached Congressmen, and it was they who corrupted public sentiment by lying advertisements in the press. They found servile compliance in Congress. The people who begged for two years of fair trial of Government operation of railroads under peace-time conditions were scoffed at and denounced. The subsidized press were the allies of the Wall Street crowd. The result is the great crime of 1920.

With so much significant detail given, so many telltale clues, it ought not to be difficult for the police to run down the criminals. But the fit punishment for their crime is already by Wisconsin duly made and provided. It is to be compelled to read the La Follette platform entire and listen to the Senator all through one of his little thirteen-hour speeches. But to innocent bystanders it is almost a joy to see a new political crime, nicely dated, swim into their ken.

SYMPATHY WITH FRANCE.

Mr. ROOT was never noted for being demonstrative with interviewers. In Paris he seems to have been unusually communicative to the reporters. Asked by them to state his attitude toward the League of Nations, he looked them squarely in the eye and said that he wished to assure them of the profound sympathy and affection with which all Americans continue to regard France. This straight answer to a simple question so impressed—or dazed—the newspaper men that they went off immediately to consult our former Ambassador to France, Mr. MYRON HERRICK. He abounded in the opinions of Mr. ROOT, though with a certain limitation.

Mr. HERRICK is not so sure about the rest of his countrymen, but he is confident that the Republican Party is the truest friend of France. If it had only been in power, the French would have seen their fondest hopes realized. As soon as it gets back in office, which it can hardly wait for the laggard months to pass in order to do, France has merely to ask what she will from America, and it is hers.

One can but wonder if French lucidity will be equal to all this. It is too much for American. And it may be suspected that Frenchmen are not in entire ignorance of political developments in the United States. Unless they are, they understand well enough what party it is that has blocked the only road to helpful co-operation with France that was open to us; what party it is that from the first set itself against the treaty of defensive alliance with France brought home by the President as a supplement to the Treaty of Versailles. To secure that alliance the French gave up a part of their territorial claims against Germany. They might be excused for feeling a little sore at having got neither the Rhine frontier nor the American alliance. They are too polite to say so publicly, but they may in privacy remark that they would prefer less abstract "sympathy" and a little more active and concrete good-will.

THE FARMER AS BUSINESS MAN.

Somewhere between the farmer and the city man an unconscionable profit is made. In the last few days lettuce that the grower sold for $1 to $1.25 a crate cost the public at the rate of $2.40 to $6 a crate; onions that the grower sold for 1½ cents a pound cost the public 5 and 6 cents a pound. A Long Island farmer whose potatoes should have sold at $5.50 a barrel wholesale, if he was to net a fair profit, was offered only $4.25 a barrel; yet in New York and even in towns on Long Island the same grade of potatoes sold for $9 a barrel. The dismal chronicle might be continued indefinitely. Such a condition is equally unjust to the farmer, whose produce is often wasted or fed to the pigs, and to the much-suffering city consumer. In the long run it can only result in a general curtailment of production which will further increase the price of food.

To locate the precise point of profiteering is not a simple matter. The middleman gets most of the blame. Unquestionably he at times makes exorbitant profits; yet his business is necessarily in some measure speculative and he stands to incur serious losses—of which the public never hears. The local grocer and butcher have also their risks, and furthermore differ widely in the amount of rent they pay and in the service they render in delivering goods. There is no recognized standard of prices, and many of them take advantage of the fact to do a deal of profiteering. To regulate such matters is probably beyond the power of the law and certainly beyond the possibilities of enforcing the law. The remedy lies elsewhere.

The critical fact is that the farmer has not developed his function as a business man; no other set of producers has failed so signally to safeguard its position in bargaining. Entering the market as an individual, he is at the mercy of the firm of middlemen—often at the mercy of a combination of middlemen engaged in a joint speculation. In the current North American Review Senator CAPPER of Kansas reviews the situation at length and with a command of the facts in evidence which he has gained in his joint capacities of agricultural editor and Chairman of the Committee on Expenditures in the Department of Agriculture. His remedy is that which Sir HORACE PLUNKETT has demonstrated in Ireland—agricultural co-operation societies. Thus, if the farmers of Long Island were organized, they would be able to deal on equal terms with the middleman and exert a powerful pressure upon the retailer. More food would be sold, and at lower retail prices.

The difficulties in the way of organization are mainly legal. "Some of the States permit farmers to organize co-operative associations to market their products. Some of the States do not grant this privilege to farmers, although they do grant it to organizations of capital and of labor. There must be a national law giving the farmer this right in all States." The pending Capper-Hersman bill has been indorsed by every farm organization in the United States. Both political parties are pledged to legislation along these lines. Senator WADSWORTH vigorously recommended the course in a recent speech at Rochester, and many State platforms, notably that of Iowa, have spoken out forcibly.

For the city man far more than for the farmer such legislation is indispensable. Of late years the proportions of urban and rural population have been reversed. The farmer cannot be starved, and so is more nearly immune than most of us to an advancing cost of commodities. "With the farmer curtailing production, as he most assuredly is doing, it will be the consuming two-thirds, not the producing one-third, that will feel the food shortage first and most acutely."

PER CAPITA SMELLS.

Mr. SAMUEL WILSON, Assistant Superintendent of the New Jersey Anti-Saloon League, stands with distended nostrils, viewing the dry and not so dry landscape o'er, and is happy in the thought that, according to the figures of National Prohibition Commissioner KRAMER, "the people of the United States, under the Volstead act, have drunk .006 pint of spirits each day. This fraction is too small to measure, so let us say it amounts practically to one smell per capita each day." In New Jersey, however, the district with which he is most familiar, the average aroma is stronger. Jersey has "more than its share" of that which profiteth not. A little while ago we heard of the ravages of rum in the South. Now this, now some other city, is reported deplorably moist. The golden or arid age is always somewhere else.

Mr. WILSON assures us that "the consumption of beer and wine is now fallen almost to zero." There seems to be a considerable flow of what is called beer in these parts yet; and if wine is hard to get, the home manufacture of it, as of its stronger and weaker congeners, goes on busily and merrily. One hears otherwise law-abiding citizens enthusiastically comparing their "receipts" and the beverages produced in accordance with them. Home-made beer, ale, wine, not to mention direr drinks, are extolled as excellent, filling, cheap. Our friends of the Home Market Club must be much encouraged by this extraordinary development of home manufactures.

Those large, fat raisins that used to give almost a wine-sauce flavor are now hard to come by. They are understood to be devoted to the new household industries. Cider and fruit juices of an alcoholic content forbidden in public beverages are made, doubtless, "in millions of homes." Linchpin of our institutions, the farmer must have his cider if he wants it; and there are those who want it and get it, as the Yankees used to say, "strong enough to bear up a grin'stone." Few varieties of biting adders and stinging serpents equal good, conscientious hard cider in deadliness. A half of 1 per cent. is prescribed for outdoor spirituous industries. The percentage in domestic ones is left to the discretion and taste for experiment of the producer and consumer.

In the absence of a constitutional amendment prohibiting fermentation, the authorities will not attempt to check it; but they gravely distinguish between natural and artificial fermentation. You mustn't assist nature with sugar or any other means. Exactly how the gifted Federal nose is to poke itself into the multitudes of home industries and nab the delinquent who presumes to assist nature, we are not told. Home manufacturers will continue to stay themselves with apples and comfort themselves with flagons. The Government is relieved from the burden of collecting taxes on the damnable traffic. Home industries flourish; still strong waters run deep; and considerable regions are lighted, not to say "lighted up," by moonshine. It was not to be expected that prohibition would triumph absolutely and everywhere without a struggle and the work of slow time. If there were not hosts of the wicked the Anti-Saloon League would have to go out of business, and that would be a calamity to divers earnest persons now making a good living.

LABOR'S INCREASING EFFICIENCY.

In a fortnight wheat has dropped 64 cents from the price of July 15, when the market was made open. It is now below the Government guarantee, which some wished extended with control of the market, lest it should soar to the blue sky. There has been no lack of demand, 4,000,000 bushels having been bought for export to Europe, where millions are starving. It is a curious situation when the market liquidates at a loss for domestic consumption of food which ordinarily would be sold abroad at a profit. The reason given is pressure of cash wheat by farmer sellers.

The connection between the price of wheat and the efficiency of labor is through the cost of living. When that falls there is a weakening of the reason for sustaining the wage level. The decline in wool promises cheaper clothing. The cost of housing is still firm, but it always has been below the level of other living costs. It is a blessing to consumers as well as workers when the price of necessaries weakens without sufficient unemployment to bring distress. Recently there has been underemployment of an obnoxious sort, that resulting from such liberal wages that the inducement to work full time has not been sufficient to supply the market's wants for goods. Also, labor is discovering that a rise in the hourly wage may be granted with a decrease in the annual pay through the shortening of the working day and lack of overtime. Carpenters in 1919 increased their hourly rate 65 per cent., but their annual wage decreased 3 per cent. Meanwhile the cost of living rose 100 per cent. and building nearly stopped. Wages can be so high as to lose productiveness, like taxes and prices. The market for Summer furs is lower and the silk shirt trade boom is over.

These are hopeful reinforcements of the report by the Federal Reserve that labor is becoming more efficient and that production is increasing. "One of the largest producing companies in the Cleveland district reports the greatest four months in our history of pounds produced per man." "Boston reports that labor is less insistent in its demands. * * * Retrenchment in Government manufacturing operations has released some labor. * * * Unskilled labor is also more plentiful, * * * but there is little or no relief from the shortage of farm labor. * * * In New York there has been a distinct though not large increase in unemployment." "There is less complaint than usual of labor conditions on the Pacific Coast."

Labor senses such conditions sooner and better than bankers. When the railways cannot deliver materials and mills stop or run short time labor learns it before even the newspapers. When orders are canceled and production declines, when the credit market is constricted and new enterprises are discouraged, labor feels it more than capital. As yet this factor in the situation is not of an extent to be regretted. When the impulse of the new harvest is felt in late Summer or early Autumn there is likely to be a quickening of both production and trade, which will then be as welcome as the present softening of too high prices and excessive consumption by those able to overbid the more needy. More goods at a lower range of prices will follow upon the increasing efficiency of labor, and the mourners will be few over the days of $1 an hour for common labor.

THE LEAGUE AND POLAND.

Both The American, which opposes any League except of the enemies of England, and The Tribune, which is enthusiastic for any and all conceivable leagues except the only one which the Peace Conference found it possible to construct, unite in complaining of the League's inactivity in the Russo-Polish war. The Tribune laments that "no one seems even to suggest action through or by the League."

Mr. LLOYD GEORGE in his speech in the House of Commons on July 21 said that "if Poland is attacked in her legitimate territory" (meaning the territory assigned to her by the Peace Conference) "Great Britain is bound, by the covenant she has entered into, by her own interests, by the interests of Europe, and bound by the general interests of the world, to give every assistance in her power to a nation assailed in this way." A warning of the obligation under the League Covenant had been conveyed to Russia in the British note of July 12.

The Tribune seems to think that thereupon, under the provisions of Article XVII., Bolshevist Russia should have been invited into the League. Whether or not this was desirable is debatable, but at any rate it was not feasible. For the Bolshevist reply to the British note remarked that the Soviet Government had never received from "the so-called League of Nations" "any communication as to its creation and existence." All it knows about the League is what it has read in the papers, and apparently LENIN never believes what he sees in the capitalistic press. But even if the reports in the papers are true, "the Soviet Government can in no way agree that one group of Powers should assume the rôle of supreme body over all the States of the world." HIRAM JOHNSON might have written that, and Senator HARDING could well accept it.

Therefore, said the Russian note, the Soviet Government "absolutely rejects every immixion of this association in the cause of peace between Russia and Poland." Here is a word that Senator HARDING may be expected to use as soon as he hears of it, and here is an attitude toward the League of Nations identical with that of the accredited leaders of the Republican Party.

The League Council has not recommended to the members military action against Russia. If it had, the Republican press would be using it as an awful warning of the ease with which American boys could be sent abroad to shed their blood at the behest of foreign potentates. Since it has not, The Tribune hopefully suggests that before the Senate meets again the League Covenant "may have died from general atrophy without making a squeak," thereby giving the Republican Party a chance to get the credit of "hopefully approaching the nations of Europe and the earth," as the Republican candidate puts it, to start a new League. In orthodox Republican eyes, especially in the eyes of those Republicans whose orthodoxy is recently and hastily assumed and isn't on quite straight even yet, the League is damned if it does and damned if it doesn't.

TOPICS OF THE TIMES.

Remarkable Terms Were Granted.

Readers of MOTLEY—they are not half as many, nowadays, as that great historian deserves—will remember that whenever the garrison of a beleaguered city in the Netherlands escaped massacre after surrender and were allowed to depart with what were called "the honors of war," the invariable formula of description is: "They marched away with flags flying, drums beating and bullet in mouth." Except for the last now somewhat enigmatic phrase in that sentence, it would apply fairly well to the terms accorded by the present Provisional Government of Mexico to FRANCISCO VILLA, the ablest and most dangerous enemy that a Mexican Government has or is likely soon to have.

But the successful bandit evidently demanded more than the honors of war and more than a promise of immunity for the numerous "irregularities" that have marked his career as a soldier. The terms on which he consented to abandon or suspend his accustomed activities are both peculiar and significant. Standing first among them is permission for him to retain—for how long is not stated—fifty armed men as a bodyguard for himself. This force could not be called an army, of course, but it would serve as the nucleus of an army, and again and again, in the past, with fewer followers than that, VILLA has begun what proved to be a long and successful campaign against all the soldiers that could be sent against him by whatever Mexican Government happened at the time to be more or less in power.

The dispatches do not state by whom the fifty men are to be paid, but presumably it will not be by VILLA himself from the profits of the ranch to which he is to retire.

He Even Had Some Men in the Ranks.

Not less interesting than the precautions taken by VILLA to insure himself against sudden changes of mind on the part of his new friends is the list of the elements forming the force he turned from war to present peace. It included nine Generals, thirty-three Colonels, twenty-five Lieutenant Colonels, eighty-five Captains, thirty-four Lieutenants and forty-one Sub-Lieutenants. Oh, yes—and there were also 558 non-commissioned officers and privates. Each of these is to have a year's pay, according to his rank, and an allotment of land.

If these terms are carried out, service under VILLA, for those who didn't get killed in it, will evidently prove to have been an excellent investment—which is more than can be said for most of the Mexican investments that have been made by other people in recent years—and possibly VILLA will take care to call this fact occasionally to the attention of his former associates and their friends.

A man as shrewd as he can be trusted to have an eye on the future, for he is not yet an old man, by any means, and experience must have taught him the wisdom of being prepared for—contingencies.

Dueling Legal for Once.

By passing a law giving formal authorization to dueling, after a duly appointed commission has decided that in no other way can a quarrel be honorably settled, the little Republic of Uruguay has taken action which, if not without precedent, certainly comes near to being so.

Of course, in many countries and for many centuries, and in not a few countries still, the duel has been in fact obligatory, in certain well understood conditions, upon all men of military or social rank high enough for them to claim with plausibility to be possessed of "honor." Even in those countries, however, not only now, but almost as far back as the beginning of reliance on courts for the settlement of personal grievances, the duel has been forbidden and penalized, so far as the statute book was concerned.

That such laws were not often enforced with either sincerity or vigor is true, but they have existed, and everywhere, almost invariably, the encounters had to be conducted with at least the pretense of secrecy. Spectators were few and trusted, the scene a forest glade or sequestered meadow, the time dawn. And when the result of the combat was death it was usually essential to the victor's convenience, and often to his safety, that he should retire across the nearest frontier until the representatives of authority forgot his offense.

In other words, custom has tolerated or compelled dueling, while the law forbade it. The course of Uruguay is therefore anomalous and at this late day astonishing. The only available explanation is that an ex-President of Uruguay recently killed a man in a duel and prefers to have such acts legalized.

Hoping for the Child's Recovery.

It is no reprehensible vindictiveness that will cause everybody who has read about the kidnapping of little BLAKELY COUGHLIN—and who has not?—vehemently to hope that the man who stole him has been caught and will get the punishment his atrocious crime deserves. His fate, however, is of less than secondary importance to the recovery of the child, and it will be the cause of intensest satisfaction should the captors of the man now in custody be able to prove not only that he is the real kidnapper, instead of being merely a heartless swindler, as they at first supposed, but that the baby is still alive and can be restored to its parents.

If he is alive, the presumption is that he has been well or at least decently treated ever since his disappearance, and to know that will remove from the case what has been feared to be its most heartrending feature.

But the thief will still be responsible for the long agony of the bereaved mother and father. Their torture for almost two months has been far worse than that brought by death in its accustomed form and in accustomed circumstances, and it is more than enraging to think that such pain as this has been inflicted in the carrying out of a blackmailer's sordid schemes.

Motoring in Italy.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

It may be of interest to your motoring readers to know that through a ruling recently obtained from the Italian Fuel Administration by Ente Nationale per Industrie Turistiche—E. N. I. T. for short—it is now possible to foreign visitors motoring through or in Italy to obtain 200 kilograms of gasoline a month, or well over fifty gallons.

This welcome concession will do away with the difficulty hitherto experienced by tourists in Italy in procuring a sufficient amount of fuel for their cars, and taken in connection with the opening up to motorists of the wonderfully picturesque region of the Dolomites, the Venezia Tridentina and other places that not so long ago were echoing the shriek of shells and high explosives hurled against their granite walls, it is but further proof of the endeavor of Italy to facilitate as much as possible to foreign visitors the enjoyment of the manifold marvels of that beautiful land.

The E. N. I. T. is a body expressly created by royal decree to foster and develop travel in Italy, and though only recently established, it has already been responsible for several important measures to that end.

INSULAE FORTUNATAE.

I read, in Plutarch, of Sertorius,
Who, being banished from his native Rome,
Was yet in wars of Spain victorious,
Till Fame rehearsed his deeds in his old home.
But he, with alien honors sated, sought
Some refuge ever for his homesick thought.

'Twas then, at Gades, he with sailors spoke
Who counseled him of certain Fortunate Isles
That know not tempest's lash, not lightning stroke,
Where (all our changeful year) the Summer smiles,
And one beholds, glassed in those halcyon seas,
A green and golden gleaming from their trees.

This tale the seamen told to him chimed true
With many a fairy legend conned in youth.
The adventure of the Argo's hero-crew—
It might have been but history, in sooth!
Some day the voyage thither he would make,
And there a long-earned rest at last might take!

O true Hesperides! The sisters three
Would come to welcome him, and they would bring
On wreathen salver apples from their tree;
And one might dance, while one would pluck the string,
The third would lay a drowsy charm to keep
The dragon-guardian evermore asleep.

Sertorius never was that blissful guest,
Though still the vision hung within his mind;
He never sailed to seek those Islands blest,
Called Fortunate. But Fate to him was kind—
Oh, call him Fortunate, who did not prove How fast and far the enchanted Isles remove!

THE DRIFT TOWARD THE LEAGUE

Faith Being Lost in the Sincerity of the Republican Opposition—Mr. Taft's Valuable Services.

By WILLIAM H. CRAWFORD.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Had the election been held a year ago, the Democrats would have gone down in defeat. There has, however, been a decided reaction in favor of the League that is becoming more pronounced every day.

Within the last month I have talked to a large number of the closest observers of political and economic questions, men of international reputation, in the business, commercial and labor fields, and I find that they are of the same opinion. They believe that the Republicans have overplayed their hand. They began their campaign to discredit the League soon after the signing of the armistice. The people were inclined to believe that they were inspired by the highest motives of patriotism. This belief was strengthened because the Republicans had whole-heartedly supported the Administration during the war. They began their campaign very gradually, and under seemingly just provocation, because the President had asked the people to elect a Democratic Congress. They appeared only to be defending themselves from his aspersions. They slowly built up a distrust, first of the President, then of the League; they made the people believe that our nation would be swallowed up by a super-government.

They made the people believe that the President would not accept any modifications that would protect American sovereignty.

They convinced the Irish-Americans that the League would forever rivet the bonds that fasten them to England. They convinced thousands that the League meant a destruction of the Monroe Doctrine, and still other thousands that it would incite war, rather than prevent it.

Six months ago they had shaken the confidence of the American public in the Treaty of Versailles. They, however, did not know when to stop, carried away with the success of their attack. From first suggesting that the League should be modified so as to protect America and her independent sovereignty, they now decry the League altogether. Borah and Johnson have won in the Republican Party, but in following their leadership it has lost heavily with the American people.

Senator Harding, as directly as possible for his diplomatic mind to express it, has repudiated the League: "I emphatically agree that no authority other than Congress may call our boys to battle. Accepting this truth, why make a covenant which violates the good faith of nations?" He has suggested as a substitute an association of nations the terms, plans and specifications of which are not given. This would strike the American people as extremely amusing if it were not so serious. They know that the rest of the world, after having organized a League which engaged for months the entire attention of the very men who would be called on to ratify this new association, would not take kindly to the repudiation of their past labors. They would say, "Here is a League already drawn, largely on the plan of your President; take this. Furthermore, how do we know that our future deliberations would produce results any more pleasing to your Senate than is the present League?"

The American people realize, even if the Republican statesmen do not, that there are other nations in the world. They know that we cannot have an association made exclusively by Americans, according to American patterns and to suit the American Senate. Therefore, the people are becoming distrustful of the Republicans, and begin to believe that their opposition to the League is not entirely based on pure patriotism, but is largely inspired by politics.

Mr. Taft has written the best campaign document that the Democratic National Committee has had presented to it. Its importance is greatly enhanced by the fact that it was written by a learned lawyer, an ex-Judge of a United States court, an ex-President who has had four years' experience in handling international affairs, and by an honest Republican whose party opposes the League. He says that had he been a Senator he would have voted to ratify the League and treaty. He does not think that there is anything in the League that would violate the Constitution (and he has had more than a year to study the subject). He does not believe the League would involve us in any war that the highest interests of the country would not force us to enter. He says that the League so far transcends domestic issues in importance that a man would be justified and required to ignore party lines and vote to secure this boon to America.

There are thousands more just like Mr. Taft, Republicans, who believe that the interests and honor of the country demand a ratification of the treaty, but their minds do not react on the subject as does his. He hopes that after the election, after the necessity of a campaign issue is passed, Harding and his Senatorial cohorts will do the sensible thing and ratify the treaty. The American people prefer to be sure on the subject and vote for the party whose leader as President helped frame the treaty, for a party pledged in convention to support it and whose nominees are both publicly pledged to its support.

FRANCE AND AMERICA.

Our Friends Abroad See Beyond the Political Quarrels Here.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

I believe that your readers will be glad to learn from this letter just received from Paris from M. Edmond Pottier of the Institute what the best liberal thought of France feels today of commendation of President Wilson and of affectionate gratitude to America.

S. RICHARD FULLER.
Kennebunkport, Me., July 30, 1920.

Paris, July 15, 1920.

We have read with great interest and pleasure the extracts from the journal which you have been kind enough to send. We are very confident, as you are, that when the agitation of personal quarrels and the useless obstructions of political parties have disappeared the true rôle of President Wilson during the war will appear more eminent than ever, and that history will give him a place by the side of the great citizens of America.

How can we in France forget that by his wish and his intelligence he led all of a great nation who had resisted the idea of war to take the part of right and justice, in showing that these ideas could leave no civilized race indifferent, and that by this decisive intervention the armies of the Allies were enabled to gain the victory? That is the fact that dominates all! Therefore we find it difficult to understand how the French could be represented as doubting American friendship. Nothing could be more false. We are awaiting impatiently that America should reach a solution of the difficulties which have arisen in regard to the League of Nations, but we understand that these difficulties are created by factions in interior politics, and not by any change of exterior politics.

We received at the Academy of Inscription a letter asking if the savants of the United States could come to France this Summer with the assurance of being welcomed. The doubt made us smile, and we had no trouble in answering at once that none would have a better welcome than the compatriots of Washington. Houses and shops in Paris were covered recently with American flags in honor of Memorial Day. The very numerous Americans who are arriving in Paris can judge whether there is the slightest change in our sentiments of affection and gratitude. The crowd has more good sense than the politicians.

No One Man Big Enough.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Inasmuch as our Constitution provides for a one-man Government and the country has now grown so big that no one man is big enough to hold the job, I would respectfully recommend an amendment to our Constitution providing that one President should have as his duty the appointments, seeing to it that every one who assisted in his election should be properly rewarded. Another should give banquets and take his wife around to social gatherings. Another should veto the vicious legislation passed by a dissolute Congress. Another should write messages to Congress. Another should preside at Cabinet meetings. Another should have understanding with Mexico. Another should insist, that England does not misrule Ireland. Another should be commander in chief of the army. Another of the navy. Another should have as his duty the letting of what we should do with our ex-Presidents.

Italy and Greece.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

May I express my surprise at a curious misstatement in your editorial article of Aug. 1 on Italy and Greece? How can one say that Greece "paid" Italy for the Dodecanese by the cession of Southwestern Asia Minor? Italy's possession of the Dodecanese is a sequel of the Italo-Turkish war of 1913. Italy kept these islands in her hands as a pledge of the fulfillment by Turkey of the Treaty of Lausanne, which Turkey never did carry out. As for Southwestern Asia Minor, in the first place, it never belonged to Greece to sell; in the second place, it was assigned to Italy in the Treaty of London in early 1915, years before Greece had made up her mind whether to fight with or against the Allies. To recall Virgil, it does not appear that the Danai had the right even to present these territories, much less to sell them.

NOT LOST—YET.

The Weekly Review's Position on Candidate Harding.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

In an editorial this morning you say: "Readers of The Weekly Review expected a rare treat when it got around to dealing with Senator Harding's speech of acceptance. They had noted its clear and firm words in advance. 'He is lost,' wrote The Weekly Review before Harding spoke, unless he 'plainly declares' that 'if elected President he will submit the Versailles Treaty to the Senate with a recommendation that it be ratified with the Lodge reservations.' After that readers naturally looked to see The Weekly Review make the fur fly."

But what The Weekly Review actually said was something very different from what is conveyed by your quotations, as will appear from the following extract from the editorial to which you have reference:

"While Mr. Harding may not feel that he has the power to speak authoritatively for the party, he certainly has the power to speak authoritatively for himself. And we solemnly believe that unless he does so he is lost, for he will alienate thousands of voters every day from now to Nov. 2, just as Mr. Hughes did by pursuing a similar ill-advised policy in regard to the war issue in the campaign of 1916.

"One way is clearly open by which Mr. Harding can beat back the Democratic attack as regards the past, take away almost all the force of it as regards the future, and yet involve himself in no complications within his own party. * * * Let him plainly declare that if elected President he will submit the Versailles Treaty to the Senate with a recommendation that it be ratified with the Lodge reservations, and the whole incubus of the treaty muddle is lifted from his shoulders. * * *

"Possibly Mr. Harding has in mind some other way of meeting the question. Possibly there is some better way of meeting it. The one thing certain is that to meet it in some intelligible and respectable way is an imperative requirement of the situation."

This may, in your judgment, equally justify your sprightly ridicule, but at all events it is very different from what you have ascribed to The Weekly Review, and we shall be much obliged if you will print the correction.

Watermelons at $1.50.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

One day last September, in the City of Nashville, Tenn., I purchased one of the finest watermelons I ever ate for 45 cents. Today, in this little vacation resort, two friends of mine paid $1.50 for the same kind of a melon.

The watermelon crop may be poor this year, but even if it is the Nashville dealer's selling price last year—45 cents—is almost certainly the maximum of a melon's cost price this year. Assuming that to be true, as it must be, there can be but one explanation of the additional $1.05, the get-rich-quick proclivities of certain profiteering gentry whose crest is a rampant dollar sign argent against a field of greenbacks vert.

I should be glad if some fellow-reader who knows can give me an estimate of the present retail price of watermelons down South. I should be still gladder if some one will demonstrate to me, simpleton that I am, that it costs $1, say, per melon to ship melons in bulk from the South to Massachusetts. But I would be gladdest of all if our moribund custodians of the Lever act would round up the pirates that are preying on the public in this fashion.

Bright Lights.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Now comes the bright electric sign. The yellow bulb was not harmful, at least to me, but now they mean to bang their product into your head brutally through your eyes by means of the high-power white lights. Such is the case in one of the public parks not far from Times Square. Flashes of intense bright light all evening mean no good to the nervous system. On that account sitting in the park these warm evenings is not pleasant at all.

ROOSEVELT LEAVES NAVY DEPARTMENT

Bids Farewell in Speech and Sends Out a Message to Every Ship at Sea.

RECEIVES A LOVING CUP

Personnel Joins in Expression of Regard for Retiring Assistant Secretary.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 6.—Franklin D. Roosevelt formally severed his active connection with the Navy Department this afternoon, the occasion taking the form of a demonstration in which Secretary of the Navy Daniels, employes of the Navy Yards and stations, officers and enlisted men of the regular service, and officers and enlisted personnel of the Marines all had a part.

Employes of the navy, both those in the great shipbuilding and repair yards as well as those who hold down clerical and other positions in the department here, had the centre of the stage, and before they permitted Mr. Roosevelt to start for Dayton they presented him with a replica of the Paul Revere cup in the Boston Museum of Art.

After a short speech in which he expressed his appreciation of the gift Mr. Roosevelt sent a wireless message to every ship in the navy, reaching all parts of the world from the China Sea to the South Atlantic. The same message also went to all yards and navy stations in the United States and its insular possessions.

In handing the cup to Secretary Daniels, who made the formal presentation, Harry T. Morningstar, Vice President of the National Association of Master Mechanics, said the gift was a "token of our deep appreciation and affection for a fellow-worker and friend, a man who has endeared himself to every one connected with the great naval establishment."

Praised by Secretary Daniels.

In presenting the cup Secretary Daniels said he spoke for every man and woman identified with the navy.

"There are only two compensations," said Mr. Daniels, "for a man in the public service. The first is the consciousness that he has given the best that is in him for the common weal, and the second is that he has garnered the riches of friendship of those with whom he has been comrade and colleague.

"Retiring now as Assistant Secretary because a great party has named you for the second office in the gift of this noble Republic, you carry with you the feeling that in the greatest war in the world's history you served in a position of trust with efficiency and patriotism in the teamwork for making the imperishable record which the navy won in the world war. More than one foreign country has recognized your service by high appreciation, and you have the satisfaction of knowing that your own countrymen have highly appraised your large contribution in war and in peace. This reflection must be grateful in the larger field of usefulness upon which you enter.

"The second compensation, that of the love and regard of those with whom you have been in daily contact, particularly in the grim days of war, is one that always heartens and cheers you. All of us found you earnest and zealous and efficient in a noble consecration to the cause of your country, and while regretting that the relationship of close co-worker terminates, we rejoice that the service rendered in the navy is one of common pride in which we all share alike, the sailor and the artisan, the executive and the whole force on land and sea.

"This loving cup, the gift of your associates and shipmates in the great adventure of our country in the years of your service with the navy, carries to you the love and Godspeed of all who have shared with you the labors, the sacrifices and the victories of which the navy played no small part."

Renewed Faith in Country.

In accepting the cup Mr. Roosevelt said:

"I am very much overcome by what you have said and also by this tribute on a day which is already crowded with emotions. For many years I have looked forward to the inevitable parting with not mere regret, but with something much deeper, because, as I think you all know, my work down here has been from the heart and a very part of my existence.

"These nearly eight years have given me renewed faith in our country and renewed courage for myself to give as far as I am able unselfish service in all the years that are left to me.

"I need not speak to you of our close associations. They have extended, as you know, from the chief of our department down to the most recent comer in the ranks. With Mr. Daniels and with every one else we have worked without distrust, hand in hand and with a proved desire to put on the highest plane possible our common service.

"I feel certain that in the final analysis of history the Secretary of the Navy and all of you who have worked under me will receive your proper place. I am very proud, but, more than that, I am very happy in this association. In the years to come please let me keep that association.

"This is not a good-by, it is merely a parting for a short time. Let me wish you all the best of luck in the world, and let me after November come back and greet you again."

Farewell Message to Navy.

The farewell message wirelessed by Mr. Roosevelt to officers and men ashore and afloat and to navy yard and navy station employes everywhere, was as follows:

"Before leaving the service on Aug. 9 I want to convey very simply to the officers and men of the navy my deep feeling at this separation after nearly eight years.

"I am honestly proud of the American Navy. I am happy, too, in the privilege of this association with it. No organized body of men in the nation is cleaner, more honorable or more imbued with true patriotism.

"We have grown greatly in these years, not merely in size, but in right thinking and in effective work. I am very certain that this country can continue to give absolute dependence to the first line of defense. The navy will carry on its splendid record.

"Please let me in the years to come continue our association.

"FRANKLIN D. ROOSEVELT."

Mr. Roosevelt left for Dayton to attend the notification of Governor Cox.

PRESS CONFERENCE ACTS ON PRINT PAPER

British Delegates at Ottawa Name Committee to Insure Supply Throughout the Empire.

PRICE INCREASE CONDEMNED

Cite Kinship with America and Hope for Her in League—Oppose Censoring of Press.

Special to The New York Times.

OTTAWA, Ont., Aug. 6.—"Empire Partnership" was the general topic to which members of the Imperial Press Conference turned their attention during the opening hours of the sitting here today. To that subject the Hon. P. E. Blondin, Postmaster General of Canada, alluded, when, as a Canadian of the French race, he welcomed the delegates to the Dominion.

To the British Empire Mr. Blondin applied the words of a eulogist of imperial Rome: "She alone has clasped the conquered to her bosom and has made men to be of one household with one name, after the fashion of a mother rather than an Empress, and has called her vassals citizens and has linked together far distant lands with a bond of love."

J. W. Dafoe of Winnipeg dealt with the topic in a thoughtful speech in which he traced the development of constitutional relations within the empire. Finally, he asserted, the principle had been laid down that the British Dominions were "nations of equal status joined in a partnership founded upon consent." The next step to be taken was to make that equality a matter of formal affirmation, he said.

Mr. Dafoe was not one of those who feared that the only alternative of dependence was independence. He felt that in place of dependence would come interdependence. Furthermore, he believed that a result of the war would be a permanent enrichment of the basic equalities of citizenship and a reinforcement of the foundation upon which the Imperial Commonwealth rested. Closing, he referred to the United States as akin in blood and in language to the British nations and expressed the hope that in the League of Nations the great republic erelong would take her fitting place.

Sir Gilbert Parker a Speaker.

In the debate which followed Sir Gilbert Parker, Sir Harry Brittain, a member of the British House of Commons; Sir George Toulmin and Hon. J. W. Kirwan of Australia participated. The last mentioned delegate raised the question of the part which British dominions should play in imperial defense. This topic, however, was not debated.

The conference, after some discussion, placed itself on record as opposed to Government or official censorship of news. There were some suggestions that the resolution presented by Hon. Theodore Kink of Melbourne should be made applicable only to self-governing dominions and that it should not pronounce against control necessitated by military exigencies in time of war. British delegates were inclined to feel that it would be futile to protest against censorship in war time. Australian delegates, on the other hand, roundly condemned censorship under any circumstances, and finally the resolution was adopted in its original general terms.

Of considerable interest to Canada was the resolution presented by P. D. Ross, of Ottawa, recommending that postal rates within the empire for newspapers and periodicals should not exceed the lowest rates in force between any foreign country and any part of the empire. This motion was unanimously passed. It referred in a measure to a question which Magistrate R. E. Kingsford, of Toronto, brought to the attention of the Conference. Mr. Kingsford, speaking on behalf of the St. George's Society and other organizations in Toronto, pointed to the great circulation of United States publications in Canada and to the fact that Canada was receiving much of its news from Great Britain through United States channels. He urged the members of the Conference to consider the advisability of publishing Canadians editions of British periodicals and of establishing an all-British news service.

For many delegates the most important item of the day's program from a business viewpoint was the discussion of the resolution calling for the appointment of a committee to take steps to insure adequate supplies of newsprint paper for newspapers throughout the empire. Before the resolution itself was taken up, John Imrie, representing the Canadian publishers, and S. A. L. Dawe, representing the Canadian Pulp and Paper Association, were heard. The former told of the growth of the pulp and paper industry in Canada and of the reasons for the steadily increasing exportation of Canadian pulp and newsprint paper to the United States and the great increase in the prices of those commodities.

Condemns Price Increase.

He contended that the increase in prices had no relation to costs of production. He suggested, however, that there might be empire partnership in pulp and paper production and that the people of other British dominions might join with Canadians in providing capital for further expansion of the pulp and paper industry in the Dominion.

Mr. Dawe objected to the statement that paper prices bore no relation to costs of production. He agreed with Mr. Imrie that in Quebec there was much material available to supply the British market with pulp and paper and many opportunities for the application of British capital. He suggested the formation of a joint committee of newspaper proprietors and paper manufacturers to standardize sizes of news print and eliminate waste in the manufacture and use of paper. The suggestion did not, however, meet with much support from Viscount Burnham, who spoke for publishers of Great Britain.

J. J. Knight, of Brisbane, Australia; Dr. T. W. Leys, of Auckland, New Zealand, and other Australasian delegates said they had been paying £60, £70 and even £80 a ton for newsprint paper. Mr. Knight commented upon the doctrine of empire solidarity which had been preached in the conference and suggested that Canadian delegates give a practical manifestation of the sentiments expressed by assisting the Australasian newspapers to secure reasonable supplies of paper.

Dr. Leys compared the size of Canadian newspapers to that of the daily journals of New Zealand and declared that the latter had been suffering from a real shortage of newsprint.

The addresses of the Australasians induced Viscount Burnham to request the paper manufacturers to increase the allotment of newsprint for the Australasian market. This request Mr. Dawe promised to lay before the manufacturers' organization. A number of other resolutions dealing with cable rates, reduction of letter postage rates and a scheme of travel scholarships for young journalists also were adopted.

Urge Better News Service.

OTTAWA, Aug. 6.—Immediate action by the Empire Press Union looking to the establishment of quicker and cheaper transmission of news throughout the British Empire was urged in a resolution unanimously adopted by the Imperial Press Conference in session here today.

The resolution, originally proposed by Robert Donald, Chairman of the union, was carried over from yesterday and redrafted to include suggestions from virtually every delegation attending the conference. It constituted the most important item on the agenda.

The resolution urged Governments to use their influence to increase cable facilities and reduce cable rates for news messages, and indorsed the principle of a universal cable rate of 1 penny a word within the British Empire.

Resolutions opposing the control or influence of newspapers by any other than newspaper men was carried unanimously. Another resolution was adopted opposing the entry of news carriers, telegraph, cable or wireless, into the business of compiling and distributing news.

REFUSED TAXI BILL, IS FINED

Woman's Jail Sentence Changed When Penalty Is Found Illegal.

After an argument with a taxicab driver over a charge of $6.20 for a drive through Central Park, Mrs. Diamond W. Brown, who said she lived at the Vanderbilt Hotel, which was denied by the hotel management, was taken to the West Side Court by the chauffeur. Magistrate Schwab settled the argument by sentencing her to five days in jail for failure to pay the bill, but, finding that imprisonment was not legal, changed the penalty to a fine of $10.

The chauffeur said that Mrs. Brown asked him to stop the meter because it made her nervous to see the charges mount so quickly. Mrs. Brown declared the chauffeur tried to kiss her, and then she admitted that she had paid a previous fine of $10 for refusing to pay a taxi bill of $21. After Mrs. Brown had been detained a few hours, Magistrate Schwab found that the ordinance provides imprisonment only when defendants refused to pay fines.

DENIES "OPEN SHOP" DEAL.

President Dinkey of Midvale Steel Calls Charges "Inventions."

ATLANTIC CITY, Aug. 6.—Charges of Patrick J. Morris, International President of the Iron Workers, that the steel companies had combined on a plan to force the "open shop" throughout the country by refusing to make deliveries of steel to contractors who do not agree to maintain an open shop, were labeled as "pure inventions" by President A. C. Dinkey of the Midvale Steel Company, who is here attending the annual convention of the company. He said such a thing had not been considered at any meeting of the steel manufacturers he had attended, and the report was news to him. He declined to discuss the charge of the labor chiefs that free speech and right of assembly were denied to labor organizers and sympathizers in Western Pennsylvania and other steel-making centres.

COAL MEN UNDER BAIL.

President and Bookkeeper of Tennessee Concerns to Face Jury.

Special to The New York Times.

KNOXVILLE, Tenn., Aug. 6.—George N. Camp and E. C. Clark, the former President and Sales Manager for the Coal Creek Coal Company and the latter a bookkeeper for the Coal Creek Leasing Company, were bound over to the Federal Grand Jury late today by United States Commissioner J. Pike Powers on charges of violating the Lever act. Their bail was fixed at $2,000 each.

Miss Nell S. Jenkins, President of the Clinch River Coal Company, denied that an actual sale had been made to her company by Mr. Clark, because of the fact that no price had been definitely agreed upon. She admitted receiving shipments of coal specified by the Government.

Assistant United States Attorney A. W. Thompson enumerated four shipments of coal sold at prices ranging from $6.50 to $8 per ton. Among other evidence he produced was figures to show that in March the cost of production was less than $1 a ton and in subsequent months slightly over that amount.

FREE GIRL SHOT BY DENTIST.

Judge Advises Ruth Jackson to Forget Stage and Stay at Home.

Ruth Jackson, the Toledo woman who has been held as a witness in connection with the death of Dr. José Arenas, dentist, at his apartment at 116 West Seventieth Street, last Saturday night, was released by Magistrate Joseph Schwab in West Side Court yesterday. Assistant Medical Examiner Benjamin Schwartz presented an affidavit showing the dentist was a suicide. Miss Jackson was wounded at the time of the shooting.

The dismissal of this complaint is believed to have closed the Arenas case. Two Spaniards who were arrested in connection with the dentist's death have been discharged from custody.

The young woman, who was accompanied in court by her husband, Louis Schultz, a taxi cab man of Toledo, fainted as the Magistrate dismissed the charge against her. Later she left with her husband for Toledo.

Before they left the courtroom Miss Jackson, who came here for a stage career, was advised by the Magistrate to put theatrical ambitions out of her mind forever and remain with her husband.

ARTIST RELYEA DIVORCED.

Wife Gets Decree and Award of $25 a Week Alimony.

WHITE PLAINS, Aug. 6. — Mrs. Eloise Relyea, of Rochelle Park, New Rochelle, won a decree of absolute divorce today in the Supreme Court before Justice Seeger, with $25 a week alimony, from her husband, Charles M. Relyea, an illustrator who lives in his studio at 2447 Morris Avenue, The Bronx. Joseph Klaw, son of the theatrical manager, and son-in-law of Mrs. Relyea, who lives at the Relyea home in New Rochelle, testified that on July 4 a detective called him by telephone to the Bristol Hotel in New York where he and a friend saw a signature, "C. M. Reiley and wife, of Philadelphia, Room 632," on the register in Relyea's handwriting.

Mrs. Relyea testified she was married to Relyea on Dec. 24, 1892, in Schenectady County. She said she would be satisfied with alimony of $25 a week, as she retains use of the New Rochelle house.

BEATS DEAD BABY'S MOTHER

Torgan Gets Drunk on Burial Money —Scene Near Death Chamber.

When the two-months-old baby of John Torgan, of 492 Water Street, died Thursday morning Mrs. Torgan gave her husband $50 to engage the services of an undertaker. Mrs. Torgan told Magistrate Joseph E. Corrigan, in Essex Market Court yesterday, that her husband spent the money for whisky and returned home drunk later in the day and beat her, while the dead child lay in an adjoining room. Torgan, who is 39 years old, was sentenced to thirty days in jail.

Patrolman Albert Brette of the Madison Street Station testified that he was attracted to the Torgan house by cries and found Torgan beating his wife. He arrested him for disorderly conduct.

The baby died from lack of nourishment, Mrs. Torgan said. When she reprimanded her husband for spending the money for liquor he beat her.

The Torgans have several small children.

MRS. MYRA MILLER WEDS DR. MERRIMAN

Six Young Women Act as Ushers at Clubwoman's Marriage in Calvary Church.

COUPLE TO TRAVEL ABROAD

They Will Study Social Conditions on Their Way to Women's Council at Christiania.

The wedding of Mrs. Myra Kingman Miller, prominent in the women's clubs of this city and California, and Dr. Josiah Charles Merriman of the Hotel Commodore, was celebrated at 8:30 o'clock last night at Calvary Church, the Rev. Wolcott Cutler officiating.

An interesting feature of the wedding was a group of six young women who acted as ushers, in addition to the seven young men ushers.

The bride was attended by her daughter, Mrs. Carl Erling Hoard, wife of Lieut. Commander Hoard, U. S. N., as matron of honor, Mrs. Hoard coming from her home in Seattle for the ceremony.

The young woman ushers included the Misses Helen Scofield, Teresita Jackson, Helen Filene, Emily and Florence Berry, Dorothy B. Egbert, Margaret St. Clair and Eleanor Bogart. Frederick Hauck of Buffalo was best man and the young men serving as ushers were C. Andrew Bogart, George C. Wilcox, F. Oliver Rockefeller, William Taylor, William J. Russell, P. Van E. Ivory and C. A. Livingston.

After the church ceremony a reception was held at the Pen and Brush Club. In the receiving line were Mrs. Hoard, Mrs. Howard Gould and Dr. Jennie Scofield, a sister of the bridegroom.

Dr. and Mrs. Merriman are sailing today on the steamer Patria and will study social and civic conditions in Western Europe on their way to Christiania, Norway, where the International Council of Women will meet in September.

Mrs. Merriman is Chairman of the delegation of ten women, who are sailing on the same steamer, who are to represent the organized womanhood of the United States at the International Council. She is President of the National Federation of College Women. Her first husband, George Alonzo Miller, died five years ago. She first met Dr. Merriman at her daughter's wedding in this city two years ago.

After Nov. 1 Dr. and Mrs. Merriman will be at home at the Commodore.

DUKE OF ALBA TO MARRY.

His Betrothal to Marchesa San Vicente del Barco Is Expected Soon.

MADRID, Aug. 5.—Announcement of the betrothal of the Duke of Alba and the Marchesa San Vicente del Barco, daughter of the Duke of Allaga, is expected soon, according to a report from Santander. The marriage, it is said, will probably occur late in September at the Spanish Embassy in London. Owing to the fact that the Spanish Court is in mourning as the result of the death of former Empress Eugénie, the ceremony will be witnessed by only a few near friends of the contracting parties.

The Duke of Alba holds six ducal titles, is a Grandee of Spain and a Constable of Navarre, while the Marchesa's family was ennobled in 1482.

Clark—Hall.

The marriage is announced of Miss Barbara Hall, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Percy Heywood Hall of 20 West Seventy-second Street, and William Dearborn Clark, son of Mr. and Mrs. Warren D. Clark of San Francisco, which took place on Thursday in the chantry of St. Thomas's Church, the Rev. John R. Atkinson officiating. A reception followed at the Hotel Gotham. Mr. and Mrs. Clark will make a tour of the Canadian Rockies, after which they will reside in San Francisco.

Mrs. W. K. Vanderbilt Here Aug. 25

Mrs. William K. Vanderbilt, accompanied by the Duchess of Marlborough and William K. Vanderbilt, Jr., will arrive in New York about Aug. 25 from France. The funeral services for William K. Vanderbilt will take place following their arrival, the interment to be made in the family mausoleum at New Dorp, Staten Island. Mr. Vanderbilt's will will not be opened nor offered for probate until after the interment. Harold S. Vanderbilt, who was at his father's bedside when he died, has just arived on the Adriatic.

Stamford Horse Show Opens.

GREENWICH, Conn., Aug. 6.—The third annual Stamford Horse Show opened this afternoon at Sunain Farm, the estate of B. W. Taylor. It will be continued tomorrow. There are about 430 entries in the forty-seven classes. Reginald C. Vanderbilt is one of the Vice Presidents of the show, and John McCormack, the tenor, is a member of the committee, of which S. T. Taylor is Chairman. The judges are J. Garner West, George B. Hulme, Major Charles A. Benton and Thomas C. Ashton. The horses of G. L. Yandell of New York were among the prize winners today.

Miss Ruth Shepley Goes to Hospital.

Ruth Shepley, the actress, was taken to Roosevelt Hospital last night following an acute attack of Bright's disease, and will be operated upon early this morning by Dr. Henry W. Cave of 51 East Fiftieth Street. Miss Shepley became ill on Thursday while in bathing at Long Branch, but her trouble did not become acute until yesterday afternoon. It was said last night that her condition was serious.

CONVICTS MOURN WARDEN.

On Death Bed He Tells Penitentiary Band to Continue Playing.

Special to The New York Times.

BALTIMORE, Aug. 6.—Hundreds of convicts in the Maryland Penitentiary are mourning the death of John F. Leonard, the veteran Warden, because he had humanized the State prison reform movements. An hour before his death last night, Nicholas Smallwood, colored leader of the penitentiary band, sent word to the sick room to inquire if the music was annoying the Warden.

Leonard sent back the reply: "Certainly not. Tell Nick to keep on playing. I am enjoying it."

It seemed fitting that Warden Leonard's life should thus end, for the playing of that band was an epitome of his way of doing things at the Maryland Penitentiary. When he became head of the penitentiary in 1912 not a musical instrument had been heard in that building or the building which preceded it for more than 100 years. Even a "mouth organ" was prohibited.

A few years ago a negro prisoner told the Warden he was miserable without his mandolin. The Warden allowed him to send for the instrument. Another negro prisoner was allowed to have his guitar. Leonard did away with striped uniforms, abolished the lockstep, permitted talking at meals and organized moving picture shows and other indoor games. He gave permission to smoke pipes, cigars and cigarettes.

There was a man of education, serving a term for forgery. The Warden established a school and made him superintendent. Hundreds of illiterate men and women were taught to read and write. That man is now an editorial writer on one of the leading newspapers of the country.

LABOR MEN OPPOSE LEAGUE

Massachusetts Federation of Labor Against Covenant as It Stands.

LYNN, Mass., Aug. 6.—A resolution opposing the League of Nations as now constituted was adopted today by voice vote, after an all day debate, at the annual convention of the State Branch, American Federation of Labor.

Although no voice was raised in opposition, a check roll call showed 109 delegates in favor of the resolution, 43 opposed and 142 not voting, having left the convention because of other business.

The debate was begun yesterday, when Frank H. McCarthy, Chairman of the Resolutions Committee, presented a resolution indorsing the league covenant, with reservations, as a substitute for two resolutions opposing the league. Mr. McCarthy made a three-hour speech in favor of his resolution today, after many other delegates had spoken in opposition.

The resolution adopted is identical with one adopted by the Boston Central Labor Union two weeks ago. It demands that the United States enter no league so constituted that Great Britain has six votes to one for this country, or that makes it impossible for Ireland to obtain its freedom.

EDWARDS NOT TO MEET COX.

Governor Explains Duties Keep Him from Notification Ceremony.

Governor Edwards of New Jersey will not attend the formal notification ceremony for Governor Cox at Dayton, Ohio, today, it was announced at Trenton, N. J., yesterday. The Governor sent the Democratic Presidential nominee the following telegram:

"Appreciating your expressed desire for my attendance at the notification ceremony tomorrow, I regret the fact that important State duties render it impossible for me to be there and assure you no other reason would prevent my presence at the formal notification of the nominee who will, I believe, with a vast majority of our fellow Americans, be the next President of the United States."

Governor Cox's telegram inviting Governor Edwards to be present read: "I trust that you will join other Democratic Governors at the notification ceremonies. I would like very much to have you here."

STRIKERS RAID WRONG PLACE

Seeking Fur to Cut to Pieces, They Injure Man in Apartment House.

Fifteen striking fur workers, looking for consignments of fur to cut to pieces on Bathgate Avenue, The Bronx, yesterday blundered into an apartment house and struck one man over the head, but escaped before police summoned from the Tremont police station could reach the scene.

The men had heard of shipments of fur being taken uptown by merchants and stored temporarily in an apartment house. They wanted to cut up the goods, but chose the wrong building. When a tenant, Samuel Griffler, a stableman, confronted the crowd, at 1,682 Bathgate Avenue, some one struck him with a revolver. He was attended by a doctor from Fordham Hospital.

PAY RISE FOR CUSTOMS MEN.

Annual Increases of $200 to $600 Will Date from July 1.

As a result of several conferences between Collector of the Port Byron R. Newton and Assistant Secretary of the Treasury Jouett Shouse, announcement was made yesterday at the Custom House that the salaries of the employes would be raised $200 to $600 per year, to date from July 1. Mr. Shouse informed the Collector that more than one-half of the $1,300,000 appropriated as extra moneys for the customs employes would be used in New York.

Fully 1,800 employes will be benefited by the increase, but the customs guards are excepted, as they are paid under an act of Congress passed several years ago. Elevator operators in the Custom House and the United States Barge Office receive such low pay that four elevators in the Custom House had to be shut down recently for lack of help. The Collector is taking this matter up with Washington. Up till this time some inspectors on the appraiser's staff were only receiving $1,000 a year.

POLICE LOSE RIDES ON I. R. T.

White Shield Members of Force Must Pay When Off Duty.

The Police Department sent out a notice yesterday that members of the force holding white shields would no longer be permitted to ride free on the lines of the I. R. T. when in civilian clothes.

The order does not affect the higher officials and clerical force who wear gold shields. The order caused much unfavorable comment among patrolmen, who pointed out that there were many instances of members of the force being of service to the Interborough in quelling disturbances and making arrests when off duty.

Walks 126,400 Miles as a Carrier.

Special to The New York Times.

MIDDLETOWN, N. Y., Aug. 6.—John D. Adams, a civil war veteran, who was one of the four letter carriers appointed thirty-three years ago when the service was established here, was retired today after making his morning trip, owing to the age limit. SECOND MYSTERY IN PARIS MURDER

Inquiry Reveals That Mme. Bessaraba's First Husband Was Also Shot.

SHE CONSULTED OUIJA BOARD

Accused Wife Also Delved Into Spiritualism, Wrote Poems and Novels and Speculated.

Copyright, 1920, by The New York Times Company.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, Aug. 6.—The mysteries of the ouiji board was one of the interests of Mme. Bassarabo, who last Friday night shot her husband in their bedroom in Montmartre, and after packing the body in a trunk ready for dispatch to a baggageroom at Nancy, spent a quiet night's sleep.

She was a poetess, novelist, dramatist, feminist and spiritualist. At her home literary discussions frequently ended in spiritualist seances. Her restless mind experimented with the occultism at the same time she was writing passionate romances and speculating on the stock exchange.

In the inquiries which the police and newspapers are conducting a new feature in this amazing case has developed. It appears that the first husband of Mme. Bessarabo, a Mexican called Jacques, was also shot dead in his bedroom. No suspicion was attached, however, to his wife, as he left a letter stating that he was about to commit suicide owing to business troubles. What these were is not apparent, as he left nearly a million francs to his wife and all his affairs seemed to be in perfect order.

That first drama in the life of this extraordinary woman writer, whose books are fillled with a spirit of revolt against male domination, occurred in 1914, and it was during a trip to Mexico soon afterward to arrange her affairs that she met and married her second husband.

In her statement to the police she declared that the fatal shot was fired during a struggle, but on the body found in the trunk at the Nancy station doctors declared there are no signs of a struggle. The bullet had entered the brain at the temple, and seemed to have been fired from a distance of some feet.

In such a passionate crime the question of whether or not there was premeditation is always an important matter in France, and it is around that that discussion is going on. The husband's friends declare that the wife had repeatedly declared her hatred of her husband's way of living, but friends in her own circle are as emphatic that the shot was fired in a crisis of despair and grief. In all her writings there is a strong revelation of a tempestuous, passionate character. The chapter headings of her books, which show wide reading of both classical and obscure authors, have in many cases a curious appositeness to her own life.

"Is perpetual disquiet the sole charm of existence?" she quotes from Phileas Lebesque, and prefaces one of her books with Victor Hugo's epigram, "Le drame c'est la vie, et la vie, c'est tout." The final chapter of the same book carries as a motto one phrase of Marie Lenerou, "Sacrifice whatever you will except yourself."

Inquires into the financial affairs of both the dead man and his wife show that they had been speculating and that while the husband had been making money and spending it, the wife had been losing. It was to money troubles more than jealousy that Bessarabo's brother attributes the frequent family quarrels. A large sum was due to the husband as a commission on a Mexican sale of a sugar factory, but the day before he was shot the husband had refused to advance money to his wife.

An enormous number of witnesses are being called by the examining Magistrate from among the friends of both sides, those acquainted with the financial affairs of the couple and those who engaged in the literary discussions and the spiritualist seances. Inquiry too is being instituted into the circumstances of the death of Jacques, the first husband of the accused woman and the father of the beautiful girl who helped her pack the body of Bessarabo in a traveling trunk and carry it to a taxicab, to be sent by rail to Nancy.

GORGAS FUNERAL PLANS.

General's Body Will Arrive Here Aug. 11 on Its Way to the Capital.

GEORGE F. BURBA DEAD.

Was Formerly Editorial Writer on Cox's Newspaper.

COLUMBUS, Ohio, Aug. 6.—George F. Burba, editorial writer for The Columbus Dispatch and at one time private secretary to Governor Cox and editorial writer on The Dayton News, died suddenly this morning at his home here of heart disease.

Special to The New York Times.

DAYTON, Ohio, Aug. 6.—While Governor Cox was in his office at The Dayton News this morning word came by telegraph that George F. Burba had died suddenly at Columbus. At the time Mr. Burba's brother was in the office talking to Governor Cox.

Mr. Burba was a writer on Governor Cox's paper, The Dayton News, for several years, and while here wrote the editorials on the war which have been the subject of attack from Republican sources as showing a pro-German and pacifist tendency.

Mr. Burba left Dayton about three years ago, going to Columbus, where he obtained a place as editorial writer on The Columbus Dispatch.

Governor Cox was greatly depressed by the news of the death of his old friend.

S. C. Scotten, Art Collector.

GIANTS TAKE TWO GAMES FROM CUBS

Benton and Douglas Pitch High-Class Ball and Team Bats Well Behind Them.

McGrawmen Gain Their Sixth Victory in a String—Bancroft in Brilliant Performance.

The galloping Giants found nothing to interrupt their progress at the Polo Grounds yesterday. They hooked up with the Cubs in a twin bill and breezed along to an easy victory in each encounter, taking the opener by the score of 5 to 2 and the closing section by 6 to 2. The double victory carried the McGrawmen closer to the two teams now leading them in the pennant parade and ran the latest winning streak of the team up to six straight.

This morning the Giants are only three games behind the pace-setting Robins and two games behind the second-place Reds. At the speed now being shown the Polo Grounders have a fine opportunity of getting to the front before closing the current home stand, a condition that did not seem possible only ten days ago.

High-class flinging and bunched stickwork tell the story of each success. In the first game the Giants did not collect any great number of safe slams, but they clustered the few hits they did get, and Rube Benton saw to it that the Cubs did no bunching worth while. The southpaw would have had a shutout but for a fumble by Bancroft in the ninth inning, but Rube had no complaint to make about this particular misplay. Bancroft had been helping Benton with such sensational support that one little error passed unnoticed. Davy flashed as brilliant a performance at short during the twin bill as has been seen in Harlem in many a day.

In the closing section of the double-header Phil Douglas gave a still better exhibition of pitching than Rube had shown in the opener, and the Giants did a lot more hitting than they had done in the first half of the program. As a result, Douglas just shuffled along to victory without once being in distress. He also came close to a shutout, but an effort at a shoestring catch by Ross Young in the eighth inning proved a failure and two runs developed. The Cubs got to Douglas for only three hits. Terry's hit in the eighth, which was turned into a triple when Young missed the ball, would have been a single if Young had not tried for the shoestring catch.

Weather Keeps Crowd Down.

Threatening weather served to keep the attendance down to 15,000. Rain in the early afternoon made it doubtful for a time whether the games would be played, but with the team operating on such a high momentum it was decided to play the games if possible. The field was a bit soggy, but despite this fact the two teams played high class ball in the field. There were a few spills by outfielders in chasing hits, but not enough to affect the score to any extent. The Giants showed to advantage over their opponents all the way and the crowd had no anxious moments wondering about the outcome.

No less renowned a boxman than Grover Cleveland Alexander had to take the treatment which is being accorded to most comers at the Polo Grounds daily. Alex was sent out to capture the opener, but the New York gunfire became too rapid for his comfort, and Manager Mitchell gave his star an early vacation after he had worked four innings. He allowed only six hits during his sojourn on the mound, but some passes were interwoven and the hits were bunched, five runs resulting. After Alex departed Nick Carter came on for three innings and then Bill Bailey for one. The Giants did not get a runner to first base against either of these less illustrious boxmen, but they had done enough damage to Alexander to make further effort useless.

Lefty Tyler drew a reception in the second game much like that of Alexander in the opening session. The veteran southpaw was belted for eleven hits in six innings and this entitled him to early marching orders. Mitchell was satisfied that the game was gone before Tyler made his exit, so he called upon his newest rookie—Percy Jones, recently acquired from the Texas League. The newcomer had a lot of smoke and he limited the McGrawmen to one hit and no runs in his two innings on the mound.

Burns Stars with Bat.

Burns's stickwork and Bancroft's fielding, coupled with the pitching of Benton and Douglas, were the highlights of the twin bill. In the two games Burns got a triple, a double, three singles and a pass. Bancroft fielded sensationally all the way, his prize performance being a bare-hand stop in deep short against Terry in the first game. Bancroft followed up with a fine throw which retired the runner. In the first game the New York shortstop handled fifteen of his sixteen chances and he added five without a slip in the closing contest.

The Giants lost no time in the opener. After retiring the Cubs in order they took the lead with two runs on two hits, a pass and an error. Burns greeted Alexander with a single to left, Bancroft fanned and Young walked. After Frisch had fouled to Killefer for the second out Kelly lashed a single to centre on which Burns scored and Young rushed to third. Paskert's throw got away from Deal, and before the ball was recovered Young was over the plate.

In the third the Giants picked up three more runs and then closed the book until more runs were needed in the second game. Young drew a pass, Frisch popped to Merkle and Kelly drove a single to right which moved Young around to third. Spencer grounded to Merkle, who tried to get Young at the plate, but the New York outfielder got the decision on a pretty slide. Doyle followed with a triple to right centre which scored Kelly and Spencer. The next two batsmen went out in order, and in the remaining five innings Burns, who singled in the fourth and died stealing, was the only New Yorker to reach first base.

Cubs Dodge Shutout.

The Cubs appeared to be all measured for a shutout when they took up the cudgels in the ninth, but they escaped. Merkle walked and went to third when Paskert drove a grounder through Bancroft's feet. Deal's single to centre sent Merkle home and Paskert to second. Both runners advanced while Bancroft was throwing out Friberg, and Paskert scored on Killefer's infield out.

Tyler blanked the Giants for two innings of the second game, and then the artillery got busy. With one out in the third Douglas singled to left and halted at third on Burns's double to right. Bancroft chased the runs home with a single to centre.

Burns opened the fifth with a triple off the left field fence and scored when Terry dropped Bancroft's pop fly in short left, Davy going out when he tried to reach second. Young's walk, Frisch's single and a double by King added two more runs. In the sixth, with two out, successive singles by Bancroft, Young and Frisch added New York's sixth run.

A pass to Herzog, Terry's drive to right which escaped Young and rolled into a triple, and a sacrifice fly by Barber gave the Cubs two runs in the eighth.

The scores:

Curves and Bingles

Earl Smith had the temerity to pass some remarks about Wilyum Klem's umpiring in the second inning of the first game and just for that he had to quit the premises. Wilyum banished Earl for daring to criticise him when the Giants and Cubs played a recent series in Chicago.

As soon as it became known that the game in Brooklyn had been called off the Pirates ran true to form and hurried to the Polo Grounds to see the double header.

The double victory ran the latest string of successes to twenty in a stretch of twenty-five games. In eleven games against Western invaders at the Polo Grounds the Giants have been on the winning end ten times.

Tom Daly, who once made a home run before the King of England, almost made one before 15,000 lesser notables yesterday. Tom caught the second game and in the seventh inning he hit into the bleachers, but the ball fell on the wrong side of the foul line.

With two gone in the ninth inning of the second game Daly grounded to Frisch, and as the third sacker made his throw several hundred fans rushed on the field. The ball went to the stand, putting Daly on second, and the fans had to get back again until Frisch had made a good throw on O'Farrell.

Nehf will attempt to carry the winning streak to seven straight this afternoon. Hendrix or Martin will do the flinging for the Cubs.

Charley Hollocher, star shortstop of the Cubs, is not expected back in the game again this season. Hollocher underwent an operation for appendicitis a short time ago.

Phil Douglas was in such a batting mood that he threw away his bat in disgust when called out on strikes in the fourth inning. He got a clean single in the third inning, walked in the sixth and was robbed of a double by Paskert in the eighth.

RUTH SCORES HIS FORTY-FIRST HOMER

Two Circuit Clouts Play Important Part in 11-7 Victory of Yanks Over Tigers.

TEAM RECEIVES SHAKEUP

Huggins Sends Lewis to Outfield in Place of Meusel and Duffy Triples with Three on Base.

Special to The New York Times.

DETROIT, Aug. 6.—Babe Ruth set Flivverville aflutter this afternoon when he decorated the ball game between the Tigers and the Yanks at Navin Field with two man-sized home runs. Babe pumped his fortieth hurrah slap into the right centre field bleachers in the third inning when the score was tied at 4 to 4, and put the Yanks into the lead. The Yanks won, 11 to 7.

Babe came up in the sixth when there were two out and Ward and Peck were still aboard the pillows. George Dauss was still pitching and he tried to fool the slugger. This vanity on the part of the Detroit flinger met with disastrous results.

Ruth took one of his mightiest swings and, while the crowd of 10,000 howled with glee, the human howitzer met the ball with a blistering thump and it cleared the right centre field wall. If this crack had been made at the Polo Grounds it would probably have stopped the clock on top of the right field bleachers. The ball went across Trumbull Avenue into a garage where a mechanic was talking kindly to a stubborn Ford.

Manager Huggins has become so alarmed at the slump of his ball club that he shook the team up this afternoon. Bob Meusel, whose mind seems to be anywhere but on his work, was given a prominent place on the bench. Duffy Lewis went to left field and celebrated his return to the game in the first inning with a three-bagger which shoved over three runs. Ruth was placed in third place in the batting order. Ruel was behind the bat as Truck Hannah has been indefinitely suspended by President Johnson for talikng back to Umpire Dinneen.

Shakeup Helps.

The shakeup evidently did the Yanks a lot of good, because they went out and won the ball game. Detroit was on their trail all the time and the game was no certainty for the Yanks until Ruth got his sizable slap in the sixth with two on bases. The Yanks showed improvement today, but the doctors say they are not out of danger yet. They are taking lots of nourishment, but they don't seem to rest well at night. They have won only two out of the last seven games.

Ward ambled in the first and Peck singled to centre, his first safe slam in his last twelve trips to the plate. Dauss was afraid of Ruth and walked the slugger, filling the bases. Pratt rolled to Jones and Ward was forced at the plate. Duffy Lewis, starting his first game in many weeks, smashed a triple to right centre, sending Peck, Ruth and Pratt over the plate. Lewis crossed the plate as Pinelli was throwing Pipp out at first. Young tossed Bodie out at first.

Young walked in the Tigers' first and was forced by Jones. Cobb singled to centre, sending Jones to third. As Pratt was retiring Veach at first, Jones scored and Cobb romped home on Hellman's three-bagger to left. This ball hit high on the fence just out of the reach of Duffy Lewis' upstretched hands. Shorten died at first for the third out of the session.

Detroit tied it up in the Tigers' section of the second. Pinelli singled to right and Stanage was thrown out at first by Ward on a close play. Dauss walked and Young singled to centre, scoring Pinelli. Young tried to stretch his way to third and Umpire Owens called him out. Hughey Jennings allowed that Ward didn't touch Young and he argued so hard that the umpire banished him from the coaching lines. The heat is making the umpires very fussy these days. Jones singled to centre and sent Dauss home with the tying run.

Ruth Hits to Bleachers.

Ruth tore the tie score apart in the third, when he delighted the crowd with his fortieth home run, a big slam which carried the ball among the steerage passengers in the right centre field bleachers.

At the beginning of the Tigers' third Huggins sent Mogridge to the mound, giving Jack Quinn the afternoon off.

With one out, Stanage doubled to left in the fourth, Dauss walked, but Young and Jones both grounded out to Pipp. Peck doubled to left in the fifth and Ruth hit a fly to right, a mile in the air. After Flagstead caught the ball Peck raced to third and continued home when Flagstead's throw got away from Pinelli. Pratt got a pass and was caught between bases trying to make a delayed steal. Lewis lined to Pinelli.

With two gone in the sixth, Ruel singled to left and Mogridge walked. Ward singled to centre, scoring Ruel, and Peck's single to left sent Mogridge home. Ruth slashed his forty-first home run of the season over the right field wall into Trumbull Avenue, sending Ward and Peck home ahead of him.

With two salted away in the seventh, Bodie bounded a double off the centre field fence. Ruel walked and Mogridge's high fly was gathered by Cobb.

Oldham on the Mound.

Red Oldham went to the mound for the Tigers in the seventh, probably with the intention of stopping Ruth. Ward walked and was forced by Peck. Ruth barely caught the ball at the end of his bat and rolled to Young, forcing Peck. Babe went down when Hellman muffed Oldham's throw to catch the slugger napping. No damage that inning, as Flagstead got Lewis's fly and ended the chapter.

Flagstead singled to left in the eighth after Hellman fanned. Pinelli laid a perfect bunt down the third base line and was at first before the ball stopped rolling. Stanage rapped a two-bagger to left which Duffy Lewis just missed as it was touching the grass. Flagstead scored. Oldham fanned and Young's single sent Pinelli and Stanage across the plate. Hale was inserted to bat in place of Jones. Bodie halted the Tiger rally when he grabbed Hale's fly for the third out.

INDIANS DEFEATED BY THE ATHLETICS

Two Singles and Sacrifice Give Philadelphia Victory in Tenth Inning by 2 to 1.

CLEVELAND, Aug. 6.—The Philadelphia athletics defeated Cleveland in ten innings today, 2 to 1, scoring the winning run on a single by Dugan, a sacrifice by Shannon and a single by Perkins. Both Rommell and Coveleskie pitched great ball.

Coveleskie would have had a shut out to his credit, but for an error by Chapman in the ninth which let in the tying run. Rommell, who allowed but three hits in eight innings, retired in favor of a pinch hitter.

KERR WINS OWN GAME.

White Sox Pitcher Hits in Winning Run in 4-3 Battle with Boston.

CHICAGO, Aug. 6.—Dick Kerr won his own game today when Chicago defeated Boston 4 to 3 in ten innings. Williams, who had started for Chicago, did not permit a visitor to reach first base for six innings, but he weakened in the seventh and eighth. Chicago scored three runs in the first seven innings by opportune hitting off Elmer Myers, recently acquired by the Boston club from Cleveland.

Williams gave way for a pinch hitter and Kerr went to the mound. John Collins opened the tenth with a single and stole second. The next two men went out, but Kerr followed with a single to left, giving the locals the game.

PHILLIES' ERRORS HELPFUL TO REDS

Champions Come Off Victorious, 8 to 2, in Game Played in Rain.

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 6.—Poor fielding, due to weather conditions, played a large part in Cincinnati's 8 to 2 victory over Philadelphia today. The locals committed six errors and the few hits the visitors made off Smith were timely. Rain delayed the start of the game fifteen minutes and fell at intervals throughout the contest, but never hard enough to interrupt play.

RALLY WINS FOR BRAVES.

Score Seven Runs in Seventh Inning and Beat Cards, 7 to 3.

BOSTON, Aug. 6.—A seven-run rally in the seventh inning gave the Boston Braves their second straight victory over the St. Louis Cardinals today, 7 to 3. Maranville, Boston short stop, who was injured in an automobile accident last night, is expected back in the game tomorrow. Catcher McCarty of St. Louis, who was also hurt, will be out for several days with a lame back.

WANT RUTH IN CUBA.

Movement Is in Progress to Get the Home-Run King to Visit Havana.

A month's sojourn in Cuba next Fall, with all expenses paid and a small fortune thrown in for thus honoring the islanders with a visit, is the latest proposition which Babe Ruth will have to pass upon. With his Yankee salary and possible bonus, some ante-season baseball in the semi-pro ranks, a flurry in the movies and this trip to Havana, Babe will probably have to call upon some financial expert to figure out the income tax for his Uncle Samuel.

Cuban baseball fans are all excited over the Yankee slugger. They gather around the news stands in Havana for the baseball editions and whoop things up for the Sultan of Swat when the story of another home run catches their eager eyes. For some time past the box scores of all Yankee games have been carried in two morning papers in Havana, and the agitation for a series in the Fall, with Ruth as the headliner, has taken definite shape. Victor Lunares, Havana's leading sport promoter, and Victor Munoz, sporting editor of El Mundo, the leading sporting paper of the island, have arrived in New York and are now trying to complete arrangements for Ruth's appearance in Cuba after the close of the major league campaigns.

The plan under consideration calls for a series of twenty-five or thirty games by a team of American League stars against either an all-star team of Cuban players or a combination of National Leaguers. The Cuban promoter is prepared to put up a handsome guarantee, and it is not likely that any major league player will decline a place on teams playing for the money offered. Ruth, of course, would receive a special contract and the other players would be signed at lesser figures.

Cubans have been baseball enthusiasts for several years and games are played in Havana each Winter. Almandares Park was the big field at one time, but recently the game has been played at the race track in Havana. Several major league aggregations have made trips to the island, the latest being last Winter when Walter Pipp, Jack Quinn and other players made a tour. Ruth never has taken one of these trips, hence the desire of the natives to see the greatest hitter of them all.

Lunares plans to get the permission of Colonels Ruppert and Huston, owners of the Yankees, for the visit of their big star to Cuba. When this formality is completed, he hopes to draw up a contract for Babe's signature and then leave it to Ruth to pick the team which will play around the slugger in Havana. This probably means that several Yankees will be among the tourists. The Cuban promoter will remain in this vicinity for a few days and then, if developments warrant, he will travel westward to meet Ruth and arrange the contract.

MISS COLLETT WINS FINAL.

Defeats Miss Rosenthal in Close Match at Shenecosset.

Special to The New York Times.

NEW LONDON, Conn., Aug. 6.—In the final round of the Shenecosset Country Club women's championship here today Miss Glenna Collett, the brilliant young Providence golfer, defeated Miss Elaine Rosenthal of Ravisloe, Chicago, by 2 up in a hard-fought game. The match was close all the way with exceptional golf. Miss Collett was driving and approaching wonderfully, but was off in her putting until the latter part of the match. Miss Rosenthal's golf featured remarkable recoveries and fine work on the greens.

The first time that either was more than 1 up was on the fifteenth, when Miss Collett, after winning the previous hole, sank her first long putt and was 2 up with 3 to go. She lost the sixteenth, but halved the seventeenth, when she ran up another long putt, as Miss Rosenthal's six-footer rimmed the cup. On the home hole, 1 up, the Providence golfer was on the green in 2 and very near the pin. Miss Rosenthal was across a trap and far to one side. After taking her third, which left her a long putt, the Chicago player conceded the hole and match.

The finals of the beaten eight resulted in a victory for Mrs. J. D. Armstrong of Montclair over Mrs. A. J. Fay of Belmont Springs by 5 up and 4 to play.

Southpaw Golfers to Have Tournament of Their Own

Left-handed golfers of the Midlothian Country Club of Blue Island, Ill., have invited southpaw players from all over the country who belong to member clubs of the U. S. G. A., to compete in a national one-day open tournament on Aug. 11, solely for left-handed shotmakers. Evidently the sponsors have concluded what most golfers have long contended—that a southpaw is never a great golfer—since this date falls during the national open tourney at Inverness. The left-handed event will be thirty-six holes of medal play handicap and prizes will be awarded for gross and net scores, based on the day's total and on separate rounds. Entries will be received at the tee. New York's best known southpaw among the very few playing golf is Walter Purcell of Dunwoodie, runner-up in the Westchester amateur championship.

DEDHAM IS VICTOR IN POLO TOURNEY

Defeats Myopia for Point Judith Honors, 7 to 6, by Superior Team Work.

Special to The New York Times.

NARRAGANSETT PIER, R. I., Aug. 6.—The final game for the Overture Cups in the Point Judith tournament was won today by Dedham, 7 to 6, Myopia being unable to overcome a three-goal handicap. The game from start to finish was interesting, and the result was in doubt until the final whistle. Myopia appeared to be off form, team work being lacking to a certain extent. Rice showed flashes of his usual speed, but time and time again he overrode the ball when it was played up by his backs. Clarke, on the other hand, played a sterling game at back, and his aggressive play and telling shots were responsible for his team's victory. Demsey also played well.

Myopia was penalized on three occasions for fouling, but only once was Clarke able to make the free shot for goal count, this being in the seventh chukker. William Grovesnor came a cropper in the fifth period. He resumed play, however, shortly after, uninjured aside from being badly shaken up. In the fourth, fifth and final periods there was no scoring, the ball traveling from one end of the field to the other. By winning this game Dedham secures the Overture Cups for one year.

Tomorrow the Point Judith team plays Dedham, while Norfolk plays a special team for the Army and Navy Cups.

RIFLE SHOOTERS READY.

Marksmen on Edge for National Championship Tournament.

The stage is set for the National rifle shooting championship tournament. The curtain rose on Aug. 1 with the opening of the small arms firing school at Camp Perry.

The Ohio State rifle range is unquestionably one of the best in the United States and every effort has been made by Adjutant General Layton and his assistants to have the range in perfect condition for the matches.

Members of civilian rifle teams who have never before participated in a national match are attending the school. The range officers of each team also are attending. Should a man shoot on any team who has never attended a national match, nor been in attendance at the school, he will have to pay his own expenses.

There will be all kinds of shooting for all kinds of arms. While it is a rifle tournament there will be traps for the trapshooters. The pistol will be favored more this year than in the past.

The N. R. A. pistol matches will begin on Wednesday and continue until Aug. 21, and the National pistol matches will take place on Aug. 24 and 25. The second annual small bore tournament will begin on Aug. 9 and conclude on Aug. 20, and on the following day the international match with Great Britain will be shot. The twenty shooters with the best average in the small bore tournament will be chosen for the United States team. The American team defeated England last year 7,619 to 7,523.

The Catrow cup match will be shot on Wednesday, the Governor's Cup on Thursday, the Leech and Adjutant General's Cup on Friday, the Marine's Cup on Aug. 16, the Wimbledon and Herrick matches on Aug. 17, and the President's match on Aug. 18. The national matches with rifle, individual and team, take place during the week of Aug. 23.

The national matches are in charge of Major Morton C. Mumma. He will be assisted by these executive officers: Congressman Carl Hayden of Arizona, Adjutant General Layton of Ohio; Brigadier General Thompson Washington, Colonel William Libbey, Lieutenant Colonel Smith, Brookfield; Major Frank Maloney, Lieutenant Colonel Critchfield, Major La Garde, Major L. W. T. Waller, A. T. Newcomb E. R. Galvin, John J. Dooley, L. M. Rumsey and Edward C. Crossman.

COLORADO AND OHIO AHEAD.

Lead Field in National Guard Team Shooting with Small Arms.

CAMP PERRY, Ohio, Aug. 6.—Colorado and Ohio rifle teams held top places among the National Guard teams in today's events of the small arms firing school. In the civilian rifle contests teams from Michigan, Arizona, Iowa, Massachusetts, Minnesota, Montana and Florida were in the lead. The scores show that the civilian teams are leading the guardsmen in the pistol firing, with New Mexico, Minnesota and Rhode Island holding first places and Oregon, Minnesota and Texas ranking high on the soldiers' list.

Trap shooting events will open tomorrow under the direction of E. R. Galvin of the American Trap Shooting Association.

DULUTH FOUR VICTORIOUS.

Wins Bantam Event in Opening Races of Winnipeg Regatta.

WINNIPEG, Man., Aug. 6.—The Duluth Boat Club and the Winnipeg Rowing Club divided honors today in the first races of the regatta of the Northwestern International Rowing Association. The Duluth crew won the event for bantam fours by two lengths from the Winnipeg oarsmen, while the Winnipeg entry in the doubles event at one mile won by a length in 5:39.

It was the first regatta held by the association since 1913.

MAKES GOLF HOLE IN SINGLE STROKE

Frank Sheble Sinks Drive in Invitation Tourney at Shawnee Country Club.

Special to The New York Times.

SHAWNEE-ON-DELAWARE, Aug. 6.—Although struggling along in a meek and lowly fourth sixteen Frank Sheble of the home cub sprang the sensation of the day in the invitation golf tournament at the Shawnee Country Club today. This consisted of winning the sixteenth hole over the water in 1.

Sheble, who was playing against Dr. W. L. Angle, another Shawnee man, landed his tee shot about a club's length short of the cup and the ball had just sufficient "legs" to roll in.

Taking it all in all, it proved an enjoyable afternoon for Sheble, who won the match after being three down with three to play. Supplementing the one at the binnie kill, he captured the seventeenth and followed that by holeing a 40-foot putt on the home green. He then won the nineteenth.

While all this was going on, such other golfers as Frank Dyer of Upper Montclair, Maurice Risley of Atlantic City, George Hoffner of Bala, and J. Wood Platt of North Hills were doing their bit. They will meet as named in the semi-finals of the first sixteen tomorrow.

This afternoon Risley beat J. S. Worthington, the Westchester County champion from Siwanoy, in a nineteen-hole match. The winner went the round in 79. Dyer won both his matches by comfortable margins, going out in 37 against John G. Fox of Frankford in the morning.

The summaries:

First Sixteen, First Round—Frank W. Dyer, Upper Montclair, defeated John G. Fox, Frankford, 8 up and 7 to play; F. H. Gates, Montclair, defeated E. W. Haley, Essex County, 2 up and 1 to play; Maurice Risley, Atlantic City, defeated Gordon Wood, Richmond, 3 up and 2 to play; J. S. Worthington, Siwanoy, defeated Frederick C. Hall, Montclair, 6 up and 5 to play; George Hoffner, Bala, defeated Richard A. Haight, Princeton, 1 up; Fred. W. Knight, Whitemarsh, defeated John A. Luman, Bala, 5 up and 4 to play; Eugene C. Grace, Shawnee, defeated S. M. Newton, Richmond, 2 up; J. Wood Platt, North Hills, defeated Bruce Combe, Victoria, 5 up and 4 to play.

Second Round—Dyer defeated Gates, 4 up and 3 to play; Risley defeated Worthington, 1 up (19 holes); Hoffner defeated Knight, 4 up and 3 to play; Platt defeated Grace, 7 up and 5 to play.

GOLFERS GATHER IN TOLEDO

Edgar, Holder of Canadian Title, Does a 73 at Inverness.

TOLEDO, O., Aug. 6.—Upward of one hundred of the entrants in the national open golf tournament to be held at Inverness next week had arrived tonight and registered at hotels. Officials in charge of the tournament announced that virtually all of the stars of the golf world who will compete for the title in the classic will have checked in by sundown tomorrow, judging from reservations made.

Several of the golfers gave the course a going over today and some good scores were turned in. Jack Gordon of Buffalo shot an 80, while Dan Keeny of Olean, N. Y., came home in 77.

J. Douglas Edgar of Atlanta, holder of the Canadian open championship, went around in 73. Par for the course is 72.

Some of the other scores today were: Jack Burgess, Asheville, 77; J. MacKenzie, Chattanooga, 77; J. Lord, Chicago, 80; A. Brown, Lockport, N. Y., 83; Leo Diegel, Chicago, 77; Cyril Walker, Englewood, N. J., 80; Joe Sylvester, St. Albans, L. I., 79; Gil Nicholls, New York, 33 for nine holes. Joe Mitchell, of Montclair, N. J., is due and will try out the course tomorrow.

The Tournament Committee, which expressed disappointment over the reported failure of Charles (Chick) Evans to enter, learned today that Evans's name had been omitted through a mistake. S. P. Jermain, head of the committee, has received a telegram from Evans which said that the player instructed his assistant to enter his name but he neglected to mail the letter until last Monday. It is understood that Evans has appealed to Secretary W. D. Vanderpool to place his name on the list. Mr. Jermain also has appealed to the U. S. G. A., Secretary.

Stationers Arrange Tourney.

The next one-day tournament of the New York Stationers' Golf Association has been scheduled for the Arcola Country Club, near Hackensack, N. J., for Tuesday. R. M. Griffin is in charge of the Arcola event in the absence of J. R. Brundage, Chairman of the Tournament Committee.

RAY THE STAR OF BRITISH GOLF PAIR

Figures for Present Invasion Show Vardon Eclipsed by Playing of His Partner.

Ted Ray, and not his more illustrious partner on their present invasion, Harry Vardon, is showing himself to be the superior golfer of the great pair of English professionals. The first part of their tour of America's golf courses has ended and their engagements for the next few weeks may be regarded as comprising the middle part. The closing will begin when they return East early in September.

Even though Vardon was handicapped for a few days after arriving on July 17 with his crippled left thumb, hurt in a pillow fight on shipboard, Ray has demonstrated a far more brilliant ability even in the four more rounds he has played. Including their last New York appearance, on Sunday at Hollywood, Ray has made 25 circuits of American courses and Vardon 21.

Ray's 25 rounds have been completed in a total of 1,826 strokes, for an average of 73 1-25 for a round. Vardon's 21 circuits have been negotiated in 1,577 strokes for an average of 75 2-21 a round, more than two strokes difference. Naturally these figures include some approximations, which are conceded in best-ball matches. This is especially true of the scores for the second round at Greenwich on July 24 and for the second round at Scarsdale on July 31, where the scorers did not keep the bye holes but approximated them on the basis of par. In only one match were all putts holed out by both Britons, and that was their final appearance in the district when, along with Walter Hagen and Jim Barnes, they strove for a new Hollywood course record, Ray setting it at 71 but Hagen going him one better and lowering it to 70.

Moreover, Ray has made the better round. His 67 in the afternoon of July 22 at Fox Hills was the fewest number of strokes either has taken for any round. Vardon twice used 69 to make a circuit. Likewise, Vardon's worst round was 79, which he needed three times, at Shenecossett, Belmont Spring, and Hollywood. Ray only once took 79, the afternoon round at Greenwich, which was an approximation.

Ray, moreover, has had the lowest total for any day when thirty-six holes were played. He needed only 138 at Fox Hills, whereas Verdon's best day was a 143 at Apawamis. Ray's poorest day was July 24 at Greenwich, when he needed approximately 155 for two rounds. Vardon's poorest was July 30 at Belmont Spring, when he took 156.

	Vardon A.M.	Vardon P.M.	Ray A.M.	Ray P.M.
Siwanoy	75	76	74	71
Shawnee	did not play		73	74
Shawnee	did not play		73	73
Fox Hills	69	75	71	67
Woodway	75	75	72	73
Greenwich	78	71	76	79
Apawamis	74	69	71	71
Shenecossett	79	75	71	78
Springfield		77		71
Shuttle Meadow	78	75	76	70
Belmont Spring	79	77	73	75
Scarsdale	75	71	71	72
Hollywood	79	74	77	71

Vardon and Ray are to compete tomorrow at the Detroit Golf Club against Walter Hagen and Mike J. Brady. On Sunday they will tune up their game on the Inverness course at Toledo, scene next week of the national open championship, and they will remain at Inverness for the great title fixture, which will come to an end next Friday. Thereafter they will pass from the management of Arthur D. Peterson of this city to the Burke Golf Company of Newark, Ohio, and have the following engagements scheduled:

Aug. 14, Shaker Heights, Cleveland; 15, Park Club, Buffalo; 16, Scarborough, Toronto; 18, Newark, Ohio; 19, Dayton, Ohio; 20, Cincinnati; 21, Skokie, Chicago; 22, Lake Shore, Chicago; 23, South Bend, Ind.; 24, Glen View, Chicago; 25, White Bear Yacht Club, St. Paul; 28, Winnepeg, Canada; 29, Minikahda Club, Minneapolis; 30, public course, Minneapolis; 31, Minneapolis Golf Club; Sept. 1, Omaha, Neb.; 2, St. Joseph, Mo.; 3, Kansas City, Mo.; 4, Wichita, Kan.; 5, Sunset Hill, St. Louis.

After the last named date they will circle through several Southern States and return to the Metropolitan and Philadelphia districts for more matches before returning to England.

Newspaper Golfers Invited.

The Dunwoodie Country Club of Yonkers is the latest to invite the New York newspaper golfers to dig up divots in its garden, and the visit will be paid Monday. Prizes will be awarded to the player having low net score in the morning and low net selected score for the two rounds. An extra prize will be offered, the conditions to be announced on the day of play. E. Frank Teague, Secretary of the New York Newspaper Golf Club, said last night he expected the largest field of any of the one-day tourneys would play at Dunwoodie.

WRIGHT-WASHBURN TEAM WINS MATCH

New York Tennis Pair Defeats Harte and Caner in Four Hotly Contested Sets.

SCORES 2-6, 6-3, 6-3, 8-6

Steadiness and Experience Win for Veterans Over Hard Hitting of Opponents at Seabright.

Special to The New York Times.

SEABRIGHT, N. J., Aug. 6.—A New York tennis team secured a leg on the Seabright doubles bowls this afternoon when Beals Wright and Watson M. Washburn came through the final round of the historic invitation tournament with an astonishing victory over Richard Harte and G. Colket Caner of Boston, scored in four sets, 2—6, 6—3, 6—3, 8—6. The match was begun under almost ideal conditions, but before it ended rain was falling steadily and this may have interfered with a possible rally by the younger team at the close. In the main, however, it was simply a case of steadiness and court experience overcoming spectacular hitting, a situation which has been repeated over and over in this tournament.

It is not often that one sees half of the players in an important doubles final wearing spectacles. Today this handicap was evenly divided, both Caner and Washburn having frequent need of lens-cleaning after the rain started, and missing many shots toward the close, when they were unable to keep pace with the downpour. Caner protected his eyes somewhat by wearing a white canvas hat, but Washburn remained bareheaded and obviously did his best to keep from slowing up the game.

It was brilliant tennis in spots, but hardly consistent enough to be styled topnotch doubles. While the veteran Wright was the steadiest man of the four, no individual stood out prominently by his superiority. All four made more than their share of errors and in no case did their earned points approach a actual balance. The Bostonians gave away more points, and on more important occasions, and this practically summed up the difference in the teams.

Washburn in Splendid Form.

What flashes of headwork appeared, however, were supplied, as a rule, by either Wright or Washburn, who almost always knew what they wanted to accomplish, even though they could not invariably carry out their intentions. Washburn, in fact, did the most valuable work toward winning the match, in spite of an unusual number of slips. He lost his service only once in the course of the four sets, and this was entirely because of a temporary attack of double faulting. He made more good shots at crucial moments than any other man on the court, and when the completion of the victory lay in his hands he came through with a love game, regardless of the heavy rain. His judgment was consistently good and most of his flagrant errors were made either through overanxiety or because of the handicap to his eyesight.

The old national champion supported his partner well, being very dependable for finishing rallies whenever a setup was presented. The stroke analysis gives Wright by far the best percentage in comparing errors with earned points, but he handled fewer chances than any of the others, and somewhat more aggressiveness would have added considerably to his helpfulness. As it was, the star of fifteen years ago showed remarkable powers of endurance and came back with his strongest play in the final set, after being thoroughly winded by his opening service game, a twenty-point deuce affair.

On the whole, Caner was the more effective on the losing side. His total of errors was considerably smaller than that of Harte and, while he did not earn so many points outright, he made his full share of the forcing shots, which gave his partner a chance for spectacular smashes and stop-volleys. Harte worked hard all the way, but was in constant trouble with his ground strokes, being too often unable to get the ball into play off service. With an adequate opportunity to kill. he brought off many a sensational effort; but his game lacked stability and consistency, as has been the case all season.

Recuperative Ability.

The most impressive feature of the match was the ability of Washburn and Wright to come from behind under any and all conditions. They lost the opening set by a wide margin, but took the second and third in a decisive fashion that left no doubt as to their superiority. In the final session they trailed at 1—4 and 2—5, but again they showed striking recuperative powers, and after tying up the games completed their victory with two successive breaks through the opposing service. Wright equalized by losing his own in the pinch, but Washburn left no lingering doubts when he served a love game for the finish.

Harte was the first to serve, and for five games there was a regular alternation, with Wright's heartbreaking marathon as the most exciting feature. The first break came against Washburn in the sixth game, as the direct result of three double faults, in spite of which a deuce affair of sixteen rallies was required for the decision. After Caner had made it 5—2 on service, Wright also lost his delivery, with two errors and Caner's good volley and back-hand passing drive, which completed the set, 6—2.

In the second session, however, Harte immediately put his side in the hole by losing his service, throwing away the last two points with a double fault and the wild return of a deep lob. The New Yorkers kept this advantage up to 3—1 and then upset Harte's delivery again, this time for a love game in which Wright's fine lob and Washburn's clean passing drive figured prominently. They advanced to 5—1 on service, then dropped a love game to Caner, but Wright, after being within two points of the set, lost in turn on Harte's brilliant smash of a high bounder. Harte, however, became the victim of a third break immediately after, serving a double fault and then netting a volley and a chop in succession, which lost the set at 6—3.

Break Through Harte's Service.

With the match all square Wright and Washburn went after the third set in earnest and after winning a long deuce game broke through Harte for the fourth time running, a double fault again contributing its help and Washburn's clean drive sending the score to 2—0. Wright lost his service, only to get back the game off Caner, with a beautiful lob and smash contributing appreciably. There was alternation of successful service from this point to the end of the set, Wright making two wonderful volleys in the closing game, one landing deep in the alley and the other dropping dead just over the net. Caner's out completed the 6—3 score.

After taking a rest, both teams came back in fighting trim, and service won for three games. Then a long deuce game went against Wright, and the Bostonians led 3—1. The regular course of service took the score to 4—1 and 5—2, Wright starting the pull-up with a victory in which a badly bounding serve gave him an ace. Long rallies marked the next game, the Harvard men trying their best to put the ball away with terrific smashes, but always finding it on its way back from the stubborn racquets of Wright and Washburn. By netting four times, the last on an easy smash after Wright's great get, with Washburn flat on the ground and powerless, Harte lost his service for the crucial game of the match. Washburn was in the hole, 15—40, with only one point needed to make everything square, but Wright made another splendid recovery of a deep lob, and Washburn's smash, followed by two errors from the opposition, made the score 5—all.

The victory seemed won when Caner flubbed a smash in the rain and dropped his service, but Wright also lost, Harte overbalancing two errors with three dazzling placements. The fair-haired young giant, however, was again unlucky with his own delivery. He smashed an easy one out, and Washburn's winning lob, flubbed by Caner, put him in the hole, 15—40. A close second serve was called a double fault, and the odd went against Harte, 7—6.

Washburn lost no time cleaning up. He got two errors from the rain-demoralized Caner, and brought up the match point with a good volley. Caner again lost sight of the ball, and it found the net for the set and match, 8—6.

Tomorrow's program includes the final of the men's singles, Washburn vs. W. E. Davis, the women's singles, Miss Marion Zinderstein vs. Miss Eleanor Tennant, and the mixed doubles. An East-West junior doubles match will he played in the morning, A. W. Jones and William Ingraham facing R. Hinkley and L. Godshall. Victorious Davis Cup Team Is Due to Arrive Tomorrow

America will not be able to welcome the victorious Davis Cup team until tomorrow because of the unexpectedly late arrival of the Imperator. It had been hoped that the team would arrive in time for an exhibition match at Seabright and also for some sort of a formal welcome to be extended to them. However, the late arrival gives the players little more than time to make connections for Newport. Therefore the National Association has arranged to have the dinner customarily given during the championship held as a tribute to the victorious team. Plans are now being worked out to make this a memorable event.

VETERAN TEAM IS WINNER.

Hammett and Henderson Become Finalists in Hoboken Tennis.

Alfred D. Hammett and Embree H. Henderson of the University Heights Club advanced to the final round of the open doubles tournament at the Hoboken Tennis Club yesterday, defeating S. E. Palmer and F. D. Powers of Glen Ridge in straight sets, 6—3, 6—1. They will meet Fred C. Baggs and J. P. Stockton in the wind-up of the event at 2:30 this afternoon.

The losers put up a good battle yesterday, in spite of the decisive scores. Six of the nine games in the opening set were deuce affairs, and three of those in the second ran to extra points. They pulled up on even terms after trailing at 1—3 in the first session, but faltered after that and lost three in a row. Two more were lost before Palmer and Powers got started in the second set, and after winning one service they dropped four straight for the match.

Henderson excelled at volleying and overhead hitting, with Hammett very steady on his lobs and chops. Both Palmer and Powers were persistent getters, and some long rallies resulted from their stubborn returning of the ball even under the most difficult conditions. They lacked the forcing strokes, however, necessary to turn the tide against so experienced a combination as the Heights team.

MERRIAM AND MAN SURVIVE.

Will Meet Today in Final Round of Connecticut Net Tourney.

Special to The New York Times.

WINSTED, Conn., Aug. 6.—As a result of the outcome of today's matches in the State championship tennis tournament, A. W. Merriam of Farmington and Alrick H. Man, Jr., of Richmond Hill, L. I., will meet in the finals tomorrow for the State title and the Bridgeman Cup. Man has already won it for two years and if victorious tomorrow the trophy will be his permanently.

The summaries:

Singles, Semi-finals—A. W. Merriam defeated M. T. Ackerland, 7—4, 7—5, 3—6, 6—8; A. H. Man, Jr., defeated C. Major, 6—3, 6—2, 10—7.

Third Round—W. J. Gallon and L. E. Mahan defeated M. Vernon and Alex Iler, 6—4, 6—8.

Semi-final—L. Mahan and W. Gallon defeated F. Hopkins and G. Clark, 6—1, 6—2, 5—7, 6—4.

Mixed Doubles, Second Round—Mr. and Mrs. Clark defeated Miss J. Boote and C. Watson, 6—2, 7—5; Miss Isham and V. Ward defeated A. T. Ackerland and Mrs. Adriance, 5—7, 6—2, 6—2.

Third Round—Mr. and Mrs. Clark won from Miss Isham and V. Ward by default.

MANY TENNIS ENTRIES.

Stars from All Over Country to Compete in National Tourney.

Entries for the national singles championship, which begins Aug. 30, are being received by the United States Lawn Tennis Association in such numbers as to indicate that this tournament will represent the best tennis all over the country. Inquiries from Indianapolis, Chicago, St. Louis and other cities of the Middle West show that that section is likely to be well represented.

Harry Parker, Treasurer, 101 Park Avenue, who is handling the tickets for the championship, states that the number of inquiries received there indicates a lively interest in the tournament. The advance sale of season tickets, which are the only ones that can be purchased before the tournament begins, has been good. The sale closes Aug. 25.

WOMEN IN DOUBLES FINAL.

Closing Match of Greenwich Tennis Tourney Scheduled for Tomorrow.

Announcement has been made by the Field Club of Greenwich that the finals of the women's doubles in the invitation tournament, which was postponed because of rain, will be played at 3:30 tomorrow afternoon.

In this match Miss Eleanor Tennant and Miss Florence Ballin will meet Mrs. Robert Leroy and Miss Edith Handy. The committee in charge of the tournament has made several efforts to schedule this event, but could not get all the contestants together until this week-end.

FORM NEW TEAMS FOR DOUBLES PLAY

Tilden and Johnston Will Have Other Partners in National Net Championships.

Several changes in the makeup of the teams that will try for the national doubles championship at the Longwood Cricket Club the week of Aug. 16 will be followed with close attention by those who are interested in tennis. William H. Johnston and William T. Tilden, who won the London championship and formed the doubles combination of the Davis Cup team, will not play together at Boston, nor will the combination of Richard N. Williams and Charles S. Garland be continued, although they hold the English title.

Last season Tilden and Garland agreed to play together in tournaments in the United States and started their career as a team at Southampton. While they wanted to keep this arrangement for home tournaments, they placed themselves absolutely at the disposal of the Davis Cup Committee so far as international matches were concerned and teamed up as the committee advised. Now, however, they have entered for the tournaments at Newport and Longwood. and it will be interesting to see just how the combination works.

Clarence J. Griffin and William M. Johnston, the former title holders, in the opinion of many judges are about at the top of the doubles game in the United States, and accordingly they will try their luck together at Newport and in the national event. Griffin is playing in excellent form and at Seabright has done remarkably good work. He won the California sectional doubles with Willis E. Davis and had been expected to play with him at Longwood.

However, the Davis Cup Committee requested authority from the Executive Committee of the United States Lawn Tennis Association to recommend to the National Doubles Championship Committee that Griffin and Davis be allowed to separate for that tournament, so as to give the Davis Cup Committee a chance to see how the Johnston-Griffin combination would work out. At their suggestion William S. Myrick, as President, conferred with Vice President Edwin F. Torrey and other officers of the association, who agreed that this was a wise course to follow.

Richard N. Williams is playing with Richard Harte, and with the Tilden-Garland and Johnston-Griffin teams also in the hunt for the national title, the tournament promises to be an unusually close contest. In addition to the winners of sectional doubles championships, several other teams of ranked players will be in action at Longwood. Entries close August 12 with Richard Bishop, Secretary of the club, or the National Association.

The foregoing decision by the Davis Cup Committee is in line with its announced intention to keep an open mind as to the personnel of the team to be sent to Australia for the challenge round of the Davis Cup contest. Its makeup will not necessarily be the same as that of the team which represented the United States in England, decision depending upon the showing several players make in the national championships and in the tournaments preceding, at Seabright, Newport and Southampton.

The committee has been informed that the Imperator, upon which the team is coming home, is due tomorrow morning. Accordingly there will be a party of the association's officers at the pier to welcome them and see them properly on their way to Newport, where they will be in action next week.

FORSBERG WINS AT CHESS.

Defeats Bernstein in New York State Championship Tourney.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, Aug. 6.—An exciting finish is promised in the annual tournament for the State chess championship as a result of the defeat of J. Bernstein by B. Forsberg, both of New York, at the Ridgefield Clubhouse of the Y. M. C. A. today. Forsberg won in seventy-one moves. This gave him a standing of 4 won and 1 lost, while Bernstein, with 5 and 1, has completed his schedule. Forsberg started his last game with Stevens of New York and this was adjourned in an even position. Should he win he will tie Bernstein for first place and the two will play off for the title.

George X. N. Cheney of Syracuse won first prize in Class A with a standing of 6½ and 1½. F. R. Stevens, Schenectady, was placed second with 5½ and 2½; D. F. Searle, Rome, and M. I. Lockwood, Staten Island, tied for third with 5 and 3.

The Class B tournament was won by Hans Nielsen of the Staten Island Chess Club after a tie with J. S. Brubacher of Albany. Each scored 7½ and 1½. In the playoff Nielsen defeated Brubacher.

John H. Morior of Rensselaer captured first prize in Class C with standing of 6 and 2. D. Whittle of Albany finished second with 5½ and 2½.

HOPE TO SIGN WEDNESDAY.

Kearns Says Heavyweight Title Bout Will Be Settled.

Jack Kearns deposes that to the best of his knowledge and belief nothing short of inclement weather or a bilious attack can prevent articles being signed next Wednesday afternoon at the Hotel Belmont for a world's heavyweight championship battle between Jack Dempsey and Bill Brennan. Kearns says that he and Leo P. Flynn, manager of Brennan, will affix their signatures then and there to articles for the bout to take place before the club offering the best inducements. Boston, Denver, Buffalo and one or two other cities have made offers, but they are waiting for Tex Rickard to put in his bid for Madison Square Garden.

Yesterday Dempsey entertained eighty crippled soldiers from the Fox Hills Hospital on Staten Island at the Van Kelton open stadium, Eighth Avenue and Fifty-seventh Street. Dempsey shook hands with the soldiers. They were taken back in two big sight-seeing cars. Tomorrow will be Casper Leon day at the Dempsey quarters. All the receipts taken in will be turned over to Phil Lewis, who is in charge of an effort to get $15,000 for the little fighter.

TO HONOR DAVIS CUP TEAM.

Newport Plans Public Reception to Victorious Tennis Players.

Special to The New York Times.

NEWPORT, R. I., Aug. 6.—As the Newport Casino invitation tennis tournament next week will be the first participated in by the successful Davis Cup team, Tilden, Johnston, Williams and Garland, these players are to be royally received and entertained here. While members of the Summer colony are planning to entertain the players, the Tennis Committee of the Casino, which is headed by Governor Beeckman, is also planning to do its part in making the visit of the Davis Cup team and the other participants in the tournament a particularly pleasant one.

The Tennis Committee wants all Newport to join in welcoming the stars of the tennis world, and the committee is contemplating giving a public reception, possibly on Tuesday afternoon, for the Davis Cup team. It is likely that Governor Beeckman and Mayor Mahoney will be asked to assist in receiving with them.

Four Survive in Utica Golf.

UTICA, N. Y., Aug. 6.—Sherrill Sherman will meet Gil Tiffany of Schenectady, and Colonel Thomas Y. Sherman and C. F. McKenna, medalist, will clash in the semi-final round of the twelfth invitation tournament of the Yahnundasis Golf Club tomorrow. Close playing featured the first and second rounds today.

Columbia Football Practice Is Ordered for Sept. 13

Buck O'Neill, the new football coach at Columbia, is evidently not a superstitious person, for he made the announcement yesterday that the first football practice for the coming season will be held on Monday, Sept. 13. The entire squad, however, will not be assembled at that time. O'Neill will call out only twenty-five or so of the first-string players, who will plug away until the opening of the school year on Sept. 22. From that date on all candidates will be welcome in the workouts on South Field. The first game will be on Oct. 2, with Trinity. O'Neill's coaching staff will be the same that assisted Fred Dawson last year and will comprise Tom Thorp, Alex Telfer and Carl Merner. The latter will be in charge of the freshman eleven, Thorp will handle the linemen and Telfer will have charge of the ends.

M'DONALD IS TWICE WINNER AT TOLEDO

Pilots Baron Cegantle and Dottie Day to Victory in Final Racing Card.

TOLEDO, Ohio, Aug. 6.—Lon McDonald, the Indianapolis driver, enjoyed a field day at the Fort Miami track on get-away day today, winning two out of the three events on the closing card. McDonald headed the list in the 2:06 trot with Baron Cegantle, and the 2:20 trot with Dottie Day.

Baron Cegantle, skilfully handled, captured the Steadman Sweepstakes from the favorite, Peter Colby, which made bad breaks in the first two heats and then was out-trotted in the final mile while Don de Lopez was piloted out in front by Pop Geers. With high class performers in the race, the finishes were close and the time was the three fastest heats trotted this season.

Dottie Day, a winner earlier in the week, easily repeated in the 2:20 trot for McDonald, but Baroness Hanover was a contender most of the way.

The Boston man took his first race of the year when W. Fleming won for him in the 2:25 pace; Bonique came through at the wire in the third heat and won.

Most of the horses were shipped this morning to North Randall track, where they race next week, and the rest left early tonight.

TROJAN TO RACE AGAIN.

Winner of 1914 Futurity Again Training Well at Saratoga.

J. Temple Gwathmey, whose Canterbury stud which is domiciled in Fauquier County, Va., has become one of the most considerable thoroughbred nurseries of the East, believes that he will succeed in bringing the Sir Wilfrid stallion Trojan back to the races in winning form while the horses are at Saratoga this month. Sir Wilfrid got Trojan at Henry T. Oxnard's Blue Ridge stud, and Trojan, a great bull of a colt, won the Futurity Stakes here in 1914. The Futurity was the only race Trojan ever won. He was too big for his underpinning as a three-year-old. Mr. Gwathmey bought him for service at Canterbury Farm after he had broken down. He decided to train the horse last season, because Trojan had fined down into a splendid racing type. He weighs above 1,200 pounds and is probably the biggest thoroughbred in training, but he does not appear to carry an ounce of superfluous flesh. If the expectations of Mr. Gwathmey with regard to Trojan are realized he may develop a great route traveler in the Sir Wilfrid horse. A son of the Mattie T. mare Bohemia, Trojan is a Maggie B. B. horse in tail female descent. Stephen Lawler, the man who developed Trojan and prepared him for his victory in the Futurity, is training him for his come-back. Lawler and Trojan have been here for some weeks. Trojan's Saratoga engagements are in the Saratoga Handicap and the Saratoga Cup.

Last Spring at Belmont Park there was a sale of Canterbury bred two and three years olds that netted something like $35,000. Mr. Gwathmey will sell four yearlings raised on his Fauquier country place, which abounds in blue grass, at Saratoga on the night of Aug. 12. There will be three colts and a filly in the Gwathmey consignment, all of them by Wrack, the brilliant young English stallion that is represented in American racing this season by the stake winners, Careful, Knobble, Blue Wrack and Blazes. The colts are from Sobriquet, a daughter of Toddington and Nickname; Bacchante, a daughter of Sea Horse and Valorous, she by Stalwart, and Ogress, a daughter of Eon and Emma A., she by Lisbon. The filly is from Clasher, a daughter of Meddler and Iolanthe, she by Helmbold.

COLT SOLD FOR $14,000.

Sale of Yearlings at Saratoga Realizes Total of $128,950.

Special to The New York Times.

SARATOGA SPRINGS, N. Y., Aug. 6.—The sale of yearlings conducted by the Fasig-Tipton Company here tonight realized a total of $128,950. A. B. Hancock was consigned several prominent places in the list of top prices. One of his brown colts by Rock View out of Gold was purchased by W. R. Midgley, representing the Greentree Stable, for $14,000. Mr. Midgley purchased a chestnut filly by Celt out of Network for $12,500 and a brown colt by Celt out of imported Dark Water for $8,000.

J. K. L. Ross bought for $12,600 a chestnut colt by Jim Gaffney-Alice Dudley from the consignment of Charlton Clay of Paris, Ky.

"BABE" RUTH, THE AKHOOND OF SWAT.

LEONARDO II. SHOWS SPEED AT SARATOGA

Defeats Strong Field of Juveniles by Big Margin in Five-Furlong Dash.

Special to The New York Times.

SARATOGA SPRINGS, N. Y., Aug. 6.—The crowd that attended the racing at the Saratoga course this afternoon had an opportunity to see in action a colt which is not only one of the best two-year-olds that have been brought out so far, but which is one of the few real contenders for the juvenile crown. This was J. W. McClelland's Leonardo II., a son of Sweep-Ethel Page, which made his second appearance under colors in the final race of the day, a dash of five furlongs, which brought fifteen starters to the post.

While this was not the feature of the card, the impressive manner in which Leonardo II. won and the horses he defeated made it by far the most interesting contest, as well as one which showed a horse that will undoubtedly figure prominently in the remaining juvenile events. Leonardo II. fairly tow-roped this field, which contained J. K. L. Ross's Hildur, H. P. Whitney's Wellfinder, a first starter, but one which had been highly thought of; General Monocal, another which has gained a reputation without racing for it, and Playfellow, the full brother of Man o' War. Leonardo II. won by six lengths, with Hildur second and Wellfinder third.

Following the race there were many who voiced the opinion that Leonardo II. would give Inchcape the best race he has had this season, if indeed he is not a better colt. His race today was such a brilliant performance that there will be great interest when he does match strides with the colt which S. C. Hildreth recently purchased for a record price.

Hildur Gets Away Best.

Leonardo II. did not have a runaway race from the start without being put to a test. Getting none of the best of the start, he was forced to make his way on the outside, go around his field and catch the fleet Hildur, which had left the post flying to go into a long lead in the first furlong. Once Leonardo II. got up to his rival the race was over, for he drew away as though Hildur had struck a snag on the track and come to a stop.

Leonardo II. was coupled with John Paul Jones and the entry was a 7 to 10 choice in this field of fifteen horses. Even at that price and with the fact that the colt had started but once before the entry was heavily backed. Hildur and Wellfinder had some followers, and both horses ran to excellent form.

Leonard II. was so far to the outside that he was three lengths back of Hildur running through the back stretch, but finally the McClelland colors appeared at the turn and Leonardo II. was fast disposing of all his rivals except Hildur, which was running at a fast clip and apparently holding a safe lead. Leonardo II. charged on him as he turned into the stretch, came abreast of him at the end of the turn and once straightened out, drew away with such ease that Shuttinger was easing the winner up at the end while Hildur was still running at top speed six lengths back. The race was run in 0:58 3-5, which is the fastest time that has been made on a New York track this season for five furlongs.

Tailor Maid a Victor.

The feature of the day was the Mechanicsville Handicap at a mile, which was won by G. W. Atkinson's Tailor Maid, a filly that takes a notion about three times a season to beat some good horses. This afternoon she took the measure of the aged Leochares and Under Fire among others, winning by a nose at 10 to 1. This had promised to be a better contest, as John Paul Jones, winner of the Kentucky Derby and the Suburban, and Donnacona were among those named over night. But both were scratched, leaving the race to lesser lights.

Leochares was an odds-on choice and ran a good race but could never get up to the winner. Tailor Maid went to the front at the start and set the pace all the way. Leochares made a desperate effort in the stretch and got up to within a head of the filly but could not overtake her in the balance of the distance. Under Fire was an easy third as Royce Rools again refused to extend himself until he was headed for home and then it was too late. This race was run in the very fast time of 1:36 3-5, but two-fifths of a second slower than the track record made by Sun Briar. This is an indication of how fast the Saratoga track is at present, and if there is not rain for a few days more no doubt some new marks will be made.

J. H. Rosseter's Wedding Cake accounted for the six furlong dash for three-year-old fillies in which she defeated Red Red Rose and Busy Signal among others. She won in a driving finish and had but half a length to spare after leading Busy Signal all the way, one of the feet ones of the stable of E. R. Bradley and therefore one of the best representatives of the West. Busy Signal had an impost of 125 pounds and in addition was in close quarters at one stage of the game. She had remarkable speed and when clear finished gamely.

Fluff Wins First Race.

Morton L. Schwartz's Fluff finally graduated from the maiden class in the opening event, a dash of five furlongs for two-year-old fillies. She showed remarkable speed, got away to a lead of four lengths but began to tire in the stretch and had to be ridden out to last, winning by a length from Cubanita with Bit of Green third.

Robert Oliver was again a winner in the steeplechase and scored a handy victory over Dorcris and Jay Bird. Brand, the only other starter, fell. Robert Oliver followed the pace and moved up in the last half mile to take the lead at the last turn and win by a length.

Penelope accounted for the fifth race at a mile and upset a well played favorite in Smart Guy, which had been heavily supported. Penelope is best in the mud and her victory was a surprise, as the price of 8 to 1 indicated. She took the lead at the start and held it to the finish. Smart Guy tried to catch her at the head of the stretch, but she shook him off and won by a length and a half.

Presents Chicago's Claims For 1924 Olympic Games

CHICAGO, Aug. 6.—Everett C. Brown, for several years a member of the Executive Committee of the Olympic games, who left New York a few days ago on the Lapland, will extend an invitation to the Olypmic Games Committee on Aug. 10 at Antwerp, Belgium, to hold the 1924 Olympic games in Chicago at Grant Park, it was announced here today. The invitation will suggest to the committee that Chicago will have one of the largest stadiums in the world at Grant Park, on the lake front. Work started today on a $130,000,000 lake front improvement plan.

TO SELL ASSEGAI YEARLINGS

Progeny of Spearmint's Son at Auction Monday at Spa.

SARATOGA SPRINGS, N. Y., Aug. 6.—Assegai, the son of Spearmint and Charm, she a daughter of St. Simon and Tact (by Wisdom), which will contribute thirteen colts and fillies to the sale of yearlings from Sunbriar Court and Remlik Hall on Monday evening, is the most successful son of Spearmint at stud service in the United States. Spearmint, a British Derby and French Grand Prix winner in his own day and the greatest distance runner Great Britain has produced in a quarter of a century, has himself sired the British Derby winner of the current season, Spion Kop. His contributions to American racing and the American thoroughbred breeding industry have been Johren, winner of the Belmont Stakes, the Suburban Handicap, the Latonia Derby and the Saratoga Cup; Chicle, a Brooklyn Derby winner; Chiclet, Overthere, The Curragh, a successful stock horse, &c.

Assegai, the first of his sons to be assigned to stud duty in the United States, is represented among the current season's two-year-olds by Oriole, a winner at Belmont Park, Jamaica, Aqueduct and Yonkers. In addition to this accomplished colt, he has sent Angon, a fast sprinter of the West; Charlie Summy, Anzac, Dione, Bianca, Misericorde, Besthoff, Viva Cuba, Sandy Mac, Stiletto, Zululand, Teddy Rousseau and Inspector Hughes to American racing.

Hoofbeats of the Racers.

Special to The New York Times.

SARATOGA SPRINGS, N. Y., Aug. 6.—Man o' War will make his first appearance of the season at Saratoga tomorrow in the Miller Stakes, at a mile and three-sixteenths. It does not promise to be much of a contest, as the horses named to run against him are Donnaconna, Bing Bank and King Albert. It will be just a gallop for the champion to win, but with the track as fast as it is now it is possible he will try for a new record, and he has a chance to lower some of the marks he has already set himself.

The committee of trainers and horsemen appointed some time ago to make suggestions regarding toe calks reported yesterday and recommended that no restriction be placed on toe calks, except that the length be limited to two inches. The agitation grew out of a movement to do away with everything except the plain racing plate in an endeavor to avoid accidents to horses. It was found by experience that the plain plates did not prevent such accidents.

Mrs. Andrew Miller, widow of Andrew Miller, has donated a special cup which will go to the winner of the stake to be run tomorrow and which bears the name of her late husband.

There will be a meeting of the Remount Association tomorrow night, at which horsemen will be asked to encourage the work of the Government, which is now using thoroughbred sires almost exclusively. An appropriation of $250,000 has been made to carry on the work.

Tennis Tournament at Woodmere.

An invitation tennis doubles tournament will be held today and tomorrow on the clay courts of the Peninsula Club at Woodmere, L. I. Some of the most prominent players of the Metropolitan district are in the draw, including the Andersons—Fred, Frank and Charles—H. B. O'Boyle, Augustin Healy, Charles Chambers and others. Play begins this afternoon at 2:30.

U. S. TEAM STAGES PROTEST MEETING

Olympic Athletes Assemble on Transport and Demand Better Accommodations.

COMMITTEE APPOINTED

Will Ask Officials to Insure Improved Quarters at Antwerp—Ship Will Dock Tomorrow.

ON BOARD THE U. S. S. PRINCESS MATOIKA, Aug. 6, 3 P. M. (by Wireless via London to The Associated Press).—Discontent among the members of the American Olympic team on board this steamer resulted in the holding today of an indignation meeting, at which a committee was appointed to confer with the officials regarding future arrangements.

The officials were severely criticised at the meeting, and it was suggested that the athletes refuse to compete unless the accommodations at the Antwerp schoolhouse where the men are to be lodged are better than those on the steamer.

The men demanded also to be informed of the plan for sending a vessel for the return trip, together with an explanation as to how the athletes would get home after landing in New York.

The committee appointed to meet the team officials comprised Norman Ross of Chicago, Patrick J. McDonald of New York, H. J. Hebner of Chicago, Oliver Corry of Los Angeles and Richard Remer of New York. This committee has held one meeting with the officials and will hold a second meeting tonight.

ANTWERP, Aug. 6 (Associated Press).—The transport Princess Matoika, with the American Olympic team on board, signaled her arrival in the River Scheldt late this afternoon. She is expected to dock at Antwerp tomorrow morning.

EARLY ARRIVALS VOICE THEIR DISSATISFACTION

U. S. Cyclists Find Quarters and Conditions Inadequate—The Stadium Not Yet Ready.

ANTWERP, Aug. 6 (Associated Press).—Rush efforts were being made today to get all in readiness for the American Olympic athletes at their lodgings, a primary school building in the Rue Oudain. The cyclists, who already have arrived, are quartered in this building.

Long rows of cots fill the classrooms, which have been converted into dormitories. In addition to his cot, each man will be allowed a small, rough table. The dining room is not yet open, but is expected to be ready tomorrow. The United States Army supplied several large cots for the heavyweights on the team, those provided by the Belgians not being big enough.

The cyclists now occupying the lodgings have not found them satisfactory, it is said, but hope for improvement when the other athletes arrive and better organization is effected. The only shower baths in the schoolhouse are located in the courtyard, almost in the open. So far, there has been no hot water.

The Belgian authorities are trying hard to get the stadium in shape for the opening, which will be Aug. 14, but a number of details are not yet attended to, and the athletes already here are not enthusiastic over the arrangements. Training for the vaulting and jumping events is handicapped by the total lack of equipment on the field.

The French Olympic team arrived today.

Cardinal Mercier will celebrate mass at Antwerp on the morning of Aug. 14, before the opening of the stadium, in memory of the athletes of allied nations who fell in battle. The mass will be attended by the Belgian royal family and the Olympic officials.

NAVY ATHLETES ARRIVE.

The Frederick, with Olympic Contingent Aboard, Docks at Antwerp.

ON BOARD U. S. S. FREDERICK (Antwerp), Aug. 6 (By wireless to the Associated Press).—The United States cruiser Frederick, bearing the navy's Olympic athletes, reached Antwerp at 6:15 this evening and was received with cheers. The vessel has been assigned dock space at a pier near the centre of the city, and will be berthed tomorrow morning.

Cheering crowds lined the quays as the Frederick steamed up the river, with her band playing. All the members of the team are considered in better shape than when they left New York, thanks to the training and workous on the voyage. This is particularly true of the rowing men, who were constantly at the machines. The crew increased its speed and the men improved individually, gaining an average o ftwo and one-half pounds in weight on the way over.

The naval athletes landed in the city tonight. All the men are in good shape.

The ahletes who came into town tonight soon were busy taking in the sights, but stuck to strict training rules, despite hte cafés and manifold other temptations.

The midshipmen's crew expects to go into training as soon as possible in the Brussels maritime canal. The remainder of the navy athletes hope to begin their workouts in the stadium and the swimming pool tomorrow.

FIREMEN TO HOLD MEET.

More Than 200 Entries for Track Events at Celtic Park.

More than 200 entries have been received for the twenty-fifth annual athletic meet of the Eccentric Firemen, which will be held at Celtic Park, tomorrow afternoon. In view of the fact that special prizes are offered for successful competitors it is expected this large entry will be augmented before the lists are closed Monday. A point trophy will be donated to the club whose representatives score the greatest number of points. Proceeds from the games will go to the Eccentric Firemen's death burial fund.

The open A. A. U. events which will be contested include a 100-yard dash, novice; 220-yard run, handicap; two-mile run, handicap; 880-yard run, novice; 1,000-yard run, handicap, and a one-mile handicap relay. In addition to this card a brace of races for youngsters, one for sons of members and the other for girls, will be contested. Gaelic football matches, in which Kildare will engage Cork and Galway will oppose Kilkenny, have also been added to the card.

Early Call for Football.

STOARS, Conn., Aug. 6.—A call for football practice at Connecticut Agricultural College, beginning Sept. 13, has been sent to candidates by Coach Roy Guyer. The first game will be with Trinity at Hartford, Sept. 25.

TOKIO ASKS PROOF OF JOHNSON CHARGE

Foreign Office Scouts "Fantastic Scheme" to Smuggle Japanese Into America.

EMBASSY ISSUES DENIAL

Says Attack on Los Angeles Consul Lacks Facts to Support Accusation.

TOKIO, Aug. 5 (Associated Press).—The statement of Representative Albert Johnson at Tacoma, Wash., Aug. 2, that thousands of Japanese are smuggled into the United States from Japan yearly, is giving evidence of a tendency to increase the hostile feeling with regard to the United States created by the arrival of the recent American note and subsequent newspaper attacks on America.

With reference to the statement of Representative Johnson, who is Chairman of the House Sub-committee on Immigration and Naturalization which recently has been conducting an inquiry into the apanese situation on the Pacific Coast, the Foreign Office today made the following statement:

"We can only express surprise at the extraordinary statement made by Congressman Johnson at Tacoma. Details of the scheme, as outlined by Mr. Johnson, appear fantastic and most improbable. While solitary cases of smuggling come to our notice from time to time, it is unimaginable that such an involved and intricate program as described by Mr. Johnson should be systematically practiced by any group of individuals or organization.

"The Japanese Government would gladly co-operate with the American Government in exposing any such illegitimate and underhanded system. It is hoped that Mr. Johnson will give the names of the banks, associations or individuals concerned. All such information must be in the hands of Mr. Johnson, who otherwise would not have made the statement."

WASHINGTON, Aug. 6.—Denial that Japanese authorities, and, in particular, the Japanese Consul at Los Angeles, had connived in the smuggling of Japanese into the United States across the Mexican border, was made today by the Japanese Embassy. The following formal statement was issued:

"A statement has appeared in the press of the Pacific Coast that many thousands of Japanese are smuggled into the United States yearly across the Mexican border with the connivance of the Japanese authorities, and, in particular, of the Japanese Consul at Los Angeles. It should be apparent to all well-informed observers that the Japanese authorities have never been a party to such illicit proceedings. It is highly regrettable that a consular officer who has been executing his duties conscientiously for nearly ten years in this country is made the object of such an abuse without any actual facts whatever in support of the chirge."

SAY CANTU OFFERS TO SURRENDER POST

Will Give Up if Huerta Won't Send Troops Into Lower California.

NOGALES, Ariz., Aug. 6.—Governor Estebañ Cantu has offered to surrender possession of the Executive Office in Lower California within two weeks on condition that Provisional President de la Huerta stops sending Federal troops into the State.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 6.—Consul Boyle at Mexicali, Mexico, was instructed by the State Department today to co-operate with the military commander at Calexico, Cal., in preventing the smuggling of war materials across the border.

These instructions were issued under President Wilson's proclamation of July 12, 1919, forbidding the exportation of arms and munitions of war to Mexico.

In response to an informal inquiry through the American Embassy at Mexico City, regarding the possibility of closing the American ports on the Lower California frontier, the department, it was said today, has taken the stand that such closure is impossible without congressional action. Every effort is being made by the department, it was officially announced today, to prevent infractions of the United States neutrality laws either by American citizens or aliens residing on the American side of the frontier.

OPEN FIRE ON MOB IN DENVER RIOTS

squads of twenty, each squad under the direction of an ex-army officer. A large number have been assigned to the motor squadron, but about 125 heavily armed men are held in reserve at Police Headquarters prepared to answer an emergency call in any part of the city.

All American Legion members in Denver, about 500 in number, voted to turn out immediately for service in behalf of law and order. Tonight they are patroling outlying districts, leaving the police free to concentrate in the business sections.

All theatres, including moving picture houses, in the downtown section were closed tonight. Citizens were requested by Mayor Bailey to remain at home.

There was no serious disorder during the daylight hours today, although there were frequent gatherings of strikers and strike sympathizers. So far the only deaths besides those tonight have been these of the two men killed at the South Side car barns last night. Thirty-four persons have been injured and thirty arrested in connection with the rioting.

Labor Leaders Deny Blame.

Statements by officers of the Denver Trades and Labor Assembly and of the Tramway Men's Union were issued late this afternoon denying that they were responsible for the rioting. U. S. Goble, an organizer for the Trades and Labor Assembly, declared that the blame was on local civic bodies which have been agitating for the "open shop" in Denver. He asserted that their "propaganda" had infuriated the workers of the city and made them ready for violence.

The Committee of Ten from the Trades and Labor Assembly, which held two conferences with the Mayor, one just prior to the start of the rioting, also issued a statement denying that the assembly or any member of the Tramway Men's Union was responsible for the trouble.

A crowd surrounded the city hall for a short time last night and a mob was restrained from attacking the tramway building, where the majority of the strike-breakers are housed, by a strong armed guard which protected every entrance and exit. Two hundred armed men were kept at the darkened windows of the building with instructions to shoot if the police line below should give way.

Police Guard Denver Post.

H. H. Tammen, one of the owners of The Denver Post, whose building was damaged by the crowd, said today he could not estimate the damage done by the mob to The Post plant. "The town is without protection," said he.

The Post was issued as usual from its own plant today. A heavy police guard surrounded the building. Inside, the building looked as if a tornado had swept from one floor to another. All windows were gone, and broken furniture was scattered everywhere.

According to company officials there are now 500 strikebreakers in the city and 200 more are due to arrive. Cars will be operated again tomorrow morning, Frederick W. Hild, General Manager of the tramway company, announced tonight.

RIOTS ARE RENEWED AT WEST FRANKFORT

Eleven More Militia Companies Are Sent to Check Violence Against Foreigners.

Special to The New York Times.

WEST FRANKFORT, Ill., Aug. 6.—After a night of rioting, which was quelled only by the arrival of 500 State troops, mob violence broke out anew this afternoon and resulted in Major Wilbur Satterfield wiring to Governor Lowden for 500 additional soldiers. He indicated that the situation was critical.

Foreigners of all descriptions have been beaten on sight and the roads leading from West Frankfort are clogged with fleeing families. Soldiers are said to have been attacked by the rioters. Late tonight the disorders were gotten under control.

Eight persons were reported killed in the fighting last night and today, but Mayor Fox denies that any one was killed. Officers on Major Satterfield's staff were unable to obtain the names of any dead. Scores were injured, and the loss from fire is estimated at tens of thousands of dollars.

Comparative quiet was restored for a short time this morning. When Major Satterfield and the first troops arrived they were notified through Sheriff Watson that they were not needed. The troops then withdrew from the city and camped in a school yard on the outskirts. Rioting was soon renewed and Major Satterfield took charge.

With the men on hand only the main streets could be controlled. The crowds were kept moving in the downtown districts, but frequent disorders were reported in the outlying sections.

Eleven Militia Companies Sent.

It is learned that Adjt. Gen. Dickson has ordered nine companies of the 10th Infantry and four companies of 7th Reserve to entrain for West Frankfort. Brig. Gen. Wells has been ordered here from Springfield to take charge of the situation.

Funeral services for Amiel Calcaterra, one of the two youths whose murder, supposedly by members of a band of Italian bank robbers, led to the outbreak, took place soon after the first troops arrived, the guardsmen taking extra precautions against an outbreak over the body.

A committee of citizens announced tonight that a Black Hand Society of more than 200 members, with headquarters in West Frankfort, had been discovered.

In the disorders today a school house in an Italian neighborhood was damaged by fire. Several Italians who arrived this morning by train were beaten and placed back on the train.

The exodus of foreigers started shortly after midnight, following the burning of homes in an Italian suburb. It continued all night, and hundreds of foreigners are still to be seen on the highways, making their way to other mining towns in Franklin and Williamson Counties. They are leaving in automobiles, in horse-drawn vehicles and of foot. Many of them—are driving cattle and hogs before them. All are laden with clothing and household goods with which they refuse to part.

The story of last night was one of wild disorder. The mob disarmed the police and Deputy Sheriffs. Mayor Fox, Sheriff Watson and State's Attorney Martin pleaded in vain for order. Telephone operators here and in nearby towns are on strike, and an attempt is said to have been made to tear down the telegraph wires.

A pool hall run by an Italian and patronized by many of his countrymen was wrecked and burned. The mob believed that the band of robbeds plotted their crimes there. The torch was applied to another building used as a clubhouse by Italians.

Foreigners Beaten and Stoned.

When the mob invaded the residence district foreigners were dragged out of their homes, beaten with clubs and stoned. Some were taken into the woods, beaten and left on the ground. In some cases shots were fired. Scores of the rioters were armed.

An Italian living in Zeigler, another mining town to the west, was caught by a crowd on the street. It was reported that he had been here the night before to attend a meeting of an Italian society. The mob beat him and left him for dead. Another Italian was shot and his body left in the street. Two hours later it was gone.

Miners say that the majority of the men employed in the three mines of the Old Ben Company at West Frankfort were foreigners. The miners, about 2,000 in all, who recently went on strike, have refused to return to work in spite of the order issued by Frank Farrington, President of the Illinois miners.

Two Americans are reported to have been slain by Italians at the New North Mine, a short distance from West Frankfort.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Aug. 6.—Adjutant General Frank S. Dickson, commander of the Illinois militia, is on his way to West Frankfort to take personal charge of the militiamen sent there.

Chicago Consul Investigating.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 6.—Count Giulio Bolognesi, Italian Consul at Chicago, telegraphed to the Italian Embassy today that he and the Vice Consul were proceeding to West Frankfort, Ill., to make a personal investigation of the attacks by a mob on Italian residents of that place. The Consul's preliminary report of the situation did not differ from that previously given in press dispatches.

Satisfaction is expressed in Italian circles at the energetic action taken by Governor Lowden to protect the Italian residents. Whether representations regarding the attacks will be made to the State Department probably will depend largely upon the final report of the Consul as based on his investigation.

HOLD MILITIA IN READINESS.

Chicago Heights Hopes to Avert Threatened Race Riots.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Aug. 6.—With its Police Department augmented by Deputy Sheriffs from Chicago and with the local company of militia mobilized, Chicago Heights tonight hoped to avert the threatened clash between white and colored citizens.

While citizens and village officials assert they fear no serious trouble, they admit ill-feeling has been engendered because of the indiscriminate renting of houses to families of both races. The situation involves only the industrial districts.

Two negroes are said to have attacked a white girl some days ago. They were not arrested. Some of the white factory workers are said to feel aggrieved because negroes were used as strikebreakers when a walk-out took place a short time ago.

Tonight thirteen negroes purchased rifles and revolvers at Gary. The police there detained them for a few hours, then released them. They returned to Chicago Heights with the weapons.

OLD GERMAN LINER TO CRUISE WORLD

Ford Eggena Bought the Former Kronprinz Wilhelm for a Corporation.

TO SELL AMERICAN GOODS

Will Circle Globe in Voyage of a Year to Spread United States Merchandise.

There was consderable comment in shipping circles yesterday over the report emanating from the United States Shipping Board in Washington on Thursday that the former North German Lloyd liner Kronprinz Wilhelm, now the Von Steuben, had been sold to Ford Eggena of New York for $1,500,000. The comment was due to the fact that the purchaser was unknown to the steamship men. The officials at the branch office of the United States Shipping Board in the Custom House also denied having any knowledge of the personality of the purchaser of the Von Steuben.

It was announced later that Ford Eggena purchased the vessel on behalf of the Foreign Trade Development Cruise, which has offices in the tower of the Metropolitan Life Building, 1 Madison Avenue. The same corporation tried to acquire the George Washington at the beginning of the year with the object of starting a round-the-world trading cruise for American manufacturers about May 1. The negotiations fell through for that vessel and the business has been held in abeyance until a suitable vessel could be obtained. It is understood that a well known dry dock corporation is backing the concern and will undertake the repairs and reconditioning of the Von Steuben, which have been estimated to cost the sum of $3,000,000.

A bare outline of the plan is: To arrange and equip the Von Steuben so that a large number of manufacturers, exporters and importers interested in foreign trade may send one or more of their personal representatives with samples, exhibits and some goods for immediate delivery to about forty countries of the world for the purpose of solidifying old and making new sales connections, selling and buying, establishing agencies, investigating markets and conditions, &c. The members of the cruise must be all Americans and represent American firms only. They will be treated as first cabin passengers and will be permitted to take their families with them.

After leaving New York the cruise will commence at Pernambuco, Brazil, and call at the principal ports down the coast of South America as far as Buenos Aires, and then strike across the South Atlantic Ocean to Cape Town, up the southeast coast of Africa to Delagoa Bay, calling at the chief ports, up the Mozambique Channel to Madagascar and Mauritius, and then to Perth, Western Australia, principal ports in Australia and New Zealand, then to Japan and China, Manila, Straits Settlements, Java, Burma, Calcutta, Madras, Bombay, Colombo and Port Said, Egypt, and thence to Turkey, Greece, Portugal, Marseilles and Southampton. This route has been selected owing to the personal experience gained by Ford Eggena, who has traveled extensively through these countries for many years.

Advance agents, it is said, will go ahead of the Von Steuben to the different ports and insert advertisements in the local newspapers to notify the merchants and business men of the advent of the American exhibition ship and the goods there are on board for sale.

A dinner will be given at each port to the government officials and the stop at each place will be determined by the possibilities of the business to be done there. It is expected that the entire cruise will last from twelve to fifteen months. For the convenience of the business men on board a staff of typists, translators, and clerks will be carried.

Eggena was said to be in Washington yesterday. The Von Steuben is lying at the army basin in South Brooklyn.

Mexican Revenues 18,000,000 Pesos a Month.

MEXICO CITY, Aug. 6.—The national monthly revenues amount to 18,000,000 pesos, according to figures announced by the Treasury today. The disbursements total 17,750,000 pesos monthly.

ARGENTINE INDUSTRIES FEAR GENERAL STRIKE

Labor Extremists Get Pledges of Support and Incite Poor Over the Cost of Living.

BUENOS AIRES, Aug. 6.—Business interests are manifesting concern over rumors that a country-wide general strike is imminent as the result of agitation by the extremist elements of the labor population. Many citizens are laying in supplies of food against an emergency.

It is known that agitators are circulating through the country seeking pledges in support of a general strike from the various labor groups. It is feared that on account of the Bolshevist successes and growing discontent over recent sharp increases in the cost of necessities and rents these agitators may win sufficient adherents to be successful.

All of the newspapers dwell upon the suffering of the poor, especially in the provinces, where it is said the living costs are becoming prohibitive, and the Socialist papers are bitterly arraigning the Government.

Peaceful demonstrations by tenants against rents have occurred in Buenos Aires. Numerous strikes in various parts of the country continue unsettled, including that of the river and coastwise marine workers, which has lasted six months.

TO FORM CREDIT BUREAU.

International Body Proposed to Stop Frauds.

Tentative plans for the creation of an international credit bureau, with branches in the five big European countries, were talked over yesterday at a meeting of representatives of various trade bodies held in the offices of the National Association of Credit Men. As the result of the conference, it was proposed to form the International Foreign Credit Interchange Bureau, to be operated in conjunction with the International Chamber of Commerce. In a statement issued following the conference the National Association of Credit Men said, in part:

"Hundreds of millions of dollars are lost annually through commercial frauds perpetrated by concerns in other countries which take advantage of American business houses. An attempt to curb these professional swindlers, and also to prevent the repudiation of contracts on a falling market, will be made by the Foreign Credit Department of the National Association of Credit Men.

"J. H. Tregoe, Secretary-Treasurer of the National Association of Credit Men, announced the election of the following as members of the Executive Committee of the Foreign Credit Department: L. R. Browne, International Western Electric Company, Chairman; O. K. Davis of the Foreign Trade Council, Robert F. Volentine of the American Manufacturers' Export Association, W. M. Benney of the National Association of Manufacturers, G. A. O'Reilly, Irving National Bank; J. A. Broderick, National Bank of Commerce; Herbert A. Stanton of the Norton Company, C. D. Potter of Devoe & Raynolds, Inc.; J. L. Thompson, Yale & Towne Manufacturing Company; C. M. Freeman, Rubberset Company; C. S. Van Winkle, Interwoven Stocking Company; W. D. Anderson, Atlantic Refining Company; Anson R. R. Clark, Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce, and E. E. Huber of Eberhard Faber Company.

MUSIC NOTES.

Following last night's free concert on the Columbia Campus Goldman's Band is to take a week's holiday during the Summer session choral festival there. The band will resume on Aug. 16 for the final three weeks of the season.

Two weeks are left of the National Symphony Orchestra's nightly open-air concerts at the Stadium. Conductor Rothwell, recovering from an attack of grip, is to return next Monday for the closing fornight.

Margaret Romaine of the Metropolitan is to make a concert tour starting Oct. 5 and going as far West as Denver. In January she will travel again from Texas to Detroit, and in April she sings at the St. Joseph, Mo., festival.

Frederick Stahlberg will be represented in two capacities on the Rivoli's program next week as composer and conductor. Luciano Nava will play Stahlberg's "Nocturne" for horn solo, while the musical director himself will conduct Auber's "Mansaniello" overture.

low Street, New York, was arrested by Federal agents here last night. He was operating a motor truck in which were 200 cases of whisky. He was taken to Bridgeport.

LIQUOR WHOLESALERS MAY BE ELIMINATED

Rigid Restriction of Licenses by Government Is Announced by Commissioner Kramer.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 6 (Associated Press).—Elimination by the Government of the wholesale liquor dealer as a means of simplifying prohibition enforcement appeared a possibility tonight, with the announcement by Prohibition Commissioner Kramer that the issue of wholesale permits in the future would be "rigidly restricted."

Mr. Kramer declared that the wholesale traffic presented the greatest problem with which enforcement officials were confronted. Wholesale dealers, he asserted, resorted to subterfuges which perplexed the Government agents and which made the dry law difficult to enforce.

This phase of prohibition enforcement was said to have developed consideration by officials of the Internal Revenue Bureau of a plan by which the quantity dealer would be driven out of business entirely and the liquor transfer made direct from bonded warehouse to retailer or consumer.

Although no decision has been reached and none probably will be immediately, the approaching period when wholesale licenses are reissued for the next calendar year is expected to bring the question to a head. Applications for wholesale licenses must be in the hands of Federal officials by Oct. 1, giving the Government the three months prior to Jan. 1 in which to investigate the responsibility of the applicant.

Officials said that, regardless of the bureau's decision with respect to elimination of the wholesalers, the number of licenses issued for the ensuing year would be smaller. In the event that the Government permits the wholesalers to continue in business, it was said, a policy of investigating the record of each applicant "and all of his affairs" would be employed.

Wholesale Licenses Watched Now.

Treasury records reveal that more wholesale licenses are in existence now than immediately prior to the effective date of the Volstead act. Commissioner Kramer said that, while the wholesalers were everywhere being watched closely, drastic action had been made necessary in certain localities.

No licenses have been issued in Chicago for wholesale traffic in the last six weeks, Mr. Kramer said. Other officials reported that similar checks had been placed on the number of wholesale dealers elsewhere.

Mr. Kramer's visit to the New York district early this week was said to have resulted in a tightening of restrictions there.

The situation in Baltimore, resulting from the ruling of Attorney General Armstrong that no Maryland State or Baltimore municipal official could aid in dry law enforcement work, has compelled the transfer of additional Federal agents to the Maryland district, Mr. Kramer announced.

A large force of Federal officers would be transferred to Baltimore, the Commissioner said, to hold liquor sales in check. He added that enforcement work would be pushed everywhere, regardless of local co-operation.

Wholesalers and "plain bootleggers," it was asserted by prohibition enforcement officials, have combined to complicate the enforcement of the law in Baltimore, and the conditions there have entered largely into the development of a program to abolish the wholesale license.

Seek to Define State Duties.

As another step toward strict enforcement, officials were said to be drafting regulations defining the status of Federal enforcement officers and also to be inquiring into State law provisions to determine what duties the local authorities could be required to assume in upholding Federal laws.

These questions probably will be put up to Attorney General Palmer, and it was understood that officials of the Internal Revenue Bureau and members of Commissioner Kramer's staff would soon confer with representatives of the Department of Justice and the Treasury Department.

Internal Revenue officials have taken cognizance of the Maryland Attorney General's instructions, but have reached no decision as to their next move. The Attorney General's opinion, as it now stands, will remain effective unless the Federal officials succeed in having it set aside by a Maryland State court.

The officials here, however, declined to say whether they expected to follow this course in regaining the assistance of local authorities generally in enforcing the Federal law. Mr. Kramer said that many of the local officials had given "excellent service" in this particular.

Baltimore Police Rule Revised.

Special to The New York Times.

BALTIMORE, Aug. 6.—Police officers have full authority to make arrests for violation of the Volstead prohibition law, Solicitor General Frierson of the Department of Justice stated today, in commenting on the opinion handed down yesterday by Attorney General Armstrong to the effect that the Baltimore city police do not have the power to make arrests under the Volstead law.

"The police of any city or town have full power to make arrests for violation of the Volstead law," Solicitor General Frierson said. "They are constantly doing it. If Attorney General Armstrong's opinion is as reported, he is in error."

While the city police may make arrests, the prosecution for violation of the Volstead law must be conducted in the Federal Courts, Mr. Frierson added. He pointed out that the confusion over the law in Maryland may have arisen from this fact.

Members of the Baltimore City Police Department will arrest violators of the Volstead act when the violation is committed "in the view of an officer," under terms of a general order to the department made public by Commissioner Gaither this afternoon.

REALTY OPERATOR ACCUSED BY WOMAN

Herbert R. Houghton Arrested on Complaint of Client Inspecting Vacant House.

HELD UNDER $1,000 BAIL

Mrs. Birch Says She Was Kept in Apartment an Hour and That She Was Badly Bruised.

Herbert R. Houghton, a real estate agent, of 200 West Seventy-second Street, was arrested yesterday by detectives of the West Sixty-eighth Street station on the complaint of Mrs. Helen Birch, of 274 West Seventy-first Street, who told the police a story of an alleged attack upon her on Thursday in a house she was inspecting in West Seventy-third Street. Mrs. Birch runs a rooming house in West Seventy-first Street and, she said, was considering leasing another place.

According to the story told to the police by Mrs. Birch, she had asked Houghton & Houghton, real estate agents, for a large house for rent and had conferences with Herbert R. Houghton. She said that on Thursday Mr. Houghton telephoned her that a house was for rent at 273 West Seventy-third Street and made an appointment to accompany her on an inspection of the property.

Mrs. Birch told the police that when they reached the top floor Houghton embraced her and declared his love for her. She asserted she repulsed him, but he forced his attentions. After an hour, she said, she was permitted to leave the house, under promise to meet Houghton later. She said she was so badly bruised and suffered such nervous shock that she had to summon Dr. C. H. Maak of 725 West End Avenue. She said she remained in bed by her physician's orders.

After the police had heard Mrs. Birch's story they sent Detective Sergeant Cornelius Manning to Houghton's office and Houghton was taken to the West Side Court on a charge of suspicion of attempted assault. He pleaded not guilty and was held by Magistrate Schwab for further hearing on Aug. 8, in bail at $1,000. Bail was furnished last night and the real estate agent was released from the West Sixty-eight Street Police Station.

Mrs. Margaret Lyle, housekeeper for Mrs. Birch in the West Seventy-first Street rooming house, said last night that she had called the police at the request of Mrs. Birch and that she had heard the story told to the detectives. She said Mrs. Birch was unable to appear in court yesterday, but that she would appear as complainant when the case was called for rehearing on Aug. 8.

The housekeeper said Mrs. Birch was the widow of Dr. Herbert E. Birch, who died in Rochester about seven years ago, and that she had known her for several years. Mrs. Birch is about 30 years old.

AIDS ROADS IN RATE FILING.

Commerce Commission Will Accept Blanket Schedules Temporarily.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 6.—Special permission to file blanket schedules containing the new freight and passenger rates and other charges recenly authorized, was given the railroads of the country today by the Interstate Commerce Commission. The roads are required to file completed freight tariffs within three months from Sept. 1.

The Commission's decision authorizing higher freight rates provides that the new schedules are to be efective five days' after filing with the Commission. There was no definite information as to when the railroads would be able to file the schedules but announcement has been made that the new rates would go into effect Aug. 26.

Socialists Repudiate Bolshevism.

GENEVA, Aug. 6.—Bolshevism was repudiated by the Socialist Congress, in session here, yesterday, when the political program of the congress was adopted. The vote on the program was unanimous, but two of the British delegates declined to cast their ballots. The next meeting of the congress will be held in Brussels in 1922.

FEIGENSPAN COUNSEL MOVE FOR REHEARING

Root and Guthrie File Petition That Supreme Court Reopen Decision in Liquor Case.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 6.—William D. Guthrie and Elihu Root, counsel for Christian Feigenspan, a brewer of Newark, N. J., today filed with the United States Supreme Court a petition for reconsideration of the Court's decision on June 7 sustaining the validity of the Eighteenth Amendment and parts of the Volstead Enforcement act.

As filed today, the petition contended that the Eighteenth Amendment was designed to deal exclusively with intoxicating liquors. Mr. Feigenspan in his original suit had sought to prove that beer of 2.75 per cent. alcoholic content was not intoxicating.

The petition pointed out the importance and magnitude of the constitutional questions involved and declared that, so far as the petitioner has been able to ascertain, "there is no record of any important modern case involving such vital questions being disposed of by a court of final resort without explaining its conclusions."

"Not only is it quite unprecedented in the history of this court for it thus to dispose, without opinion, of great constitutional questions, but as emphasized by Mr. Justice McKenna in his dissenting opinion, it is diffcult to measure the force of the conclusions stated by the Court or the deductions properly to be drawn from them. Furthermore, the conclusions do not completely answer questons actually involved in the litigation and submitted for decision. * * *

"As stated by the learned Chief Justice in his concurring opinion, the Court was deciding a case of great magnitude and passing upon "an amendment to the Constitution of the United States dealing with the powers and duties of the natonal and State Governments and intimately concerning the welfare of the people."

The petition declared that the meaning and effect of such an amendment was necessarily the "subject of discussion and concern in the forum of public opinion, and the failure of the Court to assign any reasons for its decision has tended naturally to invite criticism and create much public dissatisfaction."

"It seems, therefore," the petition continued, "that it is not irrelevant or improper to urge, in support of a plea for a rehearing, that public opinion has doubted and challenged the fitness of summarily deciding and disposing of a great constitutional controversy involving vast property interests and long-established legitimate industries and intimately concerning the welfare of the whole people, without disclosing the reasons for such disposition."

MEXICO CITY, Aug. 6.—Citizens of the City of Vera Cruz have shown their appreciation of the work done by the American Dr. Carl Michel, of the United States Public Health Service, by presenting to him an engraved gold medal. A further move is on foot to make Dr. Michel an adopted son of the city.

The Federal Health Board has adopted plans made by Michel to end yellow fever at all gulf ports. All the suggestions made by him followed the general plans used by the United States Health Service during the cleanup of Havana and Panama.

The Government will permit the opening of the port of Vera Cruz, using the usual disinfection of freight, but allowing passengers to proceed without delay.

President de la Huerta, in congratulating the American doctor on the able way in which he had handled the plague situation, said that the Government was grateful to the United States for the assistance and interest shown during the plague difficulty at Vera Cruz.

SAYS LEGION BEAT GORE.

Republican Leader Denies League Issue Was a Factor.

The opposition of Senator Gore of Oklahoma to President Wilson's League of Nations plan had nothing to do with his defeat by Representative Ferris in the Democratic Senatorial primaries, according to J. J. McGraw, until recently Republican National Committeeman for Oklahoma. Mr. McGraw, who called yesterday at Republican National Headquarters, said Senator Gore's defeat was mainly due to his opposition to the American Legion.

"It was not Senator Gore's opposition to the Wilson League of Nations which defeated him for the Senatorship nomination," said Mr. McGraw. "This is the fact, although the Democrats would like to have the people think otherwise. Senator Gore was doomed to defeat more than a year before President Wilson went abroad to carry out this international scheme. Gore was defeated because of the many things he said which were offensive to the members of the American Legion, to other soldiers and to red-blooded Americans generally."

ATTACK FIUME PATROL SHIP

Jugoslavs Firing on Battleship Dispersed, Rome Hears.

LONDON, Aug. 6. — Firing upon an Italian battleship from Fiume by Jugoslavs near Bukari is reported in a Central News dispatch from Rome, which give as its authority the Fiume correspondent of the Rome Popolo Romano. The battleship returned the fire and dspersed the Jugoslavs.

It is officially announced, adds the Central News dispatch, that the Albanians have occupied Kastrati, capturing three machine guns and driving the Serbians, who recently seized the town, over the frontier.

Morris to Debate with Hitchcock.

THEATRICAL NOTES.

REPORTERS SEE PATIENTS

Public Is Entitled to Know Nature of Radium Treatment and Methods of Application, Says Surgeon.

Radium is a specific for superficial malignant growths, according to Dr. George Stuart Willis, of the New York Post-Graduate School and Hospital, Second Avenue and Twentieth Street, who presided at the regular weekly radium clinic yesterday. In other words, radium will cure cancer that is readily accessible to treatment with this element.

Reporters were invited to attend the clinic, not for the purpose of demonstrating before them "marvelous cures," but because the hospital feels, as it was explained in the invitation, "that it is not enough that the public should know that radium treatment is available. It feels that the public should know how the treatment is made."

It has already been announced that the hospital is negotiating for the purchase of one gram of radium for the study and treatment of cancer and other malignant diseases.

After the clinic it was further explained that the institution had come to realize that the interests of both hospital and the public could best be served by means of newspaper publicity, and it was made clear that reporters would always be welcomed when they sought to obtain enlightenment on matters of legitimate medical and surgical news in the Post-Graduate.

The obligation of the institution to the newspapers in its recent campaign for a $2,000,000 endowment fund was also acknowledged. For the first time in the history of New York, it was said, laymen were made to feel at home as observers in a hospital clinic.

Tube Worth $12,000 Broken.

It was brought out that Dr. Robert Abbe, while showing a minute tube of radium in the hospital, had dropped and broken the tube. The $12,000 worth of radium in it was lost, of course.

A score of patients who had undergone, or were still undergoing, treatment with radium were brought into the clinic. They ranged in age from babies of a few months to men and women up to 70 years or more. The ailments ranged from angiomas—small, non-malignant blood tumors—in the young to carcinoma, or true cancer, and included tubercular glands, epithelioma of the lip, malignant sarcoma of the jaw, types of tongue and throat cancer, extensive scar tissue from burns and shrapnel wounds, which had greatly restricted the patients' muscular movements, as well as an exceedingly rare non-malignant growth which is called rhinoscleroma.

Many of the patients shown had been cured and all of them had received benefit. Treatment had not been completed in the cases of those in the latter category.

The majority of the cases presented were in the inoperable class. They had applied for relief when it was already too late to obtain it from the surgeon. The frank admission was made also that the lives of some of the patients could not be saved by radium, but the belief was expressed that a guarantee could be made of another year of existence in comparative comfort.

Dr. Lewis gave a lucid explanation of the manner in which radium acts and the method of using it in treatment.

Accident Revealed Value.

He said that from the day when Mme. Curie, the eminent French scientist, isolated it from pitchblende obtained from the mines in Austria little heed was given to it except as a scientific curiosity, until another scientist had received a burn from it on his chest as the result of carrying a tube of it in his waistcoat pocket.

Then the medical profession awoke to the fact that it would destroy tissue. Hence the modern development of its employment in malignant disease.

Radium, which looks like a whitish powder, gives off minute explosions or bombardments, which are invisible, at the rate of 360,000 per second, and it takes 2,660 years for it to exhaust itself. These explosive discharges form a gas and it is this gaseous emanation which is the therapeutic agent. There is no remedial action in the powder itself.

Science has divided the rays, as these emanations are called, into three classes. They are called the alpha, beta and gamma rays. The alpha rays make up 90 per cent. of the energy given off, but they are of little use in therapeutics. The beta rays compose 9 per cent. of the total energy and have a penetrative power of one centimeter.

The gamma rays, which are only 1 per cent. of the total, have a terrific penetrating power, readily going through nine inches of steel.

"Science has not revealed to us yet," said Dr. Lewis, "whether we should use the beta rays at one time and the gamma rays at another, or in combination. Also, sometimes we are puzzled to know whether we should operate first and use radium afterward, or whether we should use radium first and then operate."

How Radium Acts.

He explained the action of the element in this way:

"From one to ten days after we begin radium treatment the cells of the growth begin to swell. Next, the nucleus of the cell, which is its reproductive centre, swells. The next step is the bursting of the cell, which is absorbed into the blood, leaving behind normal scar tissue. This is the chain of events in the destruction of malignant growths by radium. At present we are trying to standardize our methods of treatment."

Radium is placed in relation to the growth to be attacked in two ways. A small quantity is either incarcerated in a minute glass tube coated with gold one millimeter thick, and drawn out to a fine needle point so that the tube can be plunged into the tumor mass; or, the radium, or radium emanations that have been collected, are put in a larger tube and laid on in juxtaposition to the growth. The treatment varies in frequency and length, according to the nature of the growth and its location. Some treatments last several hours. It is said that they produce but little pain.

In those cases in which it is possible to plunge the needle into the growth, the greatest protection to the normal surrounding tissue is afforded, but every effort is made to protect normal tissue from burns, no matter which form of application is employed.

Only Trifling Ill-Effects.

"Radium is a specific in all superficial growths," said Dr. Lewis. "Nowadays we are opening abdomens and applying it direct to internal growths."

There are only trifling ill-effects from treatment, the physician explained. Sometimes there is a slight ephemeral toxemia, or poisoning, from absorption of the disintegrated mass, but this is readily overcome.

One of the patients shown had a radium needle imbedded in a sarcoma of the jaw resulting from an abrasion caused by an artificial tooth plate, the physician said.

The children shown had had angiomas removed by a few radium treatments. Dr. Lewis said it was a specific for these. Tubercular glands readily yielded to it, and once more he referred to it as a specific cure in these cases.

So-called lip cancers are poor surgical cases, said Dr. Lewis, but they are eradicated by radium. Care must be taken to look out for metastases or secondary growths. These must be removed by surgery if possible.

In using radium the beta or gamma rays can be shut off or modified in intensity by metal coverings.

One patient had extensive secondary cancerous deposits in his neck, the result, Dr. Lewis said, not of the patient's neglect, but because his physician had delayed too long in taking radical action.

Gland Tuberculosis Cured.

"We never have failure with tubercular glands," Dr. Lewis declared, "when we use 100 milligrams for two hours."

Another patient was a young girl who had been burned badly on the chest, neck and the lower part of her face at the age of 4 or 5. The resultant scar was stiff and hard and the muscles were almost immovable. By the use of radium the tissues were made soft and pliable and she now has free muscular movement.

A soldier who had lost half of his face in the Argonne Forest was shown. Skin grafting had done wonders for him, but he could not open his mouth. After radium treatment he could open it freely.

The patient with rhinoscleroma is one of fourteen such cases known in this country, and three of these are taking treatment at the Post Graduate Hospital. Her nasal passages, interior and posterior, were filled with a dense fibrous mass, "as hard as the top of this iron table," said Dr. Lewis. She had not breathed through her nose for twenty-one years. She breathes through it now as the result of radium treatment.

The efficacy of the treatment will be understood from Dr. Lewis's statement to the effect that malignant cells are more susceptible to the influence of radium than normal cells.

They are using 450 milligrams of radium at the hospital, most of it the property of Dr. Lewis. It is worth nearly $60,000. A gram, which is 15.432 grains, or a quarter of a teaspoonful, is worth $120,000. This is the amount the hospital intends buying.

CABLE LAYER OFF MIAMI.

American Officers Board British Ship Held Outside 3-Mile Limit.

MIAMI, Fla., Aug. 6.—The British cable layer Colonia, under charter to the Western Union Telegraph Company to land the new Miami-Barbados cable, arrived today off this port, but remained outside the three-mile limit. The Colonia was boarded by Rear Admiral Benton C. Decker, commanding the flotilla of destroyers sent here to prevent the landing of the cable; A. H. Hubbard, British Vice Consul at Miami, and W. J. Brenheim, general traffic manager of the Western Union Company.

Vice Consul Hubbard announced later that he had taken charge of the Colonia and that she would remain outside of the three-mile limit until further advices had been received from the British Embassy at Washington.

Besides Admiral Decker the American officers who boarded the Colonia were Rear Admiral Anderson, commandant at Charleston, S. C., who arrived here today to supersede Admiral Decker in command of the destroyers, and Colonel H. H. Tebbetts, representing the army, which was ordered by President Wilson to co-operate with the Navy Department in preventing the landing of the cable until an executive permit for the work had been issued.

The officials remained aboard the ship only a short time. When they returned to shore they were accompanied by Arthur Dearlove of New York City, chief engineer of the Western Union, who was aboard the Colonia.

The four destroyers ordered here by the Navy Department continued today to patrol the outer harbor.

IDENTIFY NEGRO BURGLAR.

Tarrytown Family Accuses Chicago Prisoner of $40,000 Jewel Robbery.

CHICAGO, Aug. 6.—Leroy Green, a negro burglar held in the county jail, was identified today by David L. Luke, West Virginia wood pulp and paper manufacturer, his wife and daughter as the man who forced his way into the manufacturer's home at Tarrytown, N. Y., on July 17, locked him in his room, wounded his daughter and forced his wife to unlock the family vault containing jewels valued at $40,000.

Green was arrested on July 20, when a pawn shop proprietor to whom he had sold a diamond became suspicious and called the police. Jewels worth $10,000 and $400 in currency were found in his pocket. A key to a bank safety deposit vault led to the discovery of the rest of the jewels.

AMUNDSEN READY TO SAIL.

Will Start on Long Arctic Voyage from Nome Today.

NOME, Alaska, Aug. 6.—Captain Roald Amundsen, Norwegian explorer, will leave Nome tomorrow to resume his attempt to reach the North Pole, he announced today. He plans to steer his vessel, the Maud, for Wrangell Island, off the northern coast of Siberia, and from that point to drift with the arctic ice pack.

Captain Amundsen declared he was certain of success in his venture and that he expected the voyage to require five years for completion.

When the Maud hoists anchor for the start of the long journey all ships in Nome harbor will form a line and escort her a short distance on the northern trip. Plans have been made for taking moving pictures of the start.

SWITCHMEN UNION HARD HIT

Trainmen's Brotherhood Takes Over Its Contract in Buffalo.

CLEVELAND, Ohio, Aug. 5.—The Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen has taken over the schedules and contracts of the Switchmen's Union of North America at Buffalo, which have been formally surrendered by S. E. Heberling, President of the switchmen, according to information obtained from railway brotherhood offices here tonight.

The Switchmen's Union, for twenty-seven years a power in railway labor affairs in the East, is said to have suffered seriously in the yardmen's strike. The only yards on important railways still held by that organization, it is said, are those on the Rock Island, the New York Central from Detroit to Chicago and the Delaware, Lackawanna & Western as far as New York.

MATCH SET BOY AFIRE.

Lad Wet with Gasoline Dies—Policeman Who Did It Jailed.

ELMIRA, N. Y., Aug. 6.—Stewart Smith, a city policeman, is under arrest, charged with manslaughter, second degree.

Smith was in a local garage yesterday afternoon when a seventeen-year-old lad, William Frear, crawled from beneath an automobile, his clothing dripping gasoline. The policeman lighted a match near the lad "just to frighten him," the clothing caught fire and Frear was so badly burned that he died in a local hospital this morning.

Senators to Open Newport Inquiry.

NEWPORT, Aug. 6.—Members of the Senatorial committee appointed to investigate alleged immoral conditions in this city, which were the subject of a naval court of inquiry several months ago, will meet here Monday, it was announced today. Senator Ball, Republican, of Delaware, is Chairman of the committee, and his associates are Senators Keyes, Republican, of New Hampshire, and King, Democrat, of Utah. The sessions are expected to continue about a week.

Refuses Wage Rise to Potters.

PITTSBURGH, Aug. 6.—Demands of the National Brotherhood of Operative Potters for a 25 per cent. increase in wages were denied today by the United States Potters' Association at a special meeting here, and the whole question was referred back to the Labor Committee of the association for further recommendation. The committee will ask the workmen for a conference to be held in East Liverpool, Ohio, Aug. 17.

PRECIOUS PLUMES SEIZED ON SHIP

TWO MEN CAUGHT AT PIER

Feathers Valued at $20,000 Confiscated—Law Makes It Difficult to Prove Crime.

Customs officers uncovered yesterday what is believed to be a plot to smuggle hundreds of thousands of dollars' worth of bird of paradise feathers into this country when Emanuel Viscara and Giovanni Ponce, two firemen on board the Italian liner Duca degli Abruzzi, were caught leaving the boat at Pier 97, North River, with feathers concealed under their clothes.

Inspector McGuinness, who was on the pier, noticed that the two men had spare features and thin necks, but remarkably fat bodies and round legs. His principal business being to investigate discrepancies of this kind he stopped the two men, called other Government employes and started to search them. The two men put up a fight, but were soon overpowered. When their coats and shirts were taken off it was found that each had about forty fine bird of paradise plumes strapped tightly to his body and legs.

Inspectors Lynch and Barron then boarded the ship and searched the bunks of the firemen. They found plumes hidden in pillows, in mattresses and other hiding places. While they were at work other members of the ship's company, who were apparently in the feather business, discovered the inspectors and attacked them. The two Inspectors had to draw their revolvers and threaten to shoot to avoid being mobbed while they hunted the precious plumes. About 110 sets of feathers were recovered, their value being estimated between $10,000 and $20,000.

Two Men Locked Up.

The two men who were caught leaving the pier were locked up in the Tombs while the investigation was continued under the direction of Surveyor of the Port Thomas E. Rush and Assistant United States District Attorney John E. Walker. The prisoners were charged with a violation of a Federal act of 1913, which forbids the importation of the plumage of wild birds.

Edward Barnes, Acting Solicitor to the Collector of the Port, said yesterday that bird of paradise feathers and other plumes from slaughtered wild fowl were being openly exhibited and sold in shops in this city and elsewhere and that the Federal authorities were powerless to prevent it, because the act does not forbid the purchase or possession of such feathers, unless it is proved that they have been smuggled into the country since the passage of the act in 1913. When the Federal authorities have attempted to investigate the sale of such plumes the plea of the merchant has been usually that he bought them from a dealer who asserted that they were old stock which he had had in his possession for years and years. The traffic in forbidden feathers, which are among the most common of smuggled articles and the most difficult to detect, is said to amount to millions of dollars annually.

"The mere fact that a dealer possesses them," Mr. Barnes said, "even though six or seven years after the passage of the act, does not raise a legal presumption that they have been smuggled, the burden being upon the Government to prove probable cause for seizure, and probable cause must be established by suspicious circumstances and by other facts than the mere lapse of time."

Big Seizure Three Years Ago.

The biggest seizure of smuggled feathers made by the Government took place in 1917, when about $100,000 worth were taken from Arthur Arbib, an Armenian dealer, who was convicted before Federal Judge Martin T. Manton, but was allowed to go on payment of a fine of $5,000, on his plea that he was sick and a jail sentence would kill him. Arbib is still alive and in the feather business.

The Federal act provides that confiscated feathers of this type shall be turned over to the Audubon Society for distribution to its branches and to similar societies, for exhibition and scientific use.

The bird of paradise is killed principally in New Guinea and throughout the Malay Archipelago during the mating season, where the birds hold what are called "sacaleli" or dancing parties. The males assemble in groups of fifteen or twenty in one tree and show off their magnificent plumage to attract the females. The usual method of killing them employed by the natives is to build huts in the lower branches of the trees which seem to be the intended scenes of "dancing parties." They bring down the males with blunt arrows, which stun them and do not destroy their plumage. Intent on winning their brides, the males take no notice of the falling of their rivals and stay until the last of them is brought down. They are frequently skinned alive.

City.

An examination has been ordered for male telephone operator, Grade 1. Candidates must be at least 16 years of age. The subjects and weights of the examination will be experience, 6; duties, 3; citizenship, 1. Candidates must be familiar with the operation of the private branch switchboards used by the New York Telephone Company. The salary ranges from $960 to, but not including, $1,560 a year. There is a vacancy in the Fire Department at $984 a year.

United States.

The commission announces for Sept. 7 an examination for instrumentman, male or female, aged more than 22, in the Public Works Department, Navy Yard, Mare Island, Cal., at $5.60 per diem. Competitors will not be required to report for examination at any place, but will be rated on physical ability, 10; training, experience and fitness, 90. Applicants must have had at least four years' experience covering the use, adjustment and care of surveying instruments and involving knowledge of the stadia method of surveying, the setting out of stakes for construction purposes, the location of railroad turnouts, topographic and hydrographic surveying and plotting surveys. The completion of each year of an engineering course in a college or university of recognized standing will be accepted as equivalent to not more than nine months of the required experience. To be entitled to retirement with an annuity employes in this position must reach their seventieth birthday and have served fifteen years.

The Weather.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 6.—Forecast:

Air pressure is high off the Atlantic Coast and over the northern Rocky Mountain region and it is relatively low in the region of the Great Lakes, the Mississippi Valley and along the Southern border.

There have been local rains within the last twenty-four hours in the Atlantic and Gulf States and widely scattered showers in the great central valleys and the upper lake region. Fair weather prevailed in Far Western districts.

The temperature remains near the normal generally over the United States, except in the Far Northwest and the Pacific States, where readings are above normal.

The outlook is for considerable cloudiness and showers over practically all districts east of the Mississippi River during the next forty-eight hours.

No important temperature changes are indicated for the Eastern half of the country during Saturday and Sunday.

FORECAST FOR TODAY AND SUNDAY.

Northern New England—Partly cloudy Saturday; Sunday local showers; not much change in temperature.

Southern New England, Eastern New York, Eastern Pennsylvania and New Jersey—Partly cloudy Saturday and Sunday, probably occasional showers; not much change in temperature.

Western New York—Local thundershowers probable Saturday and Sunday; not much change in temperature.

The temperature record for the twenty-four hours ended at 11 P. M., taken from the thermometer at the local office of the United States Weather Bureau, is as follows:

	1920.	1919.		1920.	1919.

Stocks and Sterling Exchange Recover on Polish News—Short Covering Chief Factor.

After a fresh downward dip yesterday, which established a number of new low records among industrial issues, the stock market turned upward. The quality of business indicated that the covering of short contracts accounted for most of the improvement and this buying seemed to have its roots in a favorable interpretation of British-Russian exchanges over Poland. The diplomatic and military news was, however, conflicting on important points and it was found difficult to derive from late afternoon dispatches any hope that the efforts to capture Warsaw would be discontinued by anything happening in London. Stocks were decidedly uneasy in the late trading, several developing sudden spells of weakness, but final prices, on the whole, were firm. The true measure of the price trend lay in the recoveries from bottom quotations and these were fairly extensive in cases of railroad, steel and oil issues.

Probably the stock market took heart for its recovery from the action of the foreign exchanges. As the disturbing news from Poland had been gathering force all week as a bearish factor in the price movement, the short interest was naturally watching London and Continental exchanges for reflection of any positive developments looking toward peace. Sterling enjoyed a sharp advance when the cables told of a conciliatory attitude on the part of the Russian Soviet representatives at the British capital, an upward swing of 6¼ cents to the pound occurring in a half hour. It was then that the tide turned in stocks. There seemed to be no further calling of loans on an important scale, a process which had sadly unsettled one or more pools the day before and disrupted the industrial stocks, and the demand for call funds was light. It was noticeable, however, that when afternoon purchasers brought about the price recovery the call rate rose from 6 to 7 per cent.

The day's trading told nothing upon which deductions could be made about the future course of prices. Short covering frequently brings rallies in a falling market and there is no way of selecting a permanent turn in price movement from a temporary improvement. It will be generally conceded by market observers that the Polish defeat and attendant threat of renewed war between several powers has not been the dominant influence behind the week's price decline. Rather one needs refer to the credit situation and the trend of commodity prices, together with persistent reports of cancelled orders, to find the most important reasons for pressure against stocks. The business outlook becomes more interesting and uncertain as time passes. Dun's index number covering a representative list of wholesale commodity prices, showed on Aug. 1 a decline of 3.1 per cent. during the month of July and a fall of 4.2 per cent. from the year's maximum level on May 1. Most of the downward readjustment occurred in breadstuffs, dairy and garden products with the clothing class experiencing further depression.

Evidence coming from many quarters indicates that, if anything, the country's banks have acted more decisively in the last ten days than before to reduce the credit structure. Pressure to have loans reduced presumably has had a part in the lowering tendency of wholesale prices. The readjustment processes which the Federal Reserve Board found rather general in June have evidently made important headway in July and thus far into August.

The grain and cotton markets fluctuated rather widely, wheat on the Chicago futures market first rising sharply and then declining for a net recession of about 3 cents per bushel. Cotton left off firm after an early reaction. Sterling exchange held its lead until the close of business, closing at 3.68¼. Continental rates, with the exception of German marks, gained ground.

NEED $1,500,000,000 FOR HOUSING HERE

RELIES ON PRIVATE FUNDS

Clarence S. Stein Advocates Special Session of Legislature to Provide Relief.

To adequately house the ever-growing population of New York City there should be spent in the next ten years $1,500,000,000 for new buildings, said Lawson Purdy, former President of the Department of Taxes and Assessments, testifying yesterday before the Lockwood Joint Legislative Committee on Housing at the City Hall.

"We must bear in mind that before the war, in New York City alone, we needed more than $75,000,000 to be expended in new construction of human habitations annually," he said. "Today, in order to keep up with the need, we should have probably twice as much, or $150,000,000, and we are at least one year behind in our building. That is a conservative estimate.

"In the next ten years we should expend in the City of New York probably $1,500,000,000 for human habitation. I do not think that in the city and State there is any likelihood under any empowering legislation of any very large fraction of that sum being provided by public funds. It is important, therefore, to do anything that may be done to remove any obstacles in the way of private money being devoted to the building business."

Mr. Purdy approved the new rent laws as meeting the emergency for which they were designed. He called the State Reconstruction Commission's program justified by the emergency, but he said he did not share the fears of those who opposed it nor did he wholly share the optimism of those who favored it.

Mr. Purdy favored tax exemption for income from mortgages on dwellings as well as exempting new dwellings from local taxes for a stated period.

Clarence S. Stein, Secretary of the Housing Committee of the State Reconstruction Commission, and other witnesses favored a special session of the Legislature to amend the Constitution so as to permit the extension of State credit on a large scale at low rates for moderate priced homes.

Despite the need for additional housing in 1919, said Mr. Stein, there were 378 fewer apartments in January, 1920, than in January, 1919. Figures furnished by the Tenement House Department, he said, indicated that whereas in March, 1916, 5 per cent. of the apartments were vacant, the number on March 20 last was one-third of 1 per cent., showing that fewer apartments were made available than were destroyed for other purposes. In new law houses in April there were 438 vacancies out of 397,515 apartments.

"Ultimately you are going to have the city so full and the demand for apartments so great that your landlord is going to find a way around the law," Mr. Stein added. He described the State Reconstruction Commission's program for relief and then referred to the partnership and co-operative schemes for housing which he said would "bear watching." Although some of these schemes were genuine, he said, others were designed to force tenants to vacate apartments or to accept a financial load they were unable to carry, and to force them to pay for a great many years a rent based on present costs rather than on decreased costs likely to come within five years or so.

If credit is not obtained for housing purposes, Mr. Stein continued, the city will finally be forced to declare an emergency "such as would exist where there is a great fire" and action would be taken, constitutional amendment or not. Robert Kohn, who was in charge of Government housing construction during the war, ventured the opinion that the State or the city could build as well and as cheaply as private builders and pointed to the Board of Education's construction of school buildings, which he said was an example of efficient Government construction.

Other witnesses were Clarence M. Lewis of the Citizens Union, Raymond Ingersoll, Andrew Thomas, an architect, and Municipal Court Justice Adam Christman.

BUILDERS DISCUSS PROBLEM.

Atlantic City Conference Proposes Several Remedies for Housing Shortage.

Special to The New York Times.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Aug. 6.—Architects, builders, engineers, labor men and others met here tonight to consider a plan to overcome present conditions in the building trade.

The meeting was presided over by E. J. Russell of the American Institute of Architects, New York. The principal address of the evening was delivered by Robert E. Kohn, a New York architect.

"The situation in New York with respect to materials is serious," said Mr. Kohn. "Materials simply cannot be obtained at any price. If an attempt were made to carry out the building program now contemplated in New York, a snag would be found at every turn.

"Building now is being generally discouraged and I don't know where it is all going to end. If the material were available we couldn't get the money. They talk about the shortage of houses and the housing problem. How can we supply houses? We can't supply them. Money is now so valuable it is not going into houses."

The conference was held under the auspices of the National Board of Jurisdictional Awards in the building trades industry.

Several remedies were suggested and a committee appointed to try to have them generally adopted.

TOPICS IN WALL STREET.

The Market Turns.

The more reassuring character of the Russian news, as cabled from London yesterday, turned the stock market after it had opened heavy and suffered some new low records. With the turn came some optimistic "literature" from the brokerage houses, and doubtless this, which usually is well circulated, will produce some buying orders, for many stocks certainly do look cheap if the news is to improve and conditions are even to appear better. How long the improvement can last, and how far it can go, is, of course, something for the future to tell, but there can be no doubt that there was a better general feeling than there had been on some of the earlier days of the week.

Money's Influence.

If one were so inclined he could extract from the action of the money market yesterday a bull argument of sorts. The call money market opened at 7 per cent. and eased off to 6 per cent., only to stiffen up again to 7 per cent. That performance would appear to augur a good demand for stocks, with the accompanying necessity for financing the purchases, and, it could be reasoned, if enough people were buying enough stocks to cause rates to stiffen in the late afternoon—a thing which had not happened lately until yesterday—it would be plain that the buyers were asserting themselves. It would indicate that long talked of buying power was at last coming to realization, and if one were especially optimistic—or wanted to be—he might go on and in his mind's eye picture the public coming back in droves. That, incidentally, would be a happy picture for Wall Street.

Cheap, but Not Plentiful.

Just what put money rates up probably remain one of those things never to be explained. Possibly, considering that the last two actual bank statements showed deficits, the banks were taking steps to prevent another deficit, as would be natural. Again, it may have been something else. But whatever it was, there was nothing to show that it was a result of great public buying of stocks which would have to be financed. In the first place, stocks bought yesterday, as some observers seemed to forget, don't have to be financed until Monday, and in the second place, while call money unquestionably is cheap, as measured by present standards, it is well known among the banks that it is not plentiful. A very slight change in the banks would move the rate one way or the other, so long as the range was moderate and kept within reasonable bounds. All things considered, it is likely that the recovery of the 1 per cent. lost at midday had no significance whatever.

Sterling Exchange.

Sterling exchange has had one of the most active weeks it has experienced in this long time. On Monday it was as high as $3.72, and by Wednesday it was down to $3.55¼, a difference of nearly 17 cents in the pound. But yesterday it recovered briskly and at the end of business was up to $3.68¼, having recovered all but 3¾ cents of its earlier loss. The weakness early was variously attributed to the European political situation and to the offering here of grain and cotton bills, with many holding to the former explanation and as many more insisting that the bill offerings were solely responsible. As a matter of fact, it was a combination of both. The political situation weakened the market and the weakness brought out a lot of hurried selling by timid individuals, firms and corporation managers who had contracted to deliver goods abroad for foreign moneys and who, noting the weakness and fearing a further depreciation, took steps to protect themselves against what they feared. In the sterling market, as elsewhere, weakness frequently begets more weakness, just as strength makes for additional strength.

No Commutation Surcharge in August.

The rumor that there would be a surcharge on commutation fares for the last five days in August after the new railroad passenger rate schedules go into effect was denied yesterday in local railroad offices. As in other instances, such as during the strike which tied up commutation trains in the Spring, the policy of the roads doing a large commutation business will be to play fair with the commuter. In the opinion of lawyers the fact that the commutation tickets for each month which are issued by the roads constitute a contract which cannot be abrogated is a debatable question and a precedent has been established, Congress having taken action more than once which resulted in the breaking of contracts. But while this is the legal opinion as regards the law, even the railroad lawyers say that it has not and probably never will be the policy of the roads to take advantage of the commuter in a case of this kind.

One Wild Rumor.

Many rumors have their origin in professional and other circles in the financial district and are put out to influence the market action of certain stocks. It is an active pastime and one that many traders are efficient in. Occasionally, however, the material put out is so obviously a canard as to be amusing. Yesterday it was reported that the Southern Pacific Company was negotiating to take over the Fruit Growers' Express. This was denied in authoritative quarters and little attention was paid to it in conservative circles, as it was realized that the Fruit Growers' Express is essentially an adjunct of the Eastern railroads in the transportation of the various Southern fruit crops and is owned by a number of the roads in the East.

Baldwin Oversold.

Shortly after the opening yesterday it was evident that pressure was being exerted again against Baldwin and the stock eased off to 103¼, a new low mark for the year. But when the foreign news showed decided improvement as the day wore on it became evident that Baldwin had been oversold, shorts running to cover fast and forcing the price up so that the stock closed with a net gain. Baldwin was not the only stock to show that short sellers had been too sure that prices would continue downward and in one or two instances it looked as if shorts had been squeezed again.

Middle States Oil Active.

Middle States Oil, which provided the main sensation in Thursday's market, was fairly active again yesterday and regained something over a point for the day. The selling wave which hit the stock on Thursday and was attributed to dumping by a pool which had been operating in it because of the calling of its loans was not apparent, and in some quarters yesterday's advance was attributed to buying by short sellers who were taking their profits at an opportune time.

Railroad Shares Somewhat Uncertain.

The railroad shares which have been moving into higher ground with fair regularity recently were inclined to hesitate yesterday and for a time they turned irregular. However, many of the low-priced issues advanced fractionally, as did some of the high-priced stocks, the reactions being generally in issues which have shown marked advances in preceding sessions. Sentiment in the commission houses regarding the rails is improving steadily, and the group which not so many years ago was the backbone of the market is being discussed and analyzed again as it has not been for a long time.

Central Leather Advances.

Central Leather shares, which have been a productive medium for the professionals on the short side, moved upward sharply yesterday after selling off fractionally from the opening quotation. The advance apparently resulted when shorts ran to cover, although a fractional reaction from the high in the late dealings made it seem that there was some profit taking on the long side.

UTILITIES AGAIN FACE PERIL OF SHUTDOWN

NEW PRIORITY ORDER ASKED

Acting Public Service Commissioner Barrett Appeals to Interstate Commerce Commission.

Because of the dangerously scant supplies of coal possessed by New York public utilities, Acting Public Service Commissioner Alfred M. Barrett telegraphed yesterday to the Interstate Commerce Commission, asking for an extension of the order under which public utility companies have priority in coal deliveries until Aug. 19. The telegram, which was addressed to Chairman Edgar E. Clark of the commission, said:

"In view of the fact that the public utilities in Greater New York are obtaining scarcely the absolute minimum of coal necessary to keep them in daily operation, and that only with the greatest difficulty and without the possibility of storing a pound of coal against the Winter's necessities, may we not have your assurance of the extension of time specified in Order No. 9 of the Interstate Commerce Commission on its expiration on Aug. 19, 1920. Your assurance of an extension of the order would be greatly appreciated."

The coal report to the Public Service Commission on Aug. 3 showed that the public utilities had on hand 234,000 tons, or an eight-day supply, a decrease of nearly 4,000 tons in two weeks, indicating that, even under the priority rules, the deliveries of coal to public utilities in New York have fallen short of supplying the daily needs. Commissioner Barrett said that, to be on the safe side, the utilities shoould have a minimum of 466,000 tons on hand at this time and that they normally have 814,000 in their bunkers by Oct. 1.

"Unless some radical steps are taken," he said, "to insure an increased supply of coal it is difficult to see how the companies can build up a sufficient reserve for the Winter."

It is feared that unless the priority order is extended the New York utilities will not be able to obtain coal at the rate it is consumed and will have to cut into their present eight-day margin.

EXPLAINS LOANS ON COTTON

Federal Reserve Board Denies Limiting Members' Action.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 6.—The Federal Reserve Board has not advised member banks as to what loans they should make against this year's cotton crop, Governor Harding declared today in a letter to the Department of Agriculture in answer to reports reaching the department that "due to an existing financial stringency stocks of cotton were being forced on the market at sacrifices in prices." Such action, the department intimated, had been prompted through "a ruling or other form of instruction from the Federal Reserve Board which limited loans on cotton to that only which was in process of shipment."

In answer to this Governor Harding explained that Congress had been requested early in the year to amend the existing statutes which originally restricted loans to individuals by national banks in excess of 10 per cent. of the banks' capital and surplus.

"Congress acted upon the suggestion of the board," Governor Harding wrote. "The amended statute now provides that for a period of six months out of any consecutive twelve months a national bank may lend to an individual, firm or corporation up to 25 per cent. of its capital and surplus where the excess of 10 per cent. is secured by warehouse receipts."

BREAK IN FINAL HOUR SENDS COTTON DOWN

SPOT SITUATION UNCERTAIN

Scramble for Closest of Active Contracts Pulled Market Up After Early Drop.

The uncertainties of the Russo-Polish situation and some fairly aggressive foreign selling, mainly for Japanese account, broke the cotton market at the opening yesterday and in the first hour or so prices went down a maximum of 50 points, with the average about 35. The weather news was not so favorable as on most days recently and there were more rains along the Atlantic than were wanted, but this did not check the early decline and it was not until a scramble started for October contracts that any turn came. Then, as the foreign news improved and the Liverpool market sent in higher closing figures, our market started upward and continued to mount until well into the afternoon, at which time prices were up 15 to 35 points for the general list and 67 points for October.

The scramble in October was another evidence of the precarious spot situation here at New York. With transportation facilities what they are and the big spot interests holding closely to all the actual cotton they can get, there is constant uneasiness in maturing options. October, of course, is not a spot month yet, but it is the closest of the active months, and the hedge sellers, recalling what happened in December, 1919, and in March, May and July this year, are already trying to get even with their commitments.

The bulge in October, which took that contract 102 points up from its early low, helped the rest of the market, but in the final hour the list became very nervous and irregular. Prices changed rapidly and without apparent reason, and certainly with no relation to each other. In the last few minutes there was a break which took every month from December on into net losses for the day which ranged from 13 to 45 points. October finished up 10 points at 32.05.

WHEAT ADVANCES SHARPLY.

But Tenor of Foreign News Causes Setback at Close.

CHICAGO, Aug. 6.—Sharp new advances in the price of wheat resulted today from continued anxiety over the likelihood of war between Great Britain and Russia. Prolonged dry weather in the corn belt threatening serious crop damage tended further to intensify bullish sentiment. On the other hand, reiterated assertions that the British Royal Commission was still out of the market as a buyer of wheat had no apparent influence as a check on the upturn in values. Opening prices, which ranged from 2½c to 5½c higher, with December $2.43 to $2.45 and March $2.46 to $2.47½, were followed by additional gains for December.

Subsequently the tenor of foreign news was construed as favorable to an armistice and there was a quick setback in prices. The close was weak, 3¼c to 4c net lower, with December $2.36½ and March $2.38.

INDEXES SHOW PRICE CUTS.

Recessions Reported in Dun and Bradstreet Reviews.

The general index number of Dun's Review for the month of July and Bradstreet's food index number for the current week both show declines. Dun's number, which is placed at $252,288, compares with $260,414 for July 1 of this year, and with $241,650 for August 1, 1919. At $252,288 on Aug. 1, the latest compilation is 3.1 per cent. below the $260,414 of a month earlier, and is 4.2 per cent. under the high record of $263,332 of May 1, this year. From that date the price recession has been continuous, and the present downward movement contrasts sharply with the tendency of a year ago, when a sharp rise was witnessed. While the Aug. 1 index number is 4.4 per cent. above the figure at this period in 1919, yet the yielding of some important markets has become more pronounced since the current month opened, and the trend toward a more natural price basis, which is largely the outcome of diminished consumption of commodities, may conceivably be extended.

Bradstreet's weekly food index number, based on the prices per pound of thirty-one articles used for food, is $4.53, which compares with $4.57 last week and $5.25 for the week ending Aug. 7, 1919. This week's number shows a loss of 8-10 of 1 per cent. from last week and of 13 7-10 per cent. from the corresponding week of last year.

EMPLOYES PLEDGE LOYALTY

New England Veterans' Association Promises Faithful Service.

As an indication that employes who have grown gray in railroad service are against further discord between executives and workers the following resolution, adopted at the annual mid-Summer meeting of the New England Association of Railroad Veterans, was made public yesterday by the Association of Railway Executives:

"That the New England Association of Railroad Veterans, embracing within its membership more than 2,000 employees of the New England Transportation lines, collectively representing many thousands of years of continuous employment in every branch of that service, in serious and thoughtful appreciation of the conditions which face the industry from which they derive their livelihoods at present and in the immediate future when the lines shall have been returned to absolute private ownership, bespeaks for its membership the exercise of loyal and efficient service and reciprocal co-operation with those upon whom devolve the duties and responsibilities of management, that the highest possible production may be obtained, and the future prosperity of the industry they in common serve assured; and be it further

"Resolved, That this resolution be spread in full on the minutes of this meeting, and given to the press for publication as indicative of the sentiment that prevails within the ranks of the railroad veteran movement generally."

THE CONDITION OF TRADE.

Evidence that the downward price readjustment is genuine continues, according to the weekly trade reviews. Many more reductions than advances are noted in all sorts of goods prices. Speaking of the situation in general, Bradstreet's review says:

While the one distinctly new feature of the week's happenings, the announcement of the granting of higher rates to the railroads, is conceded to be likely to have far-reaching favorable ultimate results, the bulk of the other news coming to hand seems to have, temporarily at least, a bearish tinge.

Dun's Review says:

Purchasing in anticipation of forward requirements is still restricted or practically absent in leading lines, reflecting the disposition of buyers to await further concessions and the effects of the recent cancellations and revisions of orders are now more clearly apparent in the appreciable curtailment of production at many manufacturing establishments.

High grade magazine splendidly printed.—Advt.

THE BUSINESS WORLD

COMMERCIAL PAPER.

Yesterday .....8 per cent. for the best names.
Thursday .....8 per cent. for the best names.
The quotations are for six months' paper.

Dress Materials Wanted.

The development of the Fall business in women's dresses shows that the manufacturers have some set ideas regarding the kinds of material which will be popularly used. There is almost a universal acceptance of satin as the trade leader in medium and higher priced garments. Next to satin, georgette, having overcome the handicap of too plentiful a supply, is considered good. For suit dresses and the better grade designs duvetyn and cassimeres are thought the best. Outside of the fabrics named there are very few others being used in quantity.

Gray Goods Easier.

Trading in the gray goods market yesterday remained dull, with prices continuing easy. There were sales of 39-inch 68-72s at 16 cents. In contrast to this were sales of 38½-inch 64-60s at 16 and 16½ cents. The comparatively low price for the higher count cloth was explained by the fact that it appears to be in more plentiful supply, with fewer offers received. Five-fifty-yard sheetings, 36 inch, were sold at 13¼ cents. Three-fifty, 39-inch, 72-120 sateens, were bought at 27½ cents.

Cautious in Purchasing.

At a convention in this city this week of buyers in notions, leather goods and novelties, attended by representatives of about fifteen retail stores of New England and the South, it was made evident that the present tendency in this market is to "hold off" on large orders. This is true even in staple lines where previously large orders had been given well in advance of the regular season. While in the matter of novelties, in which especially attractive beaded and fancy bags predominate, the prevailing disposition is merely to examine samples.

Sales Increase Shown.

Harrods, the London department store, according to figures received here by the New York office, increased its business for the first six months of this year by four and a half millions over the same period last year. This increase is said to be approximately 15 per cent. Statistics gathered by the concern show that last year about 65 per cent. of the business was done with regular customers and 35 per cent. with other shoppers. It has been found that the regular customers of the store are buying less but more frequently.

Buying Assorted Stock.

Retail buyers of silk dress goods are looking forward to the establishment of a complete line of "assorted stock" for Fall opening in spite of the fact that the present market is far from normal. While it is not expected that duplicate stock will be very heavy at the start of the season, novelties in the line will be carried, as far as practicable. In addition, it is expected that whatever may be found of good value will be gladly bought up to serve as a "stimulant" to the sale of regular goods, and it seems, from present indications, that there will be plenty of opportunity for such "stimulants."

When Consumption Improves.

Attention was drawn by a buyer of ready-to-wear to the fact that with prices lower the stores may expect their sales to increase. For this reason, he said, it is well to compare prices on various items to note where declines have taken place. On such items, he explained, the stores ought to supply themselves more plentifully than on goods where the reductions have not been so marked. "One reason," he remarked, "why the stores got overstocked was because they overlooked the fact that higher prices curtail consumption. According to the same principle lower prices improve consumption, and articles that can now be bought for less ought to be ordered more freely."

Toys for Abroad.

Some buying of domestic toys for export purposes is being done and the export field is described as especially good for mechanical toys. On other types there is stiffer competition offered by both England and Japan. The latter country, however, is suffering somewhat in the judgment of buyers and, though remarkable progress was made at the start, the demand for Japanese goods is now understood to be rather dull. The toys made abroad, it is said, do not take up the mechanical idea so thoroughly as do the products of the American manufacturers. An advantage held forth for mechanical toys is that price does not cut so important a figure.

⁂

New Rates Have Little Effect.

The additional freight rates effective later in the month have not helped to stimulate business much in the wholesale dry goods and ready-to-wear lines. With few exceptions the burden of higher rates will fall on the wholesalers. Visiting buyers expect the increases to be absorbed in the prices quoted to them and nothing has been heard of advances being asked on orders already taken for goods to be shipped later. On certain articles that do a good deal of traveling before they are ready for the retail counters the manufacturers feel their costs must be figured higher, but on a declining market less notice will be taken, it is said, of additional freight tariffs.

Labor-Saving Devices Sought.

A large selling organization in England has been making purchases of washing machines and other household labor-saving devices as a means of meeting the domestic service problem in that country. One of the difficulties found with American machines, however, was that the connection used abroad is different from the one employed here. In England the "bayonet" plug is found and the machines made for this country have the socket plug. Differences in voltage are also common. While the houses in England are not so generously supplied with electricity, it is felt that the greater use of current is assured and that a large field will then be opened up for electrical devices.

Stronger Tone to Silk.

The local raw silk market, according to H. L. Gwalter & Co., is stronger and prices have advanced about 20 cents a pound since the beginning of the week, under the influence of a better tone on the Yokohama market. While buyers are slow in taking hold, owing to the fact that many mills are closed or working on reduced time, there is considerably more interest shown, and fair-sized negotiations are pending for deliveries extending well into next Fall. At the same time, any cheap lots of spot silk find ready takers, indicating that supplies at the mills are running low, and insistent inquiries for special sizes reveal stocks in importers' hands as not over well assorted. Stocks reported at Yokohama are 34,000 bales, old silk included.

BUSINESS RECORDS

Failures of the Week.

Bradstreet's reports 128 failures in the United States for the week, against 153 for the previous week and 105, 149, 243 and 237 for the corresponding weeks 1919 to 1916. The New England States had 17, Middle 40, Southern 26, Western 19, Northwestern 7, Far Western 19. Canada had 15, against 24 for the previous week. In the United States about 78 per cent. of the total number of concerns failing had less than $5,000 capital, and 14.8 per cent. had from $5,000 to $20,000 capital.

In Town.

COMMODITIES PRICES.

Many Recessions Reported, but Values of Food Stay High.

Readjustment of wholesale commodity prices to a generally lower lever continues quite pronounced. There were fifty-eight recessions this week in the quotations received by Dun's Review, against twenty-two advances. The reactionary tendency in the grain markets remains a prominent feature, almost uniformly favorable crop reports and liberal receipts being reflected in early concessions on wheat, corn, oats and barley. But a renewed demand subsequently led to substantial gains in all cereals except wheat and oats. Changes in live meats and provisions were relatively slight, but, aside from beef, the prevailing tone in almost all the products was firmer and the trend, a sa whole, was upward. With many consumers away from the city on vacations, together with fairly large receipts, some reactions developed in butter and eggs; but cheese acquired increased firmness in response to a slightly better domestic demand and some improvement in export inquiry.

Some further revisions have occurred in the iron and steel markets and quotations on practically all the miscellaneous metals remain very close to last week's level. Erratic fluctuations in the raw materials and conflicting reports regarding conditions in merchandising channels continue to cause an uncertain feeling in cotton goods. The situation in hide and leather remains easy, while rubber is still weak, with further concessions in certain grades. A somewhat more confident tone has developed in raw silk.

In the following table are given the minimum wholesale prices quoted on selected standard commodities. They are corrected to yesterday and with them are given comparative prices for last week and the corresponding week a year ago:

In foodstuffs, flour again showed the largest decline when Spring patents fell of 15 cents a barrel. The best butter declined a cent a pound. Cheese, however, went up half a cent. The provision market supplied a decline in live beef, while live sheep advanced, the former falling off 50 cents a hundredweight and the latter increasing $1. Lard jumped up 30 cents a hundred pounds. Corn furnished the only advance in grain prices by a gain of 3¾ cents a bushel, whereas wheat dropped 7 cents and oats 4¾ cents a bushel. There were only two changes registered in the metal group, spelter dropping a fraction and tin jumping up 1½ cents a pound. Among the miscellaneous commodities brown sheetings and the standard print cloth constructions showed declines and rubber dropped a fraction of a cent. Sinshiu No. 1, the standard Japanese raw silk, dropped 60 cents a pound.

Anthracite Brings Premiums.

In the coal trade, with little change indicated in the quantities coming to this market, steam sizes are active, according to Saward's Journal, and No. 1 buckwheat commands the highest premiums. Sales of that size are reported all the way from $5.25 to $6. Domestic sizes were advanced 10 cents a ton by the companies on Aug. 1, with corresponding advances by the larger independents who base their prices on the company circular plus a fixed premium, usually 75 cents. The bituminous market is trying to adjust itself to the situation arising from the enforcement of priority orders and it is proving a slow job. There are those in the trade who believe the New England consumers will not take anywhere near the allotted tonnage for more than a very limited time at prices even approximating the present levels.

Dry Goods Merchants Buying Light.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Aug. 6.—Marshall Field & Co., in their weekly review of the dry goods trade, say:

"Current wholesale distribution of dry goods has been much larger than in the corresponding week of last year. A large number of merchants have been in the market, and while buying has been active, purchases are not heavy. Orders for immediate delivery from salesmen on the road have been light. No samples or prices have been furnished for Spring business. Collections are not quite up to the standard for the same period last year."

COUGHLIN BOY ALIVE, PRISONER ADMITS

Pasquale Threatens to 'Squeal' If the Stolen Child Is Not Returned.

CONFESSES HE WAS 'CRANK'

Arrest of Woman and Another Accomplice by State Police Expected Momentarily.

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 6.—A partly charred envelope bearing he name "George H. Coughlin" was found today in a stove in the room which Augusto Pasquale formerly occupied at 328 North Seventh Street. There were also bits of paper on which Pasquale apparently had practiced writing "R's."

"Unless the people who have the Coughlin kid return him in twenty-four hours, I'll squeal on the whole bunch," Pasquale threatened this afternoon. "I can't stand the strain any longer."

Pasquale, who a little earlier had admitted that the kidnapped Norristown baby is still alive, broke down utterly under a battering of questions from Detective Captain Souder and Major Adams, head of the State Police.

"Either they must hand the kid over to the Coughlin family or to the authorities," said Pasquale. "I don't care which, but one or the other. And it must be within the next twenty-four hours. I'm not going to stand this thing any longer. Either they bring back the child or I'll tell everything I know."

"But I don't think the woman who has the kid will give him to you. She has grown so fond of him since she has had him that I don't think she will give him up. She certainly is fond of that kid."

Pasquale's threat to tell all the facts in his possession came at the end of a day of grueling cross-examination. At first he admitted that he was "The Crank." Then he said:

"Well, the kid's alive. What are you worrying about?"

Pasquale's voice was identified as that of "The Crank" this afernoon by George H. Coughlin. The baby's father had never seen the man who called himself "The Crank," but had talked with him over the telephone. Captain Souder had Mr. Coughlin called to a telephone in Norristown, and Pasquale was forced to speak to him.

Pasquale was brought to the City Hall at 7 o'clock this morning from Harrisburg, where he had been hidden by the State Police since his arrest.

Further arrests, those of a woman reported to be the "brains behind the kidnappers" and of a man said to have been the go-between for the woman and "The Crank,' 'are expected momentarily.

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 6.—Augusto Pasquale, according to Major Adams of the State Constabulary, admitted today that he wrote the letters signed "The Crank" and got the $12,000 left by George H. Coughlin, father of the kidnapped infant. Major Adams denied that Pasquale is becoming a physical wreck from the long examinations he has undergone since last Monday. On the other hand, Major Adams said, the prisoner is composed and suave. He admits nothing unless he is convinced that the police have the proof against him. When they ply him with questions that would incriminate him if answered he smiles, shrugs his shoulders and says nothing.

The State and local police for several days have been convinced that the missing child is alive and that a woman is connected with the case. Pasquale's confirmation of their conviction has resulted in increasing the force of men who are now searching for a habitué of the underworld and his supposed sweetheart. They are acquaintances of Pasquale's and are believed to be the actual kidnappers and the present possessors of the baby. The name of the man is known to the police, as it was given them by Pasquale.

The State and city authorities said they had to proceed very carefully, as they wanted to return the baby alive to its mother. They did not known the temperament of the present keepers of the child nor how desperately they are being pressed. The penalty for abduction in Pennsylvania is life imprisonment.

The police believe the captors of the child are ready to abandon him if they can do it without detection. Both Major Adams and Alfred I. Souder, Captain of city detectives, said tonight they would not be surprised if the baby should turn up at any minute.

"I will take full responsibility for Pasquale's confinement," said Major Adams. "When the charge is made it will be either kidnapping or murder, the former if Blakely is returned alive, the latter if dead.

TWO KANSAS CITY HOLDUPS.

Seventh and Eighth Daylight Robberies Net Bandits $7,279.

Special to The New York Times.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Aug. 6.—The seventh and eighth in Kansas City's series of daylight holdups since April 1 took place today. The bandits escaped in both cases.

The first robbery netted $3,179. Three men in a car robbed a Kansas City (Kan.) bank messenger at Tenth Street and Minnesota Avenue at 11 o'clock of a payroll that was being taken to Wilson & Co., packers.

The second robbery took place at Ninth Street and Bales Court at 2 o'clock. Three men in a touring car stopped a messenger, also in a motor car, from the Standard Oil Company, taking $4,100, which he was carrying to a bank. The messenger and chauffeur told the police that they knew they were being followed by the bandits and tried to escape by speeding over a devious route.

CROWD WAITS FOR WILSON.

Carriage Such as Lincoln Used Attracts Washingtonians.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 6.—President Wilson found a big crowd waiting outside the White House grounds as he started out today for his second carriage drive of the week. Half a dozen moving picture operators who tried to film the carriage, which resembled the vehicles of the days of Lincoln, were "shooed away" by the police.

One of Washington's "rubberneck" wagons filled with tourists halted by the gates, and after a search had revealed that no photographers were aboard this party was permitted to wait until the carriage had passed.

The President lifted his straw hat to the crown and as the carriage top was down everybody got a close-up view. He smiled good-naturedly as a few hands were waved by way of greeting.

Orders Quarterly Reports by Roads.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 6.—Railroads having annual operating revenues in excess of $1,000,000 were ordered today by the Interstate Commerce Commission to submit quarterly reports giving the number of their employes of various classes and the services rendered by them. The purpose of the order, it was explained, is to provide more up-to-date railroad labor statistics.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 6.—Attorney General Palmer notified Samuel Gompers today that he would hear the plea of the American Federation of Labor for amnesty for so-called political prisoners next Wednesday. The Federation adopted a general amnesty resolution at its Montreal convention, and this will be handed the Attorney General.

REFUSES TO SUPPLY GAS FOR BALLOON RACERS

President of Indianapolis Company Declares Use for Such a Purpose Is Criminal.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Aug. 6.—The Citizens' Gas Company, the concern which supplies this city with illuminating gas, will not furnish gas for the national and international balloon races scheduled for this city Sept. 11 and Oct. 13, it was announced today.

In a letter to Theodore E. Meyers, manager of the Indianapolis Motor Speedway, where the races are slated to be held, J. Dorsey Forrest, President of the gas company, stated his company was unwilling to furnish even 1,000 cubic feet of gas for the race under the present condition of fuel shortage.

"There is no city in the United States that should, under present conditions, undertake to provide gas for this purpose," said Mr. Forrest. He declared the use of coal and oil for such purposes would be "criminal."

Mr. Meyers has telegraphed the officials of the Aero Club of America in New York of the action of the gas company.

Refusal of the Citizens' Gas Company of Indianapolis to furnish gas to inflate balloons entered in the national and international races is causing much embarrassment to individuals and foreign Governments who expect to compete, Major Charles J. Glidden, Chairman of the Aero Club of America Racing Committee, said yesterday.

Replying to Mr. Forrest's statement, Major Glidden said that Italy, France and Great Britain, as well as the American Government and many individuals, had counted on the Indianapolis supply. Thirteen cities, including as far west as Los Angeles and Seattle, have been asked by the Aero Club to help locate sufficient gas to insure the start of the races.

BEATS WIFE; KILLED BY SON.

Young Man, 21, Shoots Six Times When Pleas Fail to Stop Father.

FAIRVIEW, N. J., Aug. 6.—Louis F. Gross, Jr., a frail young man of 21, shot his father, a powerful riverman, to death this morning because, the son said, his father was choking and kicking his mother and threatening to kill her. Gross, according to his own story, first pleaded with his father to let his mother alone, trying at the same time to make him understand that his jealous rage was groundless. Then he grappled with the older, heavier man, only to find himself helpless. He ran upstairs to his own room, returned with the pistol, and fired six bullets into his father's body.

Gross telephoned from his home, at 14 Greeley Avenue, here, to the police station, and waited until a policeman came to take him to the Hackensack Jail on a charge of murder.

"You would have done the same thing," young Gross told Prosecutor Hart. "Any decent man would. I stood there as long as I could, and when I saw father trying to kick mother when he had her on the floor I thought he would make good his threat to kill her. It was this that caused me to go for the revolver."

To reinforce her son's story Mrs. Gross showed several bruises which, she said, resulted from her husband's rough handling.

The trouble started this morning when Mrs. Gross returned from Asbury Park, where, the son said, she had been with his girl friend, and Gross accused her of having been out with other men.

Gross was Captain of the tugboat Pembrook of the New Jersey Central Railroad. The family lived until six months ago at 174 Cambridge Avenue, Jersey City.

ENDS ARMY DEPARTMENTS.

Order Awaiting Baker's Approval Establishes Nine Corps Areas.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 6.—An order abolishing the six departments and establishing nine corps areas as provided in the Army Reorganization act has been prepared and is awaiting the approval of Secretary Baker.

The departments which would be abolished are the Northeastern, Boston, Major Gen. Edwards commanding; Eastern, Governors Island, New York, Major Gen. Bullard commanding; Central, Chicago, Major Gen. Leonard Wood commanding; Western, San Francisco, Major Gen. Liggett commanding; Southern, Fort Sam Houston, Texas, Major Gen. Dickman commanding, and the Southeastern, Charleston, S. C., Major Gen. Morrison commanding.

The geographical boundaries of the nine corps areas have not yet been announced. Each area would be under a Major General, as are the present departments, and there would be located in each four divisions. Two of these would be reserve organizations, which would exist largely on paper, and would be called only in case of a national emergency. One division would be of regular troops and the fourth of National Guard.

NEW YORK SENATORS LISTED

Defeat of 18 Members Here Also Asked by Rank and File Veterans.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 6.—Senator Calder and Senator Wadsworth and eighteen House members from New York are in the blacklist of sixty-four Senators and 264 Representatives, whose defeat is sought by the Rank and File Veterans' Association on the ground that they are "militarists" or voted for the Esch-Cummins bill.

Not all of the 328 men are out for reelection, but the organization believes in being forewarned. One of its circulars issued today says:

"If they are running for office see that they are defeated."

The ejection of the 328 men would leave just 133 men in Congress agreeable to the Rank and File Veterans' Association, which does not approve of either Republicans or Democrats, but indorses the Farmer-Labor Party, headed by Christensen.

Two hundred and fifteen Republican House members and thirty Republican Senators are included in the blacklist. The Democrats got off easier, with forty-nine House members and twenty-five Senators.

PUTS BAN ON TURNSTILES.

Revenue Bureau Declares Tickets Necessary for Taxable Admissions.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 6.—Information has reached the Bureau of Internal Revenue that certain amusement parks and other places to which taxable admissions are charged are using, in lieu of tickets or cards of admissions, automatic turnstiles and other mechanical devices which register the number of persons admitted or the amount paid for admission.

The bureau gave notice today that this practice does not conform to the regulations governing the collection of the admission tax, which specifically requires the use of tickets, except in the case of persons and organizations charging for admission irregularly and occasionally, and not more than four times a year.

Failure to comply with the regulations renders the person responsible to a penalty of not more than $1,000. Collectors and other internal revenue officers have been directed to take necessary action to insure compliance with the regulation.

CURRAN SEES WASTE IN MARKETS PLANS

CLASHES WITH O'MALLEY

Commissioner, at Board of Estimate Meeting, Declares Borough President Misstated Facts.

Henry H. Curran, Borough President of Manhattan, and Commissioner Edwin O'Malley of the Department of Public Markets had a lively tilt at yesterday's Board of Estimate meeting over the question of hiring architects to prepare preliminary plans for public markets in the Bronx and Brooklyn. O'Malley submitted a form of contract, which President Curran declared would mean a waste of $1,000,000 if approved.

"The proposal," said Mr. Curran, "is to pay Elisha H. Janes $55,000 on the approval of preliminary plans for a terminal market in the Bronx, and $100,000 similarly to Henry Barrett Crosby for a Brooklyn market, but eventually each architect will receive 5 per cent. of the cost of construction. This will be well over a million dollars. That is the wrong way to begin building these needed public improvements.

"The right way is to install a small but sufficient staff in the Department of Markets to oversee the engineering, architectural, transportation, cold storage, warehousing, transshipping and other problems of the new construction. That will involve a small annual expense. The architects' work is a minor feature of the requirements for planning and building these markets.

"By these contracts the city does little less than ask a gift of a million dollars to two favorite architects. I say favorite because those remarkable transactions do not even provide for a competition among architects. There are three other architects' contracts before the board concerning the proposed service of Charles B. Meyers to the Department of Public Welfare. That department has a budgetary account of $675,000 for repairs and replacements, and a considerable portion of this money is being expended under the paid supervision of Mr. Meyers, at the rate of 7½ per cent. on the cost of each job.

"Among the items of repair to the Home for the Aged and Infirm on Blackwell's Island which, according to this plan of the Department of Public Welfare seem to require the services of an architect are such matters as installing clothes poles on the roof, installing two electric fans on the first floor, painting the interior and exterior of the building, painting two fire escapes, painting two porches, painting two piazzas, installing fly screens in the windows. This is pure, joyful waste."

Commissioner O'Malley declared President Curran's statement incorrect. He said the architect would get $25,000 on one plan and $35,000 on the other, less than one-fifth of 1 per cent. If the plans were adopted the architect would, of course, be entitled to his commission for the supervision of the buildings, the Commissioner said. Leonard M. Wallstein, representing the Citizens Union, also objected to the architects' fees, and declared it had been estimated that the fees would amount to $3,000,000.

"No such thing," hotly replied the Mayor.

Mr. Wallstein then presented a communication to the board containing a report of the Port Development Committee, approving the establishment of wholesale terminal markets in the various boroughs, but declaring that the first of these should be established in Manhattan.

The Mayor asked Commissioner Whalen of the Department of Plant and Structures if his department could do the work. The Commissioner replied his staff could do it with extra help, but was tied up at present with other city work. On motion of the Mayor the matter was referred to Commissioner Whalen for consideration, and a report from him is expected at the next meeting.

Business Buildings Sold.

Joseph P. Day sold for Henrietta Nathanson to a client of Roger B. Wood, attorney the two-story garage at 340 West Seventieth Street, 21 by 100.5.

The five-story Central Palace, at 66 and 68 Sheriff Street, 40 by 75, has been sold by Joseph Kleinrock to Harry Wells and Sadie Blumenfeld.

The six-story building at 15 Baxter Street, 23.10 by 81, has been sold by the Church of St. Joachim Corporation to Angelo Sivari.

The two-story building at the northwest corner of Watts and Sullivan Streets, 24 by 24, has been sold by Bessie R. Humphrey and Edward W. Remsen to Carrie R. Frantz.

The seven-story loft at 256 West Twenty-third Street, 25 by 98.9, has been sold by John J. Cavanaugh to Emidio Mele.

Staten Island.

Cornelius G. Golff sold for Leo M. Prince two lots on Pennsylvania Avenue, near Fox Hill Terrace and close to the United States Fox Hill Hospital at Rosebank, to Antonio Panza, who will build a dwelling. The same broker also sold for George St. John Sheffield two lots on North Burgher Avenue, West New Brighton, to M. Jones, who is having plans prepared for a dwelling.

James S. Graham, who recently purchased a home at Woodland Terrace, S. I., and grounds consisting of sixteen lots, has already resold the property to I. V. Chapman, who will occupy it.

Mr. Graham also sold one of the five stucco houses being built on Barnes Avenue, between Ninth and Tenth Streets, Woodland Terrace.

Commercial Leases.

William B. May has concluded a long-term lease with renewals on the property at the northwest corner of Broadway and Sixty-seventh Street, having a frontage on Broadway of 85 feet and on Sixty-seventh Street of 131 feet. It is the intention of the lessee to improve the property with a building to be used for showrooms. The same firm has also concluded a long-term lease with renewals of the southwest corner of Broadway and Eighty-first Street, the lease being made for Charles L. Bernheimer, owner. The property will probably be improved with a building to be used for retail purposes.

Housing Project for Employes.

The Robert Gair Company is planning a big residential development for its employes near the big plant of the company at Piermont, N. Y. The first six houses in a group of forty that is contemplated will be built by the J. C. Lyon's Sons Company of New York City, which has received the general contract. The houses, which will cost between $4,000 and $5,000 each, will be one-story in height. Work will begin at once.

Queens Borough Transactions.

Ira L. Terry has sold for Quincy B. Street his residence at 30 Chestnut Street, Flushing, to John I. Doherty. The property comprises a plot 70 by 275.

Frank J. Magerle sold for Mrs. Mary J. Barry a three-story store property at 4,351 Jamaica Avenue, Richmond Hill, now occupied by the Federal Food Store, to a client who will occupy it at the expiration of the lease.

New Home for Synagogue.

Jules Nehring has leased for the estate of Robert E. Westcott a large hall for church purposes to the Free Synagogue of Washington Heights. Dr. Stephen S. Wise and Dr. Sidney E. Goldstein, Rabbis. The hall is located at 502 West 163d Street.

SALES IN BROOKLYN.

Demand for Both Business and Residential Properties.

The factory formerly occupied by the E. A. Durham Shoe Manufacturing Company at 94 Stockholm Street has been sold to the Brandt Manufacturing Company, now at 90 Rockaway Avenue, manufacturers of decorative linens.

Bulkley & Horton Company sold 110 Gates Avenue, a four-story one-family dwelling, lot 20 by 100, for Dr. A. J. Long for occupancy.

J. Lacov sold for Isador Bergs to a client for occupancy a two-story house at 1,039 East Nineteenth Street.

Henry Pierson & Co. sold the three-story dwelling at 197 Sterling Place for M. M. Miller.

Meister Builders, Inc., sold the three stucco flat houses at 142 to 146 Classon Avenue, on a plot 75 by 100, with a rent list of $20,000, to Calozzo & Mancuso for investment.

Realty Associates sold a three-story dwelling at 181 Seventh Avenue, 18.3 by 96, to Augusta E. Flick.

Henry L. Nielsen Offices sold the two-and-one-half-story dwelling, 625 Putnam Avenue, for William M. Rue to Jane A. Terry for occupancy; also the two-story dwelling, 1,518 Pacific Street, for Mrs. Green to Samuel Calvin.

Oliver E. Yale & Co. sold for The Heights Company to a client 22 Willow Street, a three-story one-family home on a plot 22.4 by 76.

William E. Harmon & Co. sold a forty-foot plot on the north side of Foster Avenue, near East 48th Street, to M. Bernstein; a thirty-foot plot on the west side of East Forty-ninth Street, near Farragut Road, to P. J. Muller; a thirty-foot plot on the east side of East Fifty-fifth Street, near Avenue D, to D. Papello, and a forty-foot plot on the west side of East Fifty-fifth Street, near Avenue D, to P. Fidica.

BUYING IN THE BRONX.

Frederick Fox & Co. sold for Charles T. Root the block front, 200 by 100, with one-story building, on the west side of Webster Avenue, from Oliver Place to 199th Street, to an investor. The property was held at $100,000. The entire block, Webster Avenue, Decatur Street, Oliver Place and 199th Street, of which the above front is a part, was formerly owned by the late John Purroy Mitchel.

Ely Maran and Sager & Shapiro sold to a client of Murphy, Crowley & Co. 399 East 160th Street, northwest corner of Melrose Avenue, a six-story building, on plot 45 by 100, containing twenty-eight suites and three stores, renting for $15,000 and held at $100,000.

Joseph P. Day sold for Dietrick Stueck and Julia C. Huntley to a client 2,382 Prospect Avenue, at the corner of 187th Street, a four-story building, 26 by 70.

The Benenson Realty Company sold the five-story new-law apartment at 1,926 Walton Avenue, on a plot 50 by 135. The house is arranged for twenty-five families and returns an annual rental of $12,500. It was held at $80,000.

Elizabeth Dorer sold to Anthony Gillespie the four-story flat at 320 East Sixtieth Street, 25 by 99.

Big Far Rockaway Project.

The Lewis H. May Company sold for Alleta M. Pettit 1,516 to 1,530 Central Avenue, Far Rockaway, L. I., to Sol Schildkraut. The property consists of old buildings on a plot 62 by 200, running up to the Long Island Railroad, and is in the heart of the new business centre. It has been held in the Pettit family over sixty-five years.

At the expiration of the present leases the purchaser will erect a business building to house a large national concern in the automobile industry. This plot adjoins the Queensboro Gas and Electric Company and is adjacent to the Telephone Company and the National Bank Buildings.

The negotiations extended over a period of months and were closed over the long-distance telephone, the owner residing in California. The property was held at $40,000.

DWELLING BUYERS FEATURE DEMAND

Homeseekers Acquire Private Houses for Occupancy in Many Parts of City.

NO SECTION IS FAVORED

Property at 130 East Seventy-ninth Street Valued at $60,000 is Sold.

Private house buyers figured prominently yesterday in a market characterized by a continued demand for moderate-priced residential properties. No particular section appeared to be favored, holdings in practically every part of the city finding buyers who desired the houses for their own occupancy.

William B. May & Co. sold for Mrs. J. M. Wallach the four-story residence at 130 East Seventy-ninth Street, on a lot 19 by 100, to a buyer who will make extensive alterations to the house. It is opposite other houses being altered for occupancy and has been held at $60,000.

The dwelling at 514 East Fifty-eighth Street has been sold by the Sutton Square, Inc., to Rosecrans Baldwin.

Rossario S. Mazzola sold to Ethel Quinn the four-story dwelling at 26 West Eighty-seventh Street, 20 by 100.

The three-story dwelling at 14 Henderson Place, 17.4 by 46, has been sold by Clara L. Limburg to Mary F. Watkins.

Morris Florea sold for Leon Dauber to Abraham Levett the dwelling 75 West 118th Street. The purchaser will alter into store and dwelling and occupy the store for his fur business.

Douglas Gibbons & Co. have sold for Cross & Cross 517 East Fifty-eighth Street, a three-story and basement dwelling, on lot 20 by 100, to a client who after extensive alterations will occupy as her private residence.

Cusack Company sold to a client, who will occupy it, the four-story dwelling at 110 West Seventy-first Street.

James H. Cruikshank resold to an investor 222 East Eighty-second Street, a three-story dwelling, on lot 20 by 100, held at $12,000. Schindler & Liebler were the brokers.

An Alteration Project.

The newly organized 28 West Fifty-seventh Street Company, with a capital of $630,000, has been formed to take over 28 and 30 West Fifty-seventh Street. The company is composed of H. Turchin, J. Rothstein and T. V. McLaughlin. The property consists of two four-story dwellings, on combined plot 50 by 100.5, between Fifth and Sixth Avenues. The new owners intend to alter these houses into small apartments. The seller, Abraham H. Brown, acquired the property last May from Charles T. Mathews.

The three-story dwelling, 16.10 by 99.11, at 39 East 130th Street, adjoining the southwest corner of Madison Avenue, has been sold by Fannie Braun to John J. and Elizabeth Magrath.

Luke Snedeker purchased the three-story dwelling, 17 by 100, at 260 West 121st Street, through Edward Willimann.

Harry Meschenberg bought from Katherine L. Minifie the two and one-half story dwelling, 25 by 99.11, at 161 West 129th Street, near Seventh Avenue.

Elizabeth Sudhop bought from Max M. Bowman the five-story dwelling, 18 by 100.5, at 361 West Fifty-first Street, near Ninth Avenue.

The three-story dwelling, 24.6 by 98.6, at 50 Barrow Street, near Bedford Street, has been sold by Hunt Diederich to Harold Shellack.

APARTMENT HOUSE DEALS.

OUT-OF-TOWN REAL ESTATE.

FOR SALE—"Chatham," one of the most desirable and historically important country places in America, located fifty-five miles from Washington, on a terraced bluff, overlooking the Rappahannock River at Fredericksburg. Within ten minutes of station, with excellent express train service, and directly on the main automobile highway from Washington to the South now being concreted by the Government. The brick dwelling house, 210 feet long, built about 1722, is considered the finest example of long Colonial architecture in America. While carefully preserving every original detail of panelling, etc., the house has recently been thoroughly modernized by its present owner, Mr. Mark Sullivan, with its own water system, electric lights, hot water heat and four bathrooms. The brick stable, the barn, the dairy, the two guest houses and the tenant houses are supplied with electric light and running water. The fifty-three acres include fifteen acres of lawn, with magnificent trees, vegetable garden, orchard, asparagus bed, etc. This is one of the two or three finest and best preserved of the Virginia Colonial Manors. Among its innumerable historic associations is the fact that Washington spent his honeymoon here. Can be bought now at an extraordinarily reasonable figure. Address your own broker, or H. W. Hilleary, 1000 Vermont Av., Washington, D. C.

ADRIATIC BRINGS STOWAWAY AND BABY

Passengers Back from Europe Include Dr. Flexner, Dr. Mayo and Harold Vanderbilt.

PURSE OF $500 FOR MOTHER

Delegates Tell of Medical and Surgical Conventions Abroad—Buyer Describes Wool Situation.

When the White Star liner Adriatic arrived yesterday from Southampton and Cherbourg she had 2,084 passengers of all classes, which was one more than the liner had when she left the other side. The addition to the list was a girl baby born to Mrs. Georgina Aboukira, a steerage passenger, on July 29, the morning after leaving Cherbourg. The baby was named Helena, and the passengers subscribed a purse of $500 for the mother. Both were doing well, according to Dr. Douglas Macree, the assistant ship's surgeon, when the Adriatic arrived at her pier yesterday morning.

Probably the most unhappy person on the liner was Gwelo Gorges de Bettancourt, a Portuguese stowaway, 24 years old, whose home is in Madeira. When the Adriatic left New York a month ago he stowed away on her and was discovered two days after the ship had got out to sea. All the money he possessed was a draft on a bank a Ponta Delgrada for $57. When he was informed that the Adriatic was going to Cherbourg and Southampton and would not touch at the Azores he burst into tears and said that he had intended to stowaway on the liner Canopic, which was lying at the next pier to the Adriatic and was sailing that day for the Azores and Naples. The Portuguese stowaway was handed over to the immigration officials, who will keep him at Ellis Island until they have discovered who brought Gwelo here, and will then deport him.

Doctors Back from Europe.

Among the passengers in the first cabin were a number of doctors and surgeons who had been attending the Red Cross conference in Geneva and the medical conference in Paris. Dr. Charles H. Mayo, of Rochester, Minn., said he received a degree from the Royal College of Surgeons in London and while there acted as honorary pallbearer at the funeral of Surgeon General Gorgas. He attended the British Medical Association Congress in London and the International Surgical Conference in Paris. Dr. Mayo said that England was advancing in surgery and that much would be accomplished in that branch of science in the near future.

Brig. Gen. John M. T. Finney, formerly of Johns Hopkins University, returned with Colonel Charles H. Fraser from the surgical conference in Paris, where they represented the United States Army. They said that the idea of the conference was to make permanent what had been accomplished during the war.

Dr. Simon Flexner of the Rockefeller Institute for Medical Research returned with Dr. A. Fred E. Cohn from attending the Red Cross Medical Conference at Geneva. Dr. Flexner said that the gift of $5,000,000 by the Rockefeller Foundation to the colleges of England for medical research was spurring them on to great activities. The medical staffs had been greatly reduced by the war, but they were rapidly refilling positions with young men who were hard workers. Dr. Flexner added that typhus epidemic in old Russian Poland was among the topics discussed by the conference at Geneva and that the medical authorities in Warsaw knew how to cope with it.

Wool Situation Abroad.

Fred H. Yapp, a wool buyer, returned after closing some big contracts in London. He said there was plenty of high-grade wool in the market, but the price was being kept up. The workers in the woolen mills who had received an increase of 170 per cent. in wages since the war began, had now demanded a further rise of 40 per cent., making a total of 210 per cent., and also a week's holiday on full pay every year and all the public holidays in the year. Mr. Yapp said the mill owners had agreed to an increase in pay of 26 per cent., and would, no doubt, come to terms, as they were too busy at this time to bicker and stop the mills.

Harold S. Vanderbilt, son of the late William K. Vanderbilt, returned on the Adriatic dressed in deep mourning, and said that his father's body would be sent over here later.

Major Harrison K. Bird, Treasurer of the Republican State Committee, returned with Mrs. Bird from a short vacation abroad. Another passenger was Major Vivian Gilbert, who fought with Allenby's forces through Palestine. Two of his brothers were killed and five wounded on the battlefield out of a family of eight.

Mrs. Seth Barton French, who has been doing war work abroad, returned with her son, William Barton French, who will go back on the Adriatic on Aug. 14 to atttend to important business in London.

BOGUS SOLICITOR IS SOUGHT

Youth Says He Canvasses for Publications to Obtain Education.

Complaints have been made to the police that a swindler has been making a house-to-house canvass soliciting subscriptions for The New York World and other publications, asserting that he will be rewarded with a free medical course in Columbia University if he obtains 500 subscriptions. Several persons from whom he obtained money began to inquire when the publications failed to arrive. An investigation showed that the subscription blanks which the man had distributed were not genuine and had been printed to aid his fraud.

The description of the youth furnished to the police states that he is 5 feet 6 inches tall, 21 years old, had light blue eyes, and was a plausible and earnest talker. On the most recent of his reported tours he wore a blue suit, khaki shirt, straw hat and low tan shoes.

30% OFFER IS WITHDRAWN.

One Client Supplied Funds for Exchange Deal, Says Montgomery.

No crowd besieged the offices of Montgomery, Macdonal & Co., in the Fitzgerald Building, 1,482 Broadway, yesterday to take advantage of the offer of 30 per cent. within sixty days on money invested "through us." A. H. Montgomery said the plan, through the medium of foreign exchange had been carefully worked out by Percy McCord, who is connected with the firm. He said the invitation to invest had been sent only to the 1,828 names on the firm's list of clients, and that during the day offers to invest $75,000 had been received. This money was refused, Mr. Montgomery said, because one of the clients had decided to put $500,000 in the investment. The name of this client was not made public.

"We don't want publicity and we don't want the public's money," said Mr. Montgomery.

Duels Made Legal in Uruguay.

MONTEVIDEO, Uruguay, Aug. 5.—The Senate today definitely sanctioned a bill approved by the Chamber of Deputies suppressing existing penalties on dueling. The measure becomes law on the Senate's action. The bill provides that the seconds must submit previously to a court of honor the question of whether an offense justifying the duel exists and determination of the offended party.

FLASH SEEN FOR BLOCKS AS MAN HITS LIVE WIRE

Mistaken for Explosion and Call Sent for Police—Victim Was Stealing a Ride.

John Snideiski, 25 years old, a brakeman, of 86 Third Street, Albany, is in Fordham Hospital in a critical condition, suffering from severe burns about the arms and body, which he received last night when he came in contact with a feed wire while riding on a New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad freight train under the Taylor Avenue Bridge at Tremont Avenue in the Bronx.

According to the police, Snideiski, who is employed by the New York Central Railroad, was stealing a ride on top of the train when he was seen by Fred Uniffie of South Norwalk, Conn., conductor of the train. As it passed under the Taylor Avenue bridge Snideiski rose from a sitting position on the top of one of the cars and his head struck the feed wire. There was a flash of light, visible several blocks away. A telephone call was sent to Police Headquarters saying that there had been an explosion at the Taylor Avenue bridge. Patrolman Moran of the Westchester Police Station, who was four blocks from the scene of the accident, noticed the flash and was told of the accident by a passerby.

Patrolman Moran found Snideiski lying beside the track. He had been thrown about fifteen feet by the force of the contact. An ambulance was summoned from Fordham Hospital and the Rev. Father Joseph Stanley of the Church of Our Lady of Solace, a few blocks distant, was called and administered the last rites of the church to the injured man on his way to the hospital. He was attended by Dr. Martin.

INVOKES 500-YEAR-OLD LAW.

Chicago Authorities Cite Ancient Writ to Hold Typhoid Carrier.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Aug. 6.—An English law, about 500 years old, has been invoked by the Corporation Counsel's office here in a legal battle to uphold the right of the city to isolate Mrs. Jennie Barramore, declared by the Department of Health to be a typhoid carrier.

The precedent is contained in an ancient act, known as the writ de leproso amovendo, and incorporated in the common law of England. It pertains to the detention of lepers or lazars.

Mrs. Barramore has a boarding house at 100 West 113th Place. About six months ago she was arrested on orders from the Health Department on the ground that, as a typhoid carrier, she was endangering the health of the community, although not a victim of the disease herself.

The 500-year-old writ upholds the right of the authorities to isolate a person suffering from contagious disease in these words:

"The writ de leproso amovendo lieth, where a man is a lazar or a leper and is dwelling in any town, and he will come into the church, or amongst his neighbors where they are assembled, to talk with them, to their annoyance and disturbance; then he or they may sue forth that writ for to remove him from their company."

Judge Sabat's decision on the application of this ancient writ to the Chicago case is awaited with interest.

RENEW TOLEDO BOND FIGHT.

Doherty Traction Interests Take New Step to Prevent Vote.

TOLEDO, Ohio, Aug. 6.—A step to compel the city of Toledo to make a court fight on the proposed $7,000,000 bond issue for the purchase of the city's transportation system was taken today in the United States District Court by attorneys representing Henry L. Doherty of New York, head of the traction interests here.

The company asked leave to file an amendment and supplement to its bill of complaint making the city a party to the suit. The suit is directed against the County Board of Elections and seeks to restrain the vote on the bond issue next Tuesday.

This is the case in which the United States Circuit Court of Appeals at Grand Rapids, Mich, earlier in the week overruled Judge John M. Killits and suspended the District Court's injunction against submitting the issue to the voters. It is contended for the company that the issue is illegal, a phrase which the Court of Appeals did not consider, it is said.

REFUSE TO HEAR 'OUTLAWS.'

Federal Mediation Board Turns Down Grunau and His Delegation.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 6.—The United States Board of Mediation and Conciliation failed today to hear a delegation of striking railway employes, headed by John Grunau, President of the Chicago Yardmen's Association, appealing in behalf of men anxious to return to work. The delegation was informed it would be necessary to file formal application, asking for consideration of their claims.

W. L. McMenimen, Deputy President of the Brotherhood of Trainmen, acting on instructions from W. G. Lee, President of the order, notified the board that the trainmen's organization was not a party to the appeal and that the claims of the strikers should stand on their merits.

SURROUND AUTO THIEVES.

Bay State Citizens, with Pitchforks and Shotguns, Guard Swamp.

WEBSTER, Mass., Aug. 6.—Two hundred citizens armed with shotguns and pitchforks surrounded a swamp on the Webster Gore tonight, where two men in an auto took refuge after being chased by twenty taxicabs filled with police.

The police and the fugitives exchanged several volleys. The men are said to have been stealing automobiles by the wholesale.

PREDICTS UNEMPLOYMENT.

Lloyd George Says Government Is Considering Precautionary Steps.

LONDON, Aug. 5.—Premier Lloyd George stated in the House of Commons today that the Government was expecting much unemployment during the coming winter.

He said the authorities were considering precautionary measures.

BULLFIGHTER 'COMES BACK.'

Gallo Reappears After Being Nearly Lynched Five Years Ago.

VICTORIA, Spain, Aug. 6.—Gallo, the bull fighter, made his first appearance here today since a fight five years ago, following which the public tried to lynch him for inferior work, and he left the arena under the escort of soldiers. Although he appeared nervous today at the beginning of his contests, he displayed excellent ability and disposed of two bulls.

Senchez Mejias, Belmonte and Gallo starred in the order named in meeting bulls of the Antonio Perez herd in the first corrida at the national festival. Each killed two bulls in brilliant style and all worked well with the banderillas and in their preparations.

TAKE MOROCCO POSITIONS.

Spanish Columns Overcome Resistance of the Natives.

MADRID, Aug. 6.—Four columns of Spanish forces under General Fernandez Silvestre, Commandant General of Melilla, Morocco, captured Mount Tafersit and adjoining positions yesterday, the Spanish High Commissioner in Morocco telegraphed the Minister of War today.

The report stated that the natives offered some resistance, causing several casualties among the Spanish troops.

KIN NOT NOTIFIED IN HELLAWELL CASE

THEY GO TO GET BODIES

Coroner to Hold an Inquest if He Can Find Any Witnesses of Auto Accident.

Thomas and E. V. Hellawell left for Binghamton, N. Y., yesterday to care for the bodies of their brother, Robert J., his wife and their 7-year-old daughter Maria, who were killed Thursday afternoon when their automobile was struck by an Erie train at "Dead Man's Curve" in the town of Kirkwood, ten miles from Binghamton.

Mrs. F. J. McKenna of 142 Logan Street, Brooklyn, a sister of the dead man, said the first that she and her brother, E. V. Hellawell, knew of the tragedy was when her brother, Thomas, called her on the telephone yesterday.

"He had read about it in a newspaper," she said. "It not only was a great shock to us to learn of the deaths of our brother and his wife and only child, but it was added pain to know that his brothers could have been there to have cared for the bodies hours before if they had been notified. They could have started yesterday."

Mrs. McKenna said she could not believe 7-year-old Maria had been driving the auto.

"My brother was a very careful driver," she said. "I cannot understand how the accident happened. My brothers intend to investigate thoroughly."

Robert J. Hellawell was Secretary of A. G. Spalding & Bros. of 126 Nassau Street, Manhattan. He lived with his wife and daughter in Prospect Park West, Brooklyn.

Special to The New York Times.

BINGHAMTON, N. Y., Aug. 6.—Coroner Frederick A. Goodwin said today he would hold an inquest if he could find any witnesses of the tragedy in which Mr. and Mrs. Robert J. Hellawell and their daughter Maria lost their lives yesterday. Thus far he has been unable to find any one who saw the accident.

A theory here is that the daughter was driving the car when the accident occurred. Her body was found lying over the wheel. Between the turn in the highway, which reveals the railroad track, and the crossing there is a stretch of rough road that none but an inexperienced driver, it is believed, would try to cover except at extremely slow speed.

The first heard here of the accident was when the crew telegraphed from Susquehanna that they believed their train had struck some object just east of Binghamton.

LEAVES EMPLOYES $250,000.

Clerks in Chicago Bank Benefit from Bequest by President's Widow.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Aug. 6.—Employes of the Continental and Commercial National Bank who were associated with the institution when it was called the Continental National and the late John C. Black was at its head will benefit to the amount of $250,000 through the will of Mrs. Eleanor Black, widow of John C. Black.

Following the death of Mr. Black in 1917 the widow, who was left more than $1,500,000, hit upon the scheme of establishing a trust fund the income of which is to go to the employes associated with the bank when Mr. Black was President.

Mrs. Black died suddenly on July 21 while touring in France. Her estate will amount to between $1,500,000 and $1,750,000 and will all go to charity, except the fund for old employes.

PROTEST GAS CASE RULING.

Newton, Nixon and O'Leary File Exceptions to Gilbert's Findings.

Seventy-five exceptions to findings of Special Master Abraham S. Gilbert in the injunction suit brought by the New York and Queens Gas Company challenging the constitutionality of the 80-cent gas rate law of 1906, were filed in the United States District Court yesterday by Charles D. Newton, State's Attorney General; Lewis Nixon, Public Service Commissioner, and Denis O'Leary, Disrict Attorney of Queens County.

The defendants assert Special Master Gilbert should have found that the evidence showed 1918 and 1919 and five months of 1920 were "abnormal, unusual and unprecedented" periods and therefore improper periods upon which to base findings as to the expense of making gas. It was set forth that the tabulation should have included a much longer period of business done by the company.

PATHE DENIES FILM MERGER

Not Controlled by New Company, Says Secretary Innerarity.

Neither the American Pathe moving picture corporation nor the Pathe Cinema Societe Anonyme, the French company, has allied itself with the Franco-American Cinematograph Corporation, nor has that organization any control over the Pathe companies, according to Lewis Innerarity, secretary of Pathe Exchange, Inc., yesterday. The statement that the Pathe company had formed an alliance with the Franco-American corporation was said to have been made at a dinner at the Ritz-Carlton on July 29.

"There has been no change in the control of the Pathe Cinema Societe Anonyme, the corporate name of the Pathe interests in France," said Mr. Innerarity. "Any rumors to the effect that this company is controlled by the Franco-American Cinematograph Corporation are without foundation."

SUGAR PROFITEERING DENIED

Defendants Assert 22½ Cents Was Market Price Last May.

The trial of Roulston-Eckert & Co., Inc., of 27 East 135th Street, and Andrew Roulston, head of the company, charged with profiteering in sugar, was resumed yesterday before United States District Court Judge Holmes and a jury. The Government alleges that the defendants sold for 22½ cents a pound 52,765 pounds of Porto Rican washed sugar, for which they had paid 10.48 cents a pound.

The defense asserted that the sugar had been sold at prevailing market prices, which was 22½ cents last May. Witnesses asserted that the market is governed by reported sales and quotations among the brokers, and declared that no definite price could be fixed. One witness said a fair profit would have been 2½ cents, but Judge Holmes ruled he could not testify as to what was the usual or ordinary profit.

The trial will be continued next Monday.

Federal and Chicago Authorities Seek Members of Alexander's Circle.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Aug. 6.—Police and Department of Justice agents, following the arrest yesterday of John Alexander, an international anarchist, are co-operating in a hunt for other anarchists in hiding here and the arrest of a dozen more, some women, members of Alexander's circle, is expected.

The arrests will mark the opening of a determined campaign by both city and Federal Governments against radical agitators who are using Chicago as their headquarters. It is proposed to deal local Bolshevism such a blow that it will never appear again.

Government officials say the radical agitation here is being directed by alien Communists who have come to the United States in recent months from Germany, the Baltic States and Russia.

Alexander, a confessed radical, draft evader and editor of Class Struggle, continued to be held incomunicado, while his attorney sought vainly to learn his whereabouts so as to take steps for his release.

TRAIN KILLS TWO IN CAR.

New Yorker and Providence Man Are Struck at Milton, N. H.

MILTON, N. H., Aug. 6.—Charles B. Brewster of New York and Albert W. Cox of Providence were killed when their automobile was struck by an express train on the Boston & Maine Railroad here late today.

The two men had been visiting in the White Mountains and were on the way to their homes.

The crossing where their car was struck is protected by a bell signal, and the engineer of the train said that he blew his whistle when he saw the car. Cox was driving the automobile.

World Outlook Ceases Publication.

The World Outlook, which was the official organ of the Interchurch World Movement, ceases publication with this month. It had been expected that the Methodist Episcopal Church would buy back the magazine, but its Centenary Commission at a meeting last week in Chicago voted against the purchase, as the commission is pledged to a campaign to aid the fifteen weekly Christian Advocates, which are the official organs of that denomination.

BANK $65,000 SHORT, FOUR MEN ARRESTED

Two Employes and Two Depositors Held as M. Berardini State Bank Robbers.

REPORT $16,000 RECOVERED

Say Cabarets Knew One as "Count of Monte Cristo"—"Mistakes" Since 1917.

Discovery of a shortage of $65,000 in the accounts of the M. Berardini State Bank at 34 Mulberry Street resulted yesterday in the arrest of four men, two of them employed in the institution. The American Surety Company reported also that it had recovered $16,000.

Early this week Edward de Sciora, the secretary of the bank, became seriously ill at his home at 655 Lexington Avenue and for the first time in several years the management of accounts was taken over by others in the bank. In looking over the books, Philip Berardini, Vice President of the institution, suspected that he saw evidences that the gross profits accounts had been manipulated so that unjustified credits appeared upon the withdrawal accounts of two customers.

A call was sent to the American Surety Company for Inspector Andrew Carl, who reported that the approximate sums credited to the two customers' accounts had been withdrawn from the bank. The first "mistake" in the books was discovered in the gross profits account for a month early in 1917, the apparent loss to the account being $2,300. The inspectors called this deficit to the attention of de Sciora and his bookkeeper, Alfred Rosi, of 2,018 Belmont Avenue, the Bronx, and, according to the police and the American Surety Company, the "mistake" was rectified by them.

When inspectors found other "mistakes" in virtually every monthly gross profits accounts since 1917 they tallied the amounts of these "mistakes" and then searched the depositors' accounts for similar entries. They found them in the accounts of Joseph Harmon, a stationer of 62 West Broadway, and Alexander Giordani of 386 Broome Street. Both men were arrested and, according to the police, Harmon furnished about $15,000 to cover the losses pending trial on charges of larceny and obtaining money under false pretenses.

The police said that the men had told all they knew about their affairs with the bank. All owned automobiles, detectives reported, and Giordani was known in cabarets as "the Count of Monte Cristo." De Sciora was married a few months ago, and his wife yesterday offered to adjust all the accounts, but later changed her mind.

REDS TO RELEASE GERMANS.

Plans Made to Repatriate 35,000 Prisoners—Allies Co-operate.

Plans for repatriation of nerly 35,000 former soldiers of the Central Powers held as war prisoners in Siberia were announced here tonight by the Siberian War Prisoners Fund.

Allied Governments, with the co-operation of several American relief organizations, have arranged for a ship to leave Hamburg for Vladivostok on Aug. 15 to return the first contingent of prisoners, it was stated.

Arrangements for repatriating all the prisoners are being made under the direction of Dr. Fridtjof Nansen, who investigated the matter at the request of the Council of the League of Nations. Nearly 750,000 prisoners originally were sent into Siberia, but of this number less than 35,000 remain.

In addition to prisoners in Siberia, scattered bands of Germans and Austro-Hungarians still are held in the Caucasus and Turkestan.

Rev. E. M. H. Knapp to Go to Maine.

The Rev. E. M. H. Knapp has resigned as vicar of the Episcopal Chapel of the Incarnation, 240 East Thirty-first Street, where he has been many years, to accept a call to St. Mark's Episcopal Church, Augusta, Me.

Contest Release of Dr. Hammer.

William J. Fallon, counsel for Dr. Julius Hammer, the Bronx physician recenty sentenced to Sing Sing for manslaughter growing out of an unnecessary operation, applied to Justice Richard H. Mitchell in the Bronx Supreme Court yesterday for a certificate of reasonable doubt and release under bail. District Attorney Francis Martin opposed the motion and Justice Mitchell fixed Monday for the filing of briefs.

REMARKABLE BOOK ON GERMAN LEADERS.

The Book Review and Magazine Section of The New York Times tomorrow contains a critical notice of a remarkable book by Eric Dombrowski entitled "The German Leaders of Yesterday." This book is compared with Carlyle's "French Revolution," and the review of it will captivate readers. The section beautifully illustrated and printed by rotogravure.—Advt.
